WHERE'S WANDO?

WE'VE HIDDEN WANDO SOMEWHERE IN THIS ISSUE OF 365INK. CAN YOU FIND HIM?

It was just a couple of days ago that I was feeling annoyed at the ignorance and avoidance people were showing about the whole NFL kneeling issue. I was probably going to go off on the fact that people don't seem to even want to try to empathize with other people's points of view. I realized, in an argument with a woman who seemed otherwise perfectly normal and nice, that there was not only no winning an argument, but it was impossible to have an argument. We couldn't even discuss whether the players had the right as citizens to protest injustice because first we had to back up a whole step as she was trying to argue that racism isn't an issue anymore. She has two minority babies in her family and they are perfectly happy, so... I didn't even know what to say. I was dumbstruck at her blind ignorance. It's then that you realize that some people just refuse to acknowledge reality. So I guess we're basically screwed.

But nevermind. There are crazy people in the world with guns, and that's all behind us now.

Some disgusting moron opens fire on a concert in Las Vegas, killing 59 people so far and injuring hundreds more. Suddenly the whole national conversation has forgotten about racial injustice and national pride and moved back over the gun control. Half of the internet is saying we should pray for Las Vegas but not do much else beyond that, except that this time of sorrow is not appropriate to be talking about political issues. We need time to mourn.

Sorry, but I'm on the other side of the internet. It's time to LEGISLATE for Las Vegas. Every time there's another mass killing, the two sides take their places to argue it out. One side has piles of statistics and carefully collected data about gun safety, violence and worldwide facts about gun control. The other side has the flag and their perceived version of the Constitution and, I guess, the ghost of Charlton Heston.

Apparently wanting to control some firearms makes you an enemy of the 2nd Amendment? Why? Can we not have the right to bear arms but severely limit easy access to those arms and simply eliminate the ones that just have no logical right being in the hands of civilians? Do we REALLY need to be sure we're armed in case we need to rise up against our own government? Seriously? You need to adjust the tinfoil lining on your hat, sir. Can we not give up guns that can easily be made into automatic weapons for anyone with internet access and $40? Keep your handguns and hunting rifles. Just put the semi-automatic military weapons in museums or in the military. Yes, I get that it's fun to go play soldier, but if the cost of that is radicals to mentally unstable people also having access to buy those things, is the price worth the freedom?

Gun safety and fatality rates in countries without our level of access to these weapons is not hard to track. It's almost as easy to conclude the truth with a cursory look at the facts as it is to see that global climate change is real, but still, it seems the same group of people also can't see that simple truth. I wonder if they look at a positive result on a pregnancy test and call it fake news too? Sorry to say that truth catches up with you, with all of us. And unfortunately, half of us have to accept the proliferation of gun violence and the destruction of our environment simply because the other half doesn't want to admit it's real.

These are the same people who fought for years in congress to protect tobacco corporations by saying there's no evidence that cigarettes kill, even though every person in America, sane or not, knew they were harmful. Everyone knows guns, especially semi-automatic weapons and military style firearms are just begging for trouble. For every patriotic argument that good people with guns are needed to protect against bad people with guns, there are a hundred realities where that just didn't happen.

I see that a long time gun proponent, one of the musicians performing at the Vegas Concert, has had the event profoundly open his eyes to reality. Caleb Keeter from the Josh Abbot Band chose to speak about it.

"I've been a proponent of the 2nd Amendment my entire life. Until the events of last night. I cannot express how wrong I was. We actually have members of our crew with [Concealed Handgun Licenses], and legal firearms on the bus. They were useless. A small group (or one man) laid waste to a city with dedicated, fearless police officers desperately trying to help, because of access to an insane amount of fire power. We need gun control RIGHT! NOW! My biggest regret is that I stubbornly didn't realize it until my brothers on the road and myself were threatened by it."

But hey, I'm sure in two weeks we'll all move on to something more important, like more Karashian babies, and the NRA can unclinch their butt cheeks again until the next patriotic gun owner decides that some people need to die for no reason.

Rinse and repeat, on full automatic. ■

12TH ANNUAL GLIMMER OF HOPE FASHION SHOW

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 12
6 PM @ HOTEL JULIEN DUBUQUE
(200 MAIN ST)

The Dubuque Community YMCA/YWCA's 12th Annual Glimmer of Hope Fashion Show will take place on Thursday, Oct. 12, at Hotel Julien Dubuque's Ballroom. Doors open at 6 p.m. with appetizers and a cash bar. The fashion show and program will begin at 7 p.m.

The emcee will be Katie Wiedemann, best known for her 14 years at KCRG TV9 News. The fashion show will feature members of the Dubuque Police Department and Sherriff's Office as the runway models.

This event will raise awareness of domestic violence in our community and support for victims of domestic violence, sexual assaults, and sex trafficking served by the Dubuque Community YMCA/YWCA's Victim Services Shelter.

"The Dubuque Community YMCA/YWCA is proud to partner with businesses that are committed to helping the 1 in 3 women, 1 in 4 men and more than 3 million children in the United States impacted by domestic violence," stated Sharon Covey, President and CEO of the Dubuque Community YMCA/YWCA.

The Dubuque Community YMCA/YWCA Victim Services Shelter is the only domestic violence shelter in the area, with the next closest a two hour drive away. Services provided include: safe shelter, crisis intervention, advocacy, empowerment, financial literacy, assistance with continuing education and/or job readiness, and community-based prevention education and training. All services are free and confidential.

Because of state-wide restructuring of domestic violence services in 2013, the Dubuque Community YMCA/YWCA no longer receives $190,000 in federal crime victim funding, making operating the Shelter a constant challenge. Funds raised through Glimmer of Hope are vital to keeping the Shelter open and accessible to those that need it most.

Seating is limited and advance tickets may be purchased for $40 at the Dubuque Community YMCA/YWCA (35 N. Booth St.), by phone at 563-556-3371, or online at DubuqueY.org. ■

LIVE AT HERITAGE CENTER PERFORMING ARTS SERIES
TONY DANZA: STANDARDS & STORIES

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 20
7:30 PM @ UNIVERSITY OF DUBUQUE HERITAGE CENTER JOHN AND ALICE BUTLER HALL (2255 BENNET ST)

University of Dubuque's Heritage Center continues its fifth annual Live at Heritage Center Performing Arts Series with a one-man variety show presented by Tony Danza (C'72, HON'04). The performance, Tony Danza: Standards & Stories, will be held Friday, Oct. 20, at 7:30 p.m. in John and Alice Butler Hall in conjunction with UD's Homecoming.

Perhaps best known for his starring roles on Taxi and Who's The Boss, Danza has also established himself as a song-and-dance man who received rave reviews for his performance in the hit Broadway musical comedy, Honeymoon In Vegas. The New York Times called Danza's performance "sly genius" and a "career high." In the past, Danza starred on Broadway in The Producers, A View from the Bridge, and The Iceman Cometh. He also performed in beloved films such as Angels in Outfield, She's Out of Control, and Hollywood Knights.

Danza can be seen in There's Johnny! on NBC later this year. The series, created by Paul Reiser, a recent Heritage Center performer, is set behind the scenes at The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson. Danza plays Freddie de Cordova, the executive producer of The Tonight Show. He's old-school Hollywood and the reigning authority. Danza has a special connection to the role, as he was a frequent guest of Carson's on The Tonight Show and even guest-hosted multiple times.

Danza has a knack for combining timeless music with wit, charm, and storytelling. He'll even add a dash of soft shoe and ukulele performances now and then. Danza will be accompanied by his talented four-piece band as he performs a selection of his favorite standards from the Great American Songbook and selections from Honeymoon in Vegas. Throughout the performance, he will interweave stories about his life and personal connection to the music.

Prior to the show, there will be live music from 6:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. on the CyberCafé Knapp Stage in Heritage Center featuring Jeff Theisen's "Cool Acoustic Tunes." Theisen's performance is free and open to the public.

Tickets are $44-49 for adults, $40-44 for UD alumni, and $15 for children and students. ### Happy Death Day (PG-13)

MOVIE BUZZ

Lionsgate has announced plans for a Times Square-based entertainment complex that will include attractions based around some of its biggest franchises, including John Wick, Hunger Games, Mad Men and more. There will also be restaurants and food options based on the properties, as well as a 4D theater and a Lionsgate studio store.

Sony has officially announced a Men in Black spinoff film that's set to be released in the summer of 2019. While there hasn't been a film in the main Men in Black series since back in 2012, the series itself remains relevant thanks to long-held plans by Sony to make a Men in Black/21 Jump Street crossover film, titled MIB 23 which now seems backburned. The story of the untitled Men in Black spinoff will focus on new characters and Will Smith and Tommy Lee Jones' characters are not expected to appear.

Twilight star Kristen Stewart is reportedly being considered to star in a big screen reboot of the classic detective series Charlie's Angels. Now, actor-turned-director Elizabeth Banks (Pitch Perfect 2) is looking to revive the franchise. Also mentioned as a possibility for the summer 2019 release is 12 Years a Slave Oscar winner Lupita Nyong'o.

It has now been confirmed that DC's in-development Joker origins movie will be separate from the DC Extended Universe film continuity. It will not feature the version of the supervillain played by Jared Leto. The Hangover and War Dogs director Todd Phillips is attached to co-write and direct the film, with Martin Scorsese in talks to produce. ■ turned, ideas laid bare, and secrets uncovered as each layer is peeled back. Much of her work is concerned with women's lives: with sexuality and family, household objects, a grandmother's love, stories of experience, and the occasional dark secret that may define a childhood.

RUNDE AUTO GROUP PRESENTS
LA MUSIQUE & MASQUERADE BALL
TO BENEFIT THE COLTS YOUTH ORGANIZATION
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 19
5:30-9 PM @ HOTEL JULIEN DUBUQUE

On Thursday, October 19, 2017, Tri-State area residents are invited to attend La Musique & Masquerade Ball, the first-ever event of its kind hosted by the Colts Booster Club with proceeds to benefit the programs and ensembles of the Colts Youth Organization. The Colts have been a treasure for Dubuque-area youth since being founded by American Legion Post 6 in the spring of 1963. The organization sponsors a variety of youth music ensembles including the nationally renowned Colts Drum & Bugle Corps.

The Masquerade Ball will feature music by Ken Kilian and his band with light dinner music during cocktail hour beginning at 6:00 PM, and then the Ken Kilian Swingtet from 7:00- 9:00. Doors open for the event at 5:30 PM. Ken Kilian's top-shelf groups emulate the great sounds of the classic big band era. Music from Glenn Miller, Benny Goodman, Duke Ellington, Count Basie and more is performed by Ken Kilian's groups.

"The Colts Booster Club began brainstorming ideas last fall to replace their bingo operation, which ended in the summer of 2016 when we moved to our new building in Key West," said Colts Executive Director Jeff MacFarlane. "Someone suggested an adult 'dress up' night — a date night, so to speak — and that eventually led to the concept of a masquerade ball."

After doing some research on the possibility, the booster club found that masquerade balls are regular fundraisers on the calendars of many nonprofits from coast to coast.

"At first the idea seemed a little out there," said Colts Booster Club Vice President Brent Smith. "Then we came to find a lot of good examples for how others hosted their events, and it didn't appear to be a concept that was currently 'owned' by any nonprofits in the Dubuque area. So we thought, 'Let's go for it,' and we secured a venue, reserved the band, and got to work with making the rest of the plans."

The event is being held in the Grand Ballroom at the Hotel Julien in downtown Dubuque.

"We are so excited to host our first masquerade ball at the Hotel Julien," said Booster Club Board Member Tami Barnwell, who is taking on the task of decorating. "By the time we add some uplighting to the Grand Ballroom, and put together some imaginative table decorations, we're excited to create a space that is beautifully-appropriate for a masquerade ball."

Evening attire is recommended, and masks are required of all guests. Those attending can choose a mask to accentuate their personality, or choose a couple's set to coordinate with their date. A limited number of masks will be available at the Hotel Julien.

Tickets for the evening are $50 and include one free cocktail and heavy hors d'oeuvres. The Colts Booster Club encourages you to purchase tickets in advance so they can make sure all guests are appropriately accommodated. However, tickets will be sold at the door. All guests must be 21. The event is sponsored by Runde Auto Group with support from a number of in-kind contributors as well. Tickets are available on the Colts website: www.colts.org

La Musique & Masquerade Ball is presented by the Colts Booster Club, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization whose sole purpose is to host fundraising events to support the Colts Youth Organization. The Colts Booster Club sponsors the Colts Car Wash each June to raise money for the summer tours of both the Colts and Colt Cadets Drum & Bugle Corps.

MASQUERADE BALL FAQs

Do I have to wear a mask? I'll feel a little out of place. Yes. All guests need to wear a mask. You will be right at home because without a mask you would definitely feel out of place.

What is evening attire? This usually means a tuxedo isn't required but the event is still formal enough for one to be appropriate. He should wear: A formal dark suit and tie or a tuxedo is also a fine option. She should wear: A long dress, a dressy suit, or a formal cocktail-length dress. While evening attire may suggest dark, neutral tones, this is a masquerade ball, after all, and colorful expressions can never be out of fashion.

Is this event for couples only? Not at all. But it certainly is a great 'date night' for the person who's challenged to come up with somewhere fun and different to take their partner.

Can I get tickets at the door? Yes. But ordering online in advance helps the Colts Booster Club make the event special for all guests.

Where do I get a mask? There are a variety of online masquerade ball mask retailers. Here are a few of our favorites: LuxuryMask.com, ChicagoCostume.com, SoCalDesignCo.com, MasqueradeExpress.com

Are there prizes or silent auction items? There will be a select number of silent auction pieces including an Iowa Hawkeye football game package, vacation opportunities, special one-of-a-kind instruments, and more. One guest will be chosen as the 'best dressed' of the evening. Attendees will discretely pass their ticket stub along to the person they believe to be the best dressed. At the end of the evening, the emcee will ask those with a collection of stubs to meet at a location inside the ballroom and the booster club will present a special prize to the one selected as best dressed.

Is the night going to be full of drum corps talk and videos? No. The night is all about having a great time! There will be a brief introduction from the Colts, and, of course, there will be video running at the side of the room so you can see how incredible the kids are the Colts meet each summer, but the evening is for dancing, socializing, and a touch of romance.

DARK CHAMBERS HAUNTED FOREST

BY BRYCE PARKS

The haunting of Dubuque returns to the forest for the first time in almost a decade. But it's not the Jaycees anymore. Instead, the man who brought us the fantastic frights of Dark Chambers in the Port of Dubuque is taking the fear back to where it was famously housed for so long.

After years of perfecting his scary craft at the old Varner Building behind the Diamond Jo Casino, Trent Johnson was looking for a more permanent location for his haunted attraction as well as a place with more flexibility to do more, both in terms of amenities that allow for a better scare as well as limitations of fire codes and other rules that make it hard to run a top-quality haunted attraction. At the Varner Building, they were limited to a capacity. With 20 or more volunteers, you can only have 30 guests in the building at a time. In the forest, they can have 100 ghosts in the woods, and the limits are off.

In his search for a new home, as he was not quite finding the perfect spot for a forever home, he could not ignore all of the benefits that the YMCA Camp on JFK Road provided. I could have told him that.

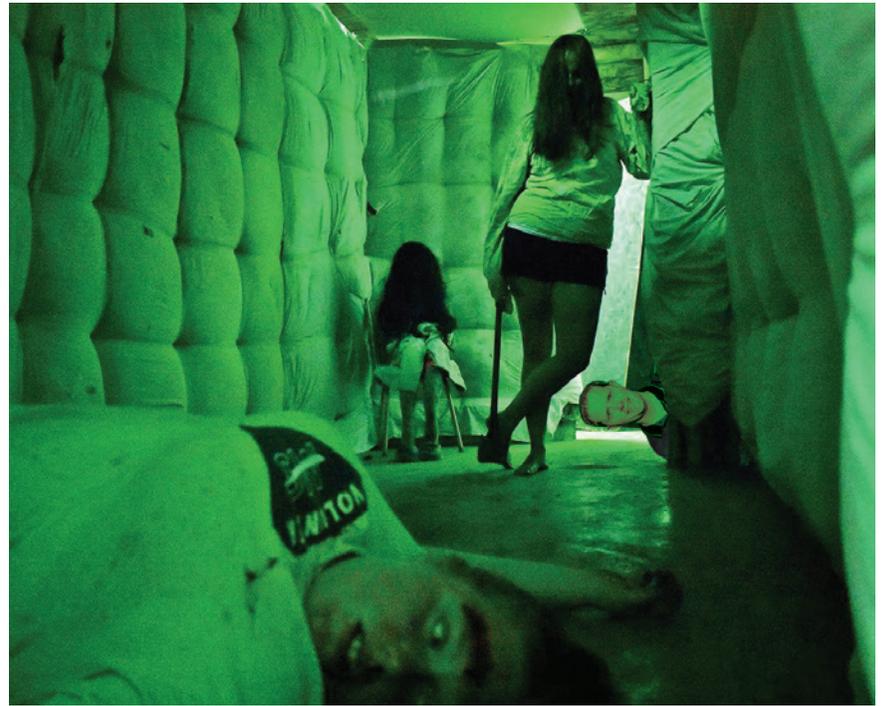

This is the part of the article where in full disclosure, that I admit that before my days of publishing 365ink, I was a Dubuque Jaycee, and I spent a good five years as the man who built and ran the Jaycees Haunted Forest. So talking to Trent about his new haunt was both a trip down memory lane for me, but it was also less of an interview and more so two guys trading tricks and secrets about running a good haunt at the YMCA Camp.

Now, for you older kids who have been to the old Haunted Forest run by the Jaycees, let me tell you. Forget what you know and expect to see when you get there. The best part about new blood coming into an old venue is that they are not limited by old expectations or "how it's always been."

The first things I saw when I got to the woods for a tour was just how extensive the indoor haunt will be at the forest. The main lodge which was one a snack bar and a place to mill about before you got in line to enter the forest is now the main feature of the haunt. The entire upper level of the lodge is closed-in and built-out with a half dozen amazingly set-up room scenes created to freak you out. One thing you'll know if you've been to Dark Chambers downtown is that Trent and his crew know how to build a great scare.

Each of these rooms is unique and, in the daylight, so incredibly clever. Great set-ups, good actors, misdirection and a big dose of the unexpected are what's on the menu once you enter the haunt, and you're getting what you paid for. Some of the actors in this attraction have been doing this for years. And if you're not burned out after a couple of years, it means you've got passion for what you're doing, and you love what you do. And the guys love what they do. And that's the small building.

The big building on the site with a slew of killer scares is actually completely built from scratch just for the haunt. Behind the lodge is a large paved area that once was where guests queued to enter the forest. Trent and his crew have put up a totally temporary building, and I think it's the biggest building at the camp. It's crazy! Look for new scares and insane experiences that you've never seen before.

"I told them we'll have this all built-out in the lodge with five or six rooms and laid out the lower build," says Johnson, "and showing Kevin from the Y Camp what were thinking about doing was one thing, but once load after load of walls started showing up I thought, if they're not freaking out now, they should be. But I want to set up and have a great year and get out of their hair and put it back just like we got it. We were able to put it all out and put it up so fast, it shows we have some efficiency and we'll be able to take it down as fast. I was so impressed with how much Kevin was down with all of our crazy ideas."

A good reason for the Y Camp to be cool with what they are doing is that the haunt is donating a portion of the proceeds of the event to the Y Camp. So your support of the attraction is also supporting the Dubuque YMCA too.

The indoor spaces are actually a bit smaller than the space was downtown, but then consider that they are just a part of a larger outdoor haunt and you quickly see that this year's attraction is considerably larger and longer than it has ever been before. Yes, you will be going back into the woods this year. In fact you'll go in there twice.

Plus, Trent says there's no guarantee that the scares won't start until you hand over your tickets at the entrance. There's a line along a gravel path from the ticket booth to the start of the haunt and as far as Trent is concerned, it's "game on as soon as they buy their ticket." So beware!

Moving to the woods brings new challenges as well as new opportunities for Dark Chambers. Being outdoors means they can finally have chainsaws in the haunt again. Yeah! It also means weather is now a bit of an issue, so take that into consideration. One huge pain we had to deal with at the Jaycees haunt was power and lights. These days they have LED lights, taking hours or even days of setup out of the equation.

"In my very first year downtown, the Circle of Ash people from the haunt in Cedar Rapids came through, and I told them they were light years ahead of me. He said 'No, I'm 13 years ahead of you and you'll be here before you know it.' And he said, 'The one piece of advice I can give you to jump start you is to go get some LEDs, you've gotta have em. They're cheap and so easy to work with.'"

Oh, how I wish we had LEDs in 1999!

One thing that's going to be a pinch on Trent's past expectations is the time limits. And you should consider it, too.

"We have to be done with ticket sales by 9:30 p.m. to send people through by 10 p.m. So that's a little brutal, and it's going to be hard, but we'll work with it."

So to the teens who like to come out and go through late, you'll need to move your schedule ahead an hour.

One thing Trent would love to have me share is that they're looking for volunteers to come out and help with the haunt. If you've always wanted to know what it's like from the other side of the scare, this is your chance. Younger than 14 will need to have adults with them. Older kids just need an adult consent form. But Trent would love to have you at the forest being part of the crew, or actors as he calls them.

Note also that the Zip Lines at the Y Camp are also still open in the fall. You can go enjoy those earlier in the day. It's possible they are only open on Saturdays in the fall, but you can find out and get all the details on that at SkyToursZipline.com.

Resurrecting the Haunted Forest and combining it with all the scares you love, dark turns and terrifying sights that will get your heart pounding is what Trent Johnson is bringing to life. Grab your friends and anyone else you think will help you make it out and come test your mortality inside the Chambers.

The Forest is open Oct. 6-7 13-14, 19-21, 26-29, NOT on the 30th and open again for the last day on Halloween, Oct. 31. There is a light fright version of the forest from 6 to 6:30 p.m. each night for $10. Tickets are $15 for everyone for the full fright which runs 6:30-9:30 p.m. You can also get a fast pass to the front of the line for $25.

PLEIN AIR PAINT OUT

OCTOBER 8-14

VARIOUS LOCATIONS IN DUBUQUE

It's no surprise to residents that Dubuque is known for its natural beauty and picturesque views. Our "Masterpiece on the Mississippi," set in the river valley that runs through the driftless area boasts breathtaking views from the bluffs as well as historic architecture and homes going back to the city's origins in the 19th century. But for many making their first visit, Dubuque's natural beauty is a revelation. Such was the case for many of the 45 artists who participated in last year's inaugural Bluff Strokes Plein Air Paint Out.

Many of those artists will return, joined by many more for this year's Bluff Strokes Plein Air Paint Out, to be held in Dubuque from Sunday, Oct. 8, through Saturday, Oct. 14. In all, 60 artists from nine states are registered to participate in the week-long Paint Out, painting the landscape and architecture of Dubuque and the surrounding area.

In addition to taking the opportunity to paint immersed in all the various scenery that Dubuque has to offer, participating artists can exhibit and sell their artwork as well as be eligible for a range of awards with a total of $10,000 in prize money. Paintings submitted for consideration in Bluff Strokes awards categories will be judged by noted Chicago plein air painter Stuart Fullerton. In addition to a number of sponsored awards, Bluff Strokes will give out a $2,000 Purchase Award, as well as themed awards like Best River Overlook and best Historic Building.

While artists will be spread around town painting scenes of their own choosing, Dubuque's historic Steeple Square at the corner of White and 15th Sts. will serve as headquarters and exhibition space for the weeklong event. Steeple Square will host a public exhibition and sale of paintings by participating artists on Saturday, Oct. 14. The venue will also host a Patron Preview Sale on Friday evening (Oct. 13) from 6 to 9 p.m. that will also include a light supper and live music. Admission for two can be purchased in the form of a Patron Pass for $125, of which $100 may be applied to the purchase of a painting. Saturday's exhibition and sale is free and open to the public.

Before we get too far into the details of this event, we might take a moment to step back and examine what plein air is and how this event got started in Dubuque.

Plein air, French for "outdoors" is a style of landscape painting in the open air taking inspiration from the scenery in front of the painter rather than in a studio, where a painting might be referenced from a photograph. A style with roots in the mid-19th century, especially among the Impressionists, plein air painting is rapidly growing in popularity in the United States with artists traveling to scenic locations for workshops and "paint out" events and competitions like Bluff Strokes. One goal of Bluff Stokes is to highlight Dubuque's potential and establish it as a scenic stop on the plein air circuit.

To learn more about how Dubuque has become, in such a short time, a plein air painters' destination, we sat down with two of Bluff Strokes organizers, Wes Heitzman and Jillayne Pinchuk.

"Actually, (Bluff Strokes) came about because my wife tried to get into a workshop in the Amanas right when she moved here and she was 19th on the waiting list," explains Heitzman, referring to his wife Barbara. "She's an artist. I thought, well, we moved back here because Dubuque is a great place for artists to paint, and I invited the artist who led the workshop here and he stayed with us a few days and looked around and said, 'Yeah, we could do a workshop here.'"

"I then did a lot of research into the demographics of people who were traveling and taking these workshops," he continues, "because Barbara had taken some things elsewhere and kind of found out about the 'Paint Outs' ... another thing that was going on and in this world of plein air painters. It took about a year and a half to get a nonprofit figured out. We ended up organizing under the Dubuque County Fine Arts Society and did a couple workshops initially and then got into the Paint Out into our second year of operation with Jillayne as chair."

That inaugural Paint Out was last year's Bluff Strokes event, which turned out to be a great success.

"It was good on several different levels," explains Pinchuk. "I think we host a fairly relaxed, comfortable event. We're not very regimented. We're here to support the artists doing well. I think they felt our genuine desire for them to do well. They also had sales that were better than they expected. I think they were impressed by how much they sold, not just that we had $10,000 in awards, which is pretty darn generous. This year 30 awards distributing the $10,000, so it is fairly likely that a lot of the artists will receive an award. Their biggest motivator is selling their work, though. We had one artist at least that sold seven paintings. That gets the word out. We had artists that got into juried shows who have been invited to Door County plein air event which is only 40 artists, who turned down juried shows on the East Coast to come to ours. No pressure! But the word did get around that we had a motivated population that was very interested in art."

What a difference a year makes. Last year, organizers were struggling to find enough artists to participate. "I think we were sending out calls for artists right until the very day of the paint out," recalls Heitzman. "We had 45 artists sign up. And this year, we sent out a call for artists and filled up very quickly just because of word of mouth and a lot of the artists wanted to come back."

"I think the other aspect is that they really love Dubuque and that's part of our original conception in getting this thing going," continues Heitzman. "Our mission is really to bring artists here. That's what we're trying to do. Dubuque is a target-rich environment for painters. We've got historic buildings, we've got the Mississippi with beautiful views from the bluff and also a variety of up close views. We've got old industrial that some of them like to paint. We've got historic homes. And we've got a lot of countryside, Grant Wood-type of terrain, as well as great parks. A lot of them like to paint, for instance, in the arboretum because there's a lot of color and a lot of visual material."

While plein air painters might come for the varied scenery Dubuque offers, they are also tourists while they're here and Heitzman notes the variety we enjoy as residents or tourists. "You can go to Brazen to eat but you can go to Paul's and have a burger," he notes. "We've got a wide range of places to have a beer or to have a meal. If you go to Door County, everything is expensive. Many areas of the country are that way. We've just got a lot of variety."

As previously mentioned, the awards are another reason for artists to participate. Pinchuk credits Bluff Strokes sponsors—Premier Bank, Hirschbach Motor Lines, Gronen Restoration, Conlon Construction, Cottingham & Butler, Andy and Debi Butler, and McCoy Group—for being able to offer such generous awards. "We couldn't do this without those sponsors and they also allow us to only charge 25 percent commission for the artists," she notes. "So we're not funding our awards through artists' commission. Our goal is to break even and give out as much as we can."

"Jillayne's husband is CEO of Hirschbach," Heitzman adds, "and Hirschbach is very engaged in the arts, which is a little bit unusual for a trucking company. So that has been a big plus for this. Jillayne also happens to be a painter and actually kind of took off in plein air in our first workshop."

"I had never seen it done," she admits. "I had never tried it out and it's a different genre. It's tough to go straight from studio right outside without having had a workshop."

"Plein air is more difficult than studio because you're trying to capture the light, which is constantly changing and the mood of a scene, which changes with the light," added Heitzman.

"The concept of the awards, what we're trying to do is encourage the artists to paint and take advantage of all the different types of scenery that Dubuque offers," he continues. "So we have an award for the Best River Overlook from the bluffs. We have an award for the Best Riverfront Scene. We have an award for Historic Architecture. Several of them are sponsored."

"And Industrial, because we kind of like industrial," Pinchuk offers, "from the trucking side of it we like some gritty type of artwork and a lot of those ended up at Hirschbach headquarters as well."

Heitzman notes that some plein air painters specialize in specific subgenres like industrial or flowers but that Dubuque offers a variety of scenery and the Bluff Strokes awards encourage painters to branch out.

Though a few artists might arrive early to stake out possible locations, most artists will be arriving in Dubuque on Sunday, Oct. 8 to begin the Paint Out, working when and where they like through Thursday, Oct. 12. While most locations and times are determined by the individual artists, there are a few scheduled painting events during the week, including a Nocturne Paint and a timed Quick paint.

The Nocturne Paint will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 10, starting at 5 p.m. "They might block it in but they are really waiting for the electric lights to come on so they can catch those lights and shadows," explains Pinchuk. "We had our winning painting last year done at 1st & Main with the three motorcycles from Harley-Davidson and it was incredible."

"The next day (Wednesday, Oct. 11) we have our Quick Paint and that is from 3 to 6 (p.m.)," Pinchuk continues. "They get their canvases stamped on the back so that we know that they started then—no cheating! That's going to be done at the National River Museum. And then they are allowed to spread out however far they are going to go but they have to paint, frame, and turn in a full painting by 6 p.m. So three hours to get going and get it in. So those are a little bit looser style and generally a little bit less expensive."

"Thursday night, we are partnering with the Millwork Night Market and so we are going to have a Hirschbach trailer as well as a Bard cement mixer being written on by street artists, Mario Gonzales," Pinchuk notes, "and then Adam Eikamp is actually going to do a mural on the Bard cement mixer. They're going to start around noon but it will be in full swing and the customers of the night market will get to watch their progress and the culmination."

Pinchuk explains that at last year's Bluff Strokes, plein air painters had the opportunity to paint a scene of Gonzales tagging a Hirschbach trailer. Hirschbach ultimately purchased a number of those paintings for their corporate office. Bluff Strokes painters will have the opportunity to paint Gonzales and Eikamp in action at the Millwork Night Market Graffiti Paint Out.

After five days of painting, Bluff Strokes artists will submit their work for exhibition and judging on Friday. Awards will be juried by noted Chicago plein air painter Stuart Fullerton. "He's well-respected in the plein air community," observes Pinchuk. "He has a tough job on Friday. There's a lot to get through."

Fullerton will have a great number of paintings to review. The 60 participating artists are allowed to submit up to three plein air paintings, not counting the Nocturne and Quick Paint submissions. In addition, participating painters are allowed to bring two previously completed paintings from their collection for exhibition and sale, though they would not qualify for any of the awards. But that adds up to a wide variety of artwork on display and available for purchase by the public.

All of which highlights another feature of Bluff Strokes. While the Paint Out provides plein air painters a variety of opportunities to work in interesting scenic locations, it also gives art lovers a chance to observe working artists in action as well as their finished artwork on exhibit at Steeple Square. Bluff Strokes organizers encourage witnesses to share photos of working artists on social media, tagging Bluff Strokes on Facebook and Instagram and using hashtags like #SpotAnArtist, #bluffstrokes, #BluffStrokesPaintOut, #PleinAir, etc.

The Bluff Strokes exhibition and art sale also provides a great opportunity for art collectors to begin or add to a collection. Average price for artwork at last year's event was about $350 with a range of between about $100 and $850, which is pretty reasonable for original artwork. By contrast, the average price at Door County's plein air event was $1300.

"But to know that you're getting an original, versus possibly and expensive piece of art that other people also have, there is a lot of pride in that, that you are possibly connecting with the artist," notes Pinchuk. "You can learn what their perspective was, what day it was. It captures that unique moment in time and will be a great memory. We hope to have people become collectors where maybe they're looking for that same artist next year."

While last year's Bluff Strokes "officially" concluded for participating artists on the Friday of the event with the patrons art sale, organizers encouraged artists to visit Farmers' Market Saturday morning to further promote the plein air event and exhibition and sale at Steeple Square.

"Every one of those paintings sold," states Pinchuk. "People watched them as they were doing their shopping and basically followed them over to Steeple Square and then bought the art almost before it was hung."

"We had several young women who came last year," recalls Heitzman, "and bought their first piece of art and said, 'I put it up on my wall and I love it! And I'm coming back.'"

VESPERMAN FARMS CORN MAZE AND MORE

OPEN DAILY THROUGH FALL

VESPERMAN FARMS (8149 STAGE RD, LANCASTER, WI)

Vesperman Farms boasts one of the biggest and most challenging corn mazes in the Midwest. Originally just a corn maze and pumpkins, the farm now boasts a trebuchet, rubber duck races, farm animals, climbing tires, an air cannon, and the snack barn with the caramel apples and the apple cider doughnuts.

Enjoy Kyle's 100-foot zip-line, giving kids of all ages the excitement of flying down the hill (not too fast) inches off the ground. Fast, easy and fun! But for many, it's the corn maze that brings them in droves. Each year a completely new and creative design is made into a-maze-ing images filled with mind-bending twists and turns.

Fall is pumpkin time, and Vesperman Farms has them by the wagonload. The pumpkin air cannon, which we got to see in action, shoots a pumpkin a quarter mile! There is also a real trebuchet (catapult) at the farm that will take a 20-25 pound pumpkin and chuck it up to 600 feet. Plus so many more fun things to focus on for kids and families.

The farm is open seven days a week, Monday-Friday from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m., Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. General admission is $8 for everyone ages 5 and up and free for kids under 5. Call 608-723-2542 for group rates and special times by appointment like school tours!

Visit VespermanFarms.com for more details on everything, and follow them on Facebook. From Dubuque, take HWY 151 N. to Dickeyville, turn on to HWY 61 to Lancaster. Turn left on Stage Rd. (there will be signs) and go two miles. Look for the big red "barn" on the right... and tell 'em 365ink sent ya! ■

The soft rock group went on to release 30 albums and more hit singles like "The One That You Love," "Making Love Out of Nothing," "Even the Nights Are Better," "Sweet Dreams" and "Just As I Am."

Bob Log III, Barely Losing
10 PM @ THE LIFT (180 MAIN ST)
COVER: $10
"Bob Log III launched into a mind-blowing set, finger-picking his beaten-up black guitar for a sound of steel string blues and heavy rock n' roll. The sound was reminiscent of Jon Spencer Blues Explosion if it had to be categorised, but his music would be better described as Jerry Lee Lewis crossed with a little of Tom Waits' heavy industrial sounds." —yorkpress.co.uk 2012

Barely Losing are a country rock outfit mostly based out of La Crosse Wisconsin and features a couple of former Dubuquers. The band takes a lot from bands like Uncle Tupelo, Blue Mountain, and the Blasters and makes their own rootsy Midwest sound.

COVER: FREE
Kentucky based singer-songwriter Jasmine "Wonky Tonk" Poole is an artist who is never afraid to put it all out there and leave a piece of herself behind. As a young girl, she was told that "Cowgirls get up in the morning, decide what to do and do it." With a sound that touches on folk, Americana, country, and bluegrass, all anchored by a touch of honky tonk and propelled by her punk attitude, Poole clearly took that advice to heart and applied it to her music. Described as falling somewhere between First Aid Kit, Modest Mouse and Tune Yards, and with influences such as Loretta Lynn, Poole paves her own creative path on her LP release, Stuff We Leave Behind, available now.

Erin Hedley continues to be one of the best singers in Dubuque, and her whiskey soaked, damned if I know country folk style fits perfectly with this show.

JACKYL TO ROCK Q SHOWROOM

Jackyl recently commemorated the 25th anniversary of the release of their self-titled debut album on Geffen Records. "We're very proud! The rest of this year is going to be really good, out touring and celebrating," says frontman Jesse James Dupree. One of those celebratory tour stops includes the Q Showroom on Thursday, Nov. 16 at 8 p.m.!

Aptly titled 25, Jackyl has issued a new career-spanning CD/digital download of 18 songs, featuring two previously unreleased tracks. "It's a good collection. We're excited about getting the word out that Jackyl has survived 25 years. There's so many bands that have fallen by the wayside... we can't get enough of each other."

Jackyl's roots start in Georgia with its wild, untamed approach to rock 'n' roll. Equal parts hard rock, heavy metal and Southern rock, Jackyl formed in 1991 and brought back rock 'n' roll—back to its down-to-earth, wild, fun-loving origins. Full of spit and swagger—and a "dirty" sense of humor to boot—Jackyl quickly earned a deal with Geffen Records. Jackyl's live shows were already legendary before the ink dried on the Geffen contract.

The 1992 self-titled debut album went platinum and featured notable rock radio hits like "Down On Me," "When Will It Rain," "I Stand Alone" and, most notably, "The Lumberjack," during which vocalist Jesse James Dupree performed a chain-saw solo. Dupree's chain-saw escapades on album and in concert became one of many Jackyl trademarks.

Touring mates in those early days included Aerosmith, Kiss, ZZ Top, Ted Nugent and Damn Yankees.

1993 saw "Mental *@%!" featured on The Beavis & Butt-head Experience, a compilation album of songs tied in with MTV's hit cartoon series; it was eventually certified triple platinum. 1994 was one of the most important years in the band's career. The second album, Push Comes To Shove, hit the streets and went gold. That August, Jackyl turned in one of the most acclaimed performances at Woodstock

'94 in Saugerties, NY, and the resulting double album Woodstock 94 went platinum including "Headed For Destruction" (a track from Push Comes To Shove). The live recording Night Of The Living Dead was released exclusively in Europe on Mayhem Records in 1996.

It wasn't long before Jackyl followed A&R legend John Kalodner (who had signed them to Geffen) to Sony Music's imprint Epic Records. Cut the Crap was released in 1997 and benefited from two industry heavyweights overseeing its recording: producer Mike Fraser (AC/DC, Metallica) and mixer Kevin Shirley (Silverchair, Aerosmith). This album spawned the rock radio hit "Locked and Loaded," which included guest vocals by AC/DC's Brian Johnson. It was the first time Johnson had ever recorded with any artist but AC/DC since he joined the band 17 years earlier.

In 2010, the band completed their release titled "My Moonshine Kicks Your Cocaine's Ass." Staying true to their working band roots, ever since 2008 Jackyl has been on the road playing the summer festival circuit as well as many other choice, off-season venues.

Tickets for Platinum recording artist, Jackyl, start at $25. The show is open to ages 21 and older and is standing room only.

SPEEDWAY DINER

BY RICH BELMONT

A diner is a small fast food restaurant typically serving American cuisine. Diners have very large menus of simply prepared, quickly cooked, high quality food. They rely on the support of a large customer base so they can continue to serve delicious, healthy, copious amounts of food from a vast and varied menu at very low prices. A diner's regular customers never leave hungry and never go broke.

Fortunately, we have one of these diners right here under our noses and most of us don't even know it exists. It's called the Speedway Diner and it is located inside the Highway 20 Auto Truck Plaza on Highway 20 just 8 miles west of the Julien Dubuque Bridge.

It is owned by Oz and Tanya Estrefi (es-streff-ee). You only have to eat at Speedway once to know the food is high quality comfort food, expertly prepared. The owners are obviously good at what they do.

For the past 13 years Oz and Tanya have owned the City Limits Family Restaurant in Maquoketa, IA. Speedway is their 2nd location they acquired in January, 2017.

Tanya was born in Greece and grew up in Zürich, Switzerland. When she was in her twenties she moved to the U.S. and began working in restaurants in Madison, WI. After moving to Chicago she became a pastry chef and later she and her husband managed a restaurant.

Oz is also from Greece. While still a teenager he moved to Chicago and worked his way up through the ranks of the kitchen brigade in several restaurants. He became a chef in a few Chicago steakhouses and was a head chef for Prime Table Restaurants.

HAMBURGER AND FRENCH FRIES

After a few more years Oz and Tanya decided to search for a restaurant of their own. When they discovered the City Limits Family Restaurant was for sale they purchased it and moved to Maquoketa without any hesitation.

Today, they each have more than 30 years' experience in the restaurant business. At this time two of their three children are also working in their two restaurants. Their son, Aziz and daughter, Shqipe (cheap-pee) are frequently in one or the other locations.

In a short time I have become one of the regular customers. What can I say: I enjoy outstanding home-style cooking, I am always served more than I can possibly eat and I know a good deal when I see one.

Over many visits I have observed the Estrefis are not only experienced at preparing first class food but also in choosing first rate staff. All of the servers have been friendly, personable and knowledgeable. They include Stephanie, Beverly, Frankie, Dayja, Barb and Holly.

Just about everything at Speedway Diner is homemade and made from fresh ingredients. All the sauces, batters and gravies are made from scratch and two soups are prepared every day from meats and vegetables chopped up in the kitchen.

Breakfast is served all day and both lunch and dinner are available from 11 am to close. The menu is extensive. Here is a list of the categories:

- Eggs Any Style
- Ten different Omelets

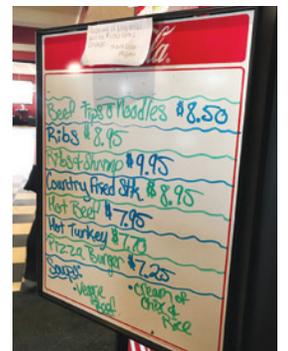

BREAKFAST SKILLET

- Eight Breakfast Skillets
- Breakfast Combinations (Steak, Chicken Breast, Pork Chops, Corn Beef Hash)
- Breakfast Sandwiches
- Biscuits & Gravy
- Oatmeal
- Pancakes
- Waffles
- French Toast
- Sandwiches
- Club Sandwiches
- Open-Faced Sandwiches
- Tortilla Wraps
- Salads (six of these)
- Hamburgers
- Chicken (grilled and fried)
- Appetizers
- Stir Fry
- Classic Dinners (Steak, Pork Chops, Breaded Veal Cutlet, Liver, Meatloaf, Ham Steak)
- Seafood (Catfish, Cod, Shrimp)
- Italian Dishes

Hmmm. Mentioning the Italian Dishes just made me realize these owners are both from Greece and the only Greek item on the menu is Gyros. I will have to speak to them about that!

Now you would think with all these categories of foods there are already too many choices, right? Nope, Chef Oz thinks we need to have more selections of his specialties. This is why the regulars know to check out the board in the entrance way. There are always from seven to twelve tremendous Daily Specials and most of them are not on the menu. Here are some of the favorites my tasting team and Margie and me have enjoyed:

BEER BATTERED COD

- Three eggs with sausage patties, American fries and toast
- Meat Lovers Skillet – diced ham, bacon and sausage on top of hash browns and topped with cheddar cheese
- Hamburger – one half pound of black angus beef cooked on a charbroiler with a cup of soup
- Cod Wedges – hand dipped in a homemade beer batter. Cod fillets in the shape of a wedge
- French Dip – slow roasted Italian beef on a hoagie roll with au jus and a cup of soup
- Steak Sandwich – an 11 ounce top sirloin steak on a hoagie roll with a cup of soup
- BBQ Ribs – a huge pile of spare ribs with a sweet BBQ sauce. These are baked until the meat falls off the bones
- Country Fried Steak – two large breaded and fried chopped steak patties covered with a delicious sausage gravy
- Hot Turkey with Mashed Potatoes – the turkey is roasted in- house, hand carved and served open faced
- Meat Loaf – straight choice grade ground beef homemade with bread crumbs, diced onions, celery, tomatoes and tomato purée and juice
- Roast Beef Dinner – slow roasted Italian beef served with vegetable and choice of potato

- Grilled Chicken – specially seasoned grilled chicken breasts served with a vegetable and choice of potato
- Veal Parmesan – two large veal cutlets are cubed in the kitchen on a cubing machine, breaded and topped with melted mozzarella. It is served with a side of spaghetti topped with a homemade meat sauce
- Chopped Steak – a half pound of chopped steak is liberally seasoned and topped with grilled onions
- Goulash – did you know there are many versions of Goulash? Here is an opportunity to show you are a savvy foodie. Ask your waitress what kind of goulash is being served. It could be American, Hungarian, Polish, Greek or Country. For example American is tomato based with ground beef and elbow macaroni mixed together. Country Goulash has a brown gravy and is ground beef with flat noodles. Hungarian is a mix of beef stew meat with onions, peppers and mushrooms. (Fun Fact: Gulyas is the Hungarian word for herdsmen. Goulash is made from the meat of the herd.)

All dinners come with choice of potato, cup of soup or tossed salad, dinner roll and dessert: a scoop of ice cream or tapioca pudding.

Diners always have baked goods, especially pies. So in keeping with Diner tradition I recommend you order a slice of homemade pie. You might recall I mentioned Tanya was a pastry chef. So it goes without saying her pies are scrumptious. Every day there are usually 4 or 5 choices. They might include Apple, Cherry, Chocolate Cream, Cookies and Cream, Banana Cream, Coconut Cream of many others.

When visiting check out the rack of really cool wooden toys for sale. These are made by Cliff Swanson of Manchester, Iowa. He has been making these toys his whole life since he was 12 years old. The only lapse was when he was an infantryman wounded twice in combat while in the 40th Infantry Division in 1952 and 1953 in South Korea. He has sold his toys in eleven states and they are available at Speedway Diner, Mercy Medical Hospital Gift Shops in Dyersville and Dubuque, Back Home Country Cookin' in Strawberry Point, Ace Homeworks in Dyersville, Main Street Market in Coggon or by calling him directly at 563-927-3170. Oh, and did I mention Mr. Swanson is 86 years old?

Now a word of caution. Make sure you are really hungry when you visit Speedway Diner. Even so you will leave thinking oh wow, I can't believe I ate everything but it was so good! ■

MOVING BOXES

BY MATT BOOTH

What did you do today? I'm sure you were extremely busy and there just are not enough hours to get all your work done. Some people love being busy. I think the only thing they love more than being busy is telling someone just how busy they are. Somewhere along the line, we've learned that being busy equates to being important. It is almost as if the busier you are the more meaningful your life.

People talk about their busy lives with a sense of pride. A jam packed schedule speaks volumes about the value of a person—even if there is nothing important on that schedule. Are you moving boxes all day long to give the appearance of being incredibly busy? The more boxes you move, the more crucial your existence. Make sure you get good and sweaty while moving those boxes around and please fall deep into the "I'm so busy" trap. Say things like this often, "I'm busier than a cat on a hot tin roof" or "I'm busier than a one legged man in a butt kicking contest".

The norm today is to be running around overworked and overwhelmed. Even if you are clearly not busy, make sure you say you are busy anyway. When was the last time you heard someone say "I'm not busy?" I've moved my share of boxes and wasted enough time pretending to be busy while not actually doing any of the important stuff. See, I'm pretending to be busy right now writing this article at 5 a.m. Hang on, I'll be right back—I've got to check my email and update my Facebook status.

OK, I'm back...When busy work, like moving boxes, gets confused with quality activities, it becomes very costly. In a life of infinite choices on what to do next, choosing which activities occupy your day determines your level of effectiveness. Some people choose wisely and focus on high-quality and high-impact activities that truly move the big pile forward. Others, however, work oh so hard on the humdrum tasks that they never really make significant progress toward results. Focusing on activities that move the pile forward is what really counts.

You've got to figure out a way to choose quality activities or you will be doomed to a life of mundane sweaty box moving. Oh sure, moving boxes once in a while is necessary—unless you're moving the same boxes again tomorrow and the next day and the next day. Moving boxes creates the illusion that you are squeezing as much work into your day as possible. Unfortunately, you are not moving the pile forward. More often than not, people waste a lot of time checking off useless tasks on to-do lists to feel a sense of accomplishment. Do not confuse being busy with quality activities. The number of quality activities you do is a great indicator of future results! Crap, there are two more boxes I have to move to the garage. Boy, they sure look familiar. ■

"It is your actions, not your wishes, that determine your future." —Matt Booth

SQUASHING MYTHS ABOUT CARBS

BY HY-VEE NUTRITIONISTS MEGAN HORSTMAN (ASBURY) AND AMY CORDINGLEY (LOCUST)

Fall has officially begun, and with the chilly season comes the opportunity for consuming delicious in-season produce. Great options that are plentiful during fall are spaghetti, acorn and butternut squash as well root vegetables, such as turnips and beets. Some fall produce are higher in carbohydrates than most other produce, so it often raises the question: "Should I be eating this?"

Discussion about carbohydrates is a hot topic right now, so you may be surprised to hear that 45 percent to 65 percent of your daily caloric intake should come from carbohydrates. It is important that you are choosing the right carbohydrates the majority of the time.

So what are considered the "right" carbohydrates? The carbohydrates that you want to choose most often are the ones that are the most nutrient-dense. These would include fruits, vegetables, whole grains, legumes and milk. They include plenty of fiber, vitamins and minerals.

Your fall produce is a great way to get these nutrient-dense carbohydrates into your diet. These nutrient-dense carbohydrates are also packed with whole grain, which means you are getting more nutrients from your food, such as protein, fiber, B vitamins, antioxidants, iron, zinc, folate, copper and magnesium. By choosing a whole grain, research indicates that it may reduce the risk of heart disease, type 2 diabetes, obesity and some forms of cancer.

The health benefits of consuming winter squash are endless, too! One cup of winter squash contains vitamin C, B vitamins, potassium, fiber and almost 60 percent of your daily recommended intake of vitamin A. This fall, make sure to experiment with winter squash. It's so easy to prepare, delicious and nutritious!

Another tasty in season item are beets. They are an excellent source of folate and so easy to prepare. You can roast, microwave, juice or even eat raw. Try the recipe below for a new healthy side dish. ■

FALL IS IN THE AIR...

Outdoor Planters: Freshen up your neglected planters with a fun fresh look that can take the cooler temperatures. Focus not only on color, but also on texture. Flowering Kale, Ornamental Chard, Pansies, Asters and Mums are great plants to consider.

Planning to overwinter your mums? Chrysanthemums being grown and bred now are very different than the chrysanthemums of long ago. Mum breeders have provided us with wonderful new colors, sizes and shapes of the ever-popular garden mum. But, as these new characteristics were developed, something else had to go. It takes a lot of energy to produce all those wonderful new qualities that today's hardy mums possess. Unfortunately, that often means they can't establish a healthy root system and do not have enough vigor left to overwinter.

In ground plants: If you are like me and are taking advantage of this wonderful weather, be sure to adequately water newly planted shrubs, trees and perennials both the night before and the morning following a frost.

Plant fall bulbs. Alliums, tulips, daffodils, hyacinth, etc., need to be planted in the fall so you can enjoy their color the following season. You have until the ground is too hard to dig in to get them in the ground.

Some people will tell you to prune back perennials in the fall. While this is an option, I recommend waiting until spring to do so. That way the foliage from this past summer will help protect the plant all winter long.

We are now past the point in which it's safe to prune during this growing season. Any plants pruned now will likely begin to grow again this season and therefore not be hardened off prior to cold weather, so hands off until the cold is here to stay...or better yet, early spring!

Lawns: Fall is for fertilizing. Help boost your lawns nutrition and apply a granular fertilizer like Scott's Step 4 or Scott's Lawn Pro Super Turf Builder Winterguard Fall Fertilizer. Fertilizing in the fall helps to build a deeper root system and ultimately a more lush lawn come spring.

Houseplants: Bring any tropicals or houseplants you may have had outdoors this past summer. Locate them indoors out of reach from pets and children but allow them to have adequate light. Tropicals like hibiscus can often look pretty rough during the winter inside, so place them out of the way and be sure to continue watering them when their soil is dry to the touch. Before relocating them, inspect their foliage for any signs of bugs or disease. I also recommend using a systemic insecticide to prevent bug problems from happening indoors. ■

WHITE GLOVES
AND MUD

BY BOB GELMS

Last week was one of the weeks we didn't publish an issue because this magazine is a bi-weekly. Last week was also the annual week for celebrating banned books. Yep, it was Read a Banned Book Week. I'd like to make two suggestions; The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn by Mark Twain and Cat's Cradle by Kurt Vonnegut. To help you make up your mind, here's this. Be a rebel. Check out the "Banned & Challenged Classics" at ala.org/advocacy/bbooks.

This week I'd like to write about The Residence: inside the Private World of the White House by Kate Andersen Brower. This book is elegant, graceful, stylish, poised, charming, refined, sophisticated, polished, cultured, and utterly fascinating. If I could think of more adjectives like the adjectives in the previous sentence I'd use them all and it wouldn't matter to me at all that I'd be entering the literary garbage dump known as "ad nauseam."

Ms. Brower's book is about the families and in some cases generations of families that take care of America's first family. These dedicated people stay for decade after decade as they watch the Presidential families come and go. They take care of Presidents, First Ladies, their teenagers, their little children, their adult offspring and everything in-between. They keep all the secrets. They know where all the bodies are buried not to speak of the giant shipment of Cuban cigars JFK took delivery of right before the Cuban embargo went into effect.

Until Ms. Brower published this book I'm quite sure not many people knew this story. After JFK was assassinated in Dallas, the whole world saw Jackie get on the plane to accompany her husband's body back to Washington and she was still dressed in the pink suit she wore in the motorcade. It was covered with the President's blood. Everyone saw the picture of Lyndon Johnson being sworn in as President on Air Force One with Ms. Kennedy still wearing that pink suit.

No one saw Ms. Kennedy back in the private residence in the White House, at 4 a.m., being helped out of that dress by Providentia Paredes. She was one of the in resident staff. And Ms. Kennedy said to her, "I thought they might kill me too." That, for me, was the most powerful moment in the book and I had to stop for a minute to settle myself.

For the most part, the people who actually ran the most famous house in America worked there for very long stretches at a time. They work for a number of Presidents. They took it all VERY personally. It is a bit surprising to me that they were able to separate politics from the family. One of their favorite families besides the Kennedys was the Nixons. By their account, the Nixon family was very generous and kind to the staff. If the staff cared about Watergate, they didn't mention it. Just like if the staff cared about all the beautiful women coming up the back stairs during the Kennedy administration, they didn't mention it.

Ms. Brower did manage to catch a few things that the public didn't know but might have guessed. The staff had favorites but they also had a few people that, let's say, might not have made the staff's Christmas card list. There are more in the book but I'll just mention two. Nancy Reagan was a holy terror. She was never satisfied with anything even tiny insignificant things. It would seem that Mrs. Reagan might have assumed a motto like, "The beatings will continue until moral improves."

The other challenging personality was Lyndon Johnson. He was crass, loud-mouthed, given to telling dirty stories and when he wanted something done, he wanted it done yesterday and he walked the halls of the White House checking that things were moving along quickly. Every time Johnson was unhappy, it was like he hit you full force with a flame-thrower. He would euphemistically kill mosquitoes not with a fly swatter but with a 12 gauge shotgun. There are more hilarious stories about Johnson and I'll let you read about them in the book.

One serious complication that turned out to be much ado about nothing was the election of Barack Obama. The staff was beside themselves. Nobody ever thought we'd see an African American President. Most of the staff working in the White House was African American and there were some concerns about an AM staff serving an AM President. Not to worry, this was Barack Obama and although the family was a little nervous at first it very quickly became a hallmark of President Obama's Presidency that as MLK said, the color of your skin didn't matter, it was the content of your character. Amen!!

The Residence by Kate Andersen Brower is enchanting. ■

CONFUSED ABOUT TOOTHPASTE?

BY DR. WILLIAM KUTTLER, D.D.S., KUTTLER DENTAL TEAM

I remember when the shelf space in a drug or grocery store devoted to toothpaste was really small. There were probably four or five brands total and NO choices within the brands. If you liked the flavor of Colgate, that's what you bought. Or Crest. Or several other brands that no longer exist.

I walked into a small drug store the other day and checked the number of toothpaste options available. There were over 80! And I stress that it was a SMALL store. The number would have been far greater if the store had been larger. How do you choose?

I wrote an article about three and a half years ago that was also about toothpaste, and while the main topic is the same, the emphasis is far different. Today, what I want to stress is how people can sort out the confusion. "Which toothpaste should I use?" is one of the most common questions we hear, and we love that people are willing to ask! It's complicated today, because not only are there so many choices, but there are lots of GOOD choices. There has been a lot of valuable research devoted to improving toothpastes. There used to be a joke about building a better mousetrap – well there are lots of companies who have committed large sums of money to improve the basic toothpaste.

First, no one needs to buy any toothpaste if all they are concerned about doing is cleaning plaque off of their teeth. Simply using your soft toothbrush effectively will allow you to remove plaque. The physical action of the toothbrush bristles against your teeth disrupts the microbial biofilm (plaque). So if your goal is keeping your mouth healthy that is all you need to do, along with cleaning in between your teeth.

Second, ignore ALL of the advertising about toothpastes that whiten your teeth. Almost all of them will clean stains off your teeth, and that's what allows them to claim that they are whitening your teeth. Using a certain brand of toothpaste isn't going to actually whiten your teeth. If you want to do that, talk with your dentist about your options.

So once we've eliminated those two topics, now we can focus on what various toothpastes can help you accomplish. Different brands and choices within brands can help you eliminate stain buildup on your teeth, help to reduce the amount of tartar formation around your teeth, aid you in reducing sensitivity, strengthen your teeth so you are less likely to get cavities, reduce the amount of inflammation in your gum tissue, etc. The list is nearly endless, but please note that I kept writing words like "help", "reduce", make you "less likely", etc. That's because there isn't a magic toothpaste that will totally eliminate anything. They simply help tilt the balance in your direction.

The trickier part comes in when you want more than one thing from a toothpaste. Lots of them do accomplish more than one thing, but sometimes it is at the cost of making another issue worse. For instance there are pastes that help reduce the build-up of tartar and reduce your susceptibility to getting cavities, yet for many folks those same toothpastes INCREASE their sensitivity. Another example is when you want to reduce stain build-up on your teeth. Some pastes do that by using a very abrasive approach. In the short term that's highly effective, but the long term result is that the abrasivity wears down your teeth, causing significant damage, and making them even more susceptible to stain in the future.

Generally toothpastes that have the ADA (American Dental Association) seal of approval are safe to use. After that, ask your dentist or dental hygienist for specific guidance for your individual needs and concerns. That's one of our favorite things to do—being your trusted resource to help you make wise choices around questions you have about your oral health! Remember, keep cleaning your mouth thoroughly, every day for good health. The rest is a bonus! ■

Gwen Werner's Good Advice

DEAR GWEN,

I'm afraid my boyfriend is going to break up with me. I can't let that happen! He keeps saying things like, "I think we should talk," then doesn't bring anything up when we're together. It's like he's chickening out of dumping me. I love him soooo much. We belong together. Please help!

—Sincerely, Heartbroken

DEAR HEARTBROKEN,

You need to wrangle this sucker in. We've got to make him chicken out for good. Luckily for you, I have a plan:

1. Steal his glasses. He will need you for almost everything! He won't be able to drive, work, or read Netflix titles. Can you imagine!? You'll be his savior! You'll be the difference between watching Real Housewives of Atlanta and Harry and the Hendersons. You'll be the difference between Kool-Aide and antifreeze!
2. Give him debilitating credit card debt. Any idea where you can find his social security number? Open as many credit cards in his name as you can, then buy him presents with his own plummeting credit score. He'll love all the gifts and affection! Then, when he can't get a loan for college or a car or a house, you'll be there to hold his hand and pick up the pieces! Bonus: He might move in with you.
3. Pop the question. There's no better way to put a hold on a breakup than a marriage. He says yes? You're in the clear! You're together forever! Give him back his glasses and hug! He says no? He's blind and broke and he paid for the ring already with those credit cards. So really, regardless, win/win.

DEAR GWEN,

I just started babysitting. I love it and I love the baby I watch, but I can't help but be almost paralyzed with fear that something bad is going to happen while I'm there. How can I stay calm?

—Best, Baby Baby

DEAR BABY,

You're right to worry...I mean, maybe the baby has a photo scheduled with the newspaper and three kidnappers disguised as photographers kidnap him on your watch! And then maybe the baby crawls out a window to pet some pigeons! And maybe he gets on a bus and crawls into some lady's purse and she carries him away! And maybe the three photographers chase him all over town and find him in a cage at the zoo with a gorilla! And maybe the photographers finally get the baby back, but the baby lights their crotches on fire! And maybe the baby is just following the plot to his very favorite storybook and maybe the baby is nicknamed after a pacifier and maybe the baby's mom is Lara Flynn Boyle and maybe this is just the plot to Baby's Day Out and maybe you have nothing to worry about even a little bit.

SPOT THE DIFFERENCE ANSWERS

ARIES
(MAR 21-APR 19)
Use your energy to plow through your feelings, pantry, and garage door. People don't like arrogant leaders, so make sure you never lead anything except yourself into certain doom.

TAURUS
(APR 20-MAY 20)
You can get many things accomplished but not if you keep standing at the bottom of a parking ramp, yelling up to the top, and seeing if you can catch your voice before it flies off into nothing. Be careful about manipulating others and also being eaten by bears.

GEMINI
(MAY 21-JUNE 20)
Take control of your decision, especially when it comes to the giant electrical storm above you that appears to be controlled by how well you interact with your emotions. People might tell you what direction to take and what choice is best for you, but ultimately you're the one who knows how many Hot Pockets you eat on average and can thus properly gauge just how serious you're actually going to be about taking care of anything at all.

CANCER
(JUNE 21-JULY 22)
You're likely to have some intense experiences soon, such as being able to imagine what it would be like to love another human or even yourself. More people are receptive to your deep, investigative nature when your clothes are fewer than 10 percent gravy.

LEO
(JULY 23-AUG 22)
You have a tremendous amount of physical vitality but only when applied to how fast you can dig a hole and fall into it. Listen more closely to the things around you and you'll find deeper meanings in things like the song of a bird or the sound of someone hitting you over the head repeatedly with the lid of a crockpot.

VIRGO
(AUG 23-SEP 22)
If you need to do any serious investigative work, make sure you don't end up in the middle of an internationally thrilling crime adventure where you must become a double agent who transports goods across enemy lines and wonders whose side you're really on. Your powers of concentration are stronger than normal, but you're still probably a little too fat to be fighting lots of people.

LIBRA
(SEP 23-OCT 22)
Dive deep into your innermost garbage bag full of donuts. Bring more of your spirit into your universe but less of the part of you that makes you talk too much at parties. If you stay focused on one topic for just a little bit longer, the sun will still burn out someday.

SCORPIO
(OCT 23-NOV 21)
You may have been thinking other people should grow up, but you've failed to realize that we're all one infant state of consciousness that will grow for millions of years without ever reaching maturity, and even long after the world has turned into first a giant ball of water and then a barren wasteland of dry nothingness, our consciousness will have aged a mere second. In the meantime, take a shower.

SAGITTARIUS
(NOV 22-DEC 21)
If you feel like you have a rather aggressive atmosphere about you, try not thinking for a moment about how our country is being run by a guy who gets into pointless Twitter fights with someone who can nuke the entire world.

CAPRICORN
(DEC 22-JAN 19)
Forcefulness may not be a usual part of your nature, but if you find yourself unable to eat all of the dirt in your backyard, you may find it necessary to really reach down into yourself and force it down. Take control of your actions don't linger outside of your own consciousness for too long.

AQUARIUS
(JAN 20-FEB 18)
I guess I'll just have to take your word for it that, when you sleep for 11 hours a night, it's really hard to wake up and eat two root beer floats.

PISCES
(FEB 19-MAR 20)
You have a great deal of power, mostly in the form of your terrible attitude and outlook on life being able to clear a room faster than any superhero ever could. Don't resort to grade-school tactics of coping with your issues, except the one where you bounce a pencil on its eraser and take your eye out.
