WHERE'S WANDO?

WE'VE HIDDEN WANDO SOMEWHERE IN THIS ISSUE OF 365INK. CAN YOU FIND HIM?

So we decided to take in a Cubs game the other day. The weather looked good, about 60 degrees, and hey, the Yankees were in town, so there's that. Why not take a day and go enjoy the friendly confines of Wrigley Field? Then there's reality. Forty two degrees (thanks lake effect wind, I assume) and 18 record-setting innings later, I was rethinking the wisdom of our decision a bit. It was the longest inter-league game ever and boasted a whopping 48 strikeouts. By the end of the 15th inning we were the only people from our midwestbustrips.com bus that were still sitting in our seats except for die-hard (and freezing) Cubs traitor/Yankees die-hard, Mike Donohue. We were starting to worry that we were going to be the ones keeping the bus from leaving early. For a while I thought, "Well, they might leave without me, but they're not leaving without a bank president, so we're safe." But we gave up in the 16th and headed back. Mike stuck it out.

While we watched the last two innings on ESPN on our phones on the bus, some people on that bus has assumed we already lost in the 9th inning when we were down 4-1. So they had been sitting on the bus since then, more than two hours prior. I'd feel bad, but they chose to leave early so tough nuggets, I guess. And had the Cubs had a miracle historic win in the 17th inning, I would have been a chump, too. The people that came back at around 10 p.m. in the 9th inning were also getting rather hungry for anything other than chips and M&Ms by now. I think they may have been eyeing the weakest looking person on the trip as a ritual sacrifice. I was not regretting my late-inning reserve hot dog.

It turns out we were not the last ones on the bus, so we waited it out, but not too long. Lets just say it was a long day. But hey, we were at Wrigley eating $7 hot dogs and drinking $10 beers on a Sunday evening. There are worse ways to spend your day. Would have been nice to come away from it with a win. Maybe next time. I just wish I could sleep on a bus like all these other people. Although, based on their positions in the seats, I was foreseeing a few Monday trips to the chiropractor sitting around me.

When we pulled into Dubuque, driving past the Envision Sports/Farrell's eXtreme Bodyshaping building on HWY 20 at 4:58 a.m., I saw a ton of cars parked outside the place. I'm hoping that Tom Rauen from Envision was simply working his crew like dogs to meet a t-shirt print deadline, because anyone who chooses to wake up and go to the gym before 5 a.m. is simply insane. Not just "extreme." NUTS!

I got home at 5:15 a.m. and was sleeping about a minute later. No regrets.

Non-sequitur begins here...

I had a humorous encounter at the grocery store the other day, which is far better than last time I wrote about the grocery store when I had my phone stolen. I was in line to check out and the young man doing the checking was having a conversation with the woman in line in front of me about guessing their ages. I quickly surmised that this was in large part due to the fact that the young guy really thought he looked older than he was and told her that people always thought so. Nevermind that he had a mouthful of braces.

He told her guess the last lady's age exactly and she was wrong on his. He then guessed the age of the woman in front of me starting with the line, "Well, you're at least 30 years old." She said, "Close". I think she was like 32. And then he wanted her to guess his age. She guesses 20 and he looked at me and said "what do you think?". I said 17. He looked heartbroken. "Why do you think that?" I said I could just use the fact that you're a kid working at a grocery store with a mouthful of braces as my guide, but there was another reason that was much more telling.

This is where we have a learning moment. I said, "First of all, I could tell you weren't 20 because by the time you are 20 you'll have the wisdom to know you NEVER say to a woman, 'Well, you're at least 30.'" I don't care how old she is. In fact, you should probably never have a "guess my age" contest with a women, especially at work. But in the event where the fate of the world rests on you having to engage in such a contest, what you do is guess her age five years younger than you really think it is. Then you have a safety buffer where there's less chance to insult her. If it turns out you would have been exactly right that she was five years older than you guessed, then you can quietly take pride in your amazing age guessing skills, and she can go home thinking that she looks five years younger than she is and everyone wins.

Hopefully he grew a little bit that day. Then again, he's 17, so he pretty much knows everything already and doesn't need my old ass schooling him. Needless to say, he did not try to guess my age.

All in all, the "guess your age" game is probably slightly worse than the "let me guess what you're making for dinner" game that some checkers like to play. This game can tend to backfire when a guy checks out with a sack of bagels and a tube of Preparation H. ■

CONCERT FOR REFUGEE CHILDREN

SUNDAY, JUNE 4

3-7 PM @ THE SMOKESTACK (62 E 7TH ST)

Join nine great musical acts as they gather to bring awareness and raise money for our Guatemalan brothers and sisters, these children, who have fled dangerous situations in their native country, to arrive here in hopes of a promising future.

This is a family friendly event. Free admission. Freewill donations accepted. Drinks and food available for purchase. Doors at 3, show from 4-7 on two stages on both floors, including the new amazing rooftop patio.

All of the young people the group works with except for one come from the Indigenous area of Quiché in Guatemala. The distance these children have traveled to enter the United States would be similar to traveling from Dubuque to Los Angeles. However, their travels did not entail a trip by plane, train or bus. They made the long trip on the back of trucks crowded with others in the cold. They crossed the day heat and night cold of inhospitable deserts, and almost died of thirst. Some made the decision to come on their own when they were young teenagers for the sole purpose of being able to support their families who are in dire need of help, and some have come to escape decades long violence that has its roots in U.S. intervention in Central America. Your support will help guarantee they have a future that is brighter than their frightening past. ■

MINERAL POINT CHAMBER MUSIC FESTIVAL

JUNE 9–11

MINERAL POINT OPERA HOUSE

The Mineral Point Chamber Music Festival debuts at the Mineral Point Opera House, June 9–11. Two young professional ensembles will perform three full concerts on Saturday, June 10 and Sunday, June 11.

The goal of the festival is to provide a valuable performing experience for young professional musicians, a significant listening experience for local residents, and a reasonably-priced, culturally-rich weekend destination for music lovers.

The festival begins Friday evening, June 9, at 7 p.m., with a panel discussion of participating musicians lead by festival founder and director, Peter Schmalz. A dessert reception follows the discussion.

At 1 p.m. on Saturday, June 10 and Sunday, June 11, Quartet Ami will perform music by Bartok and Beethoven. Built on strong bonds of friendship, the Quartet Ami was formed in September 2015. All members are currently seniors at Northwestern University and are part of the University's string quartet seminar, led by the Dover Quartet and Mathias Tacke. In May 2016 they earned honorable mention at the Dover String Quartet Competition, and their performance of the Second Quartet by Dimitri Shostakovich was broadcast on WFMT.

On Saturday, June 10 at 7:30 p.m., the University of Wisconsin-Madison Trombone Quartet will perform music by Bach, Bruckner, Tull, Shostakovich, and others. The University of Wisconsin-Madison Trombone Quartet is comprised of students of Professor Mark Hetzler. The ensemble was founded in 2016 to study and perform many types of chamber music for trombones. As some members of the ensemble near the end of their study at the University, they hope that their positions will be passed to incoming students to make the group a permanent part of the trombone studio.

Tickets for Friday's panel discussion and dessert reception are $10. Concert tickets are $15 per event. A Festival Pass (for all four events) is $38. For tickets and more information, visit www.artsmp.org/chamber-music-fest. ■

TOYS FOR TOTS SUMMER COURTYARD CONCERT

MILES NIELSEN AND THE RUSTED HEART WITH DOUG COLLINS AND THE RECEPTIONISTS

SPONSORED BY DUPACO AND HOSTED BY 365INK

SUNDAY, JUNE 18

6 PM @ SCHMID INNOVATION CENTER COURTYARD, FORMERLY CARADCO (955 WASHINGTON ST)

Thanks to the ongoing generous support of Dupaco Community Credit Union, 365ink Magazine is once again able to host a great night of live music and tasty wine under blue skies in the friendly confines of the beautiful Schmid Innovation Center Courtyard at 955 Washington St. in downtown Dubuque's Millwork District. The performance will take place on Father's Day, Sunday, June 18 at 6 p.m. Music starts at 6:30 p.m. with Miles taking the stage around 8 p.m. Tickets for the performance are $15 at the door only, with proceeds benefiting Marine Corps Toys For Tots in the Tri-States.

Promoting their fantastic new album, Heavy Metal (which is anything but), Miles Nielsen and the Rusted Hearts have built a massive following across the Midwest and are currently touring Europe. They return this year as our headliner once again.

Opening for Miles is Doug Collins and the Receptionists, one of the most brilliant songwriters to emerge from the Twin Cities in nearly two decades. So it's a very special double treat night!

This year's event will once again feature a fabulous wine tasting by Dubuque Heritage Winery, Dubuque most award-winning winery. And if you join us for the show, you can sample all of their flavors and even buy a bottle or 12 to take home, or even opt to open and enjoy at the show. Complimentary ice water and lemonade will also be provided to keep you cool.

We're extremely thrilled have the Brazen Open Kitchen + Bar crew serving up great food for purchase in the courtyard as well as 7 Hills Brewing Company beers (which brews right next door in the historic Millwork District), to curb the thirsts of the non-wine drinkers. We also hope to have more great offerings from Inspire Cafe at the event. So just come hungry and thirsty! Chairs are also provided, but you can bring a comfy one if you like.

MOVIE BUZZ

Ben Kingsley, Benno Furmann, and Tuva Novotny will star in Death of an Author, the first in the Intrigo trilogy based on Hakan Nesser's upcoming novels. He has fascinated millions of readers all over the world with his thrilling intrigues taking place in the fictional city of Maardam. They're shooting all three films at the same time.

Power Rangers star Ludi Lin will be continuing his superhero career in next year's Aquaman as Murk, courtesy of a new casting report from the upcoming DC film joining Jason Momoa, Willem Dafoe, Nicole Kidman, and Temuera Morrison. Marvel may be turning out three films a year now, but the D.C. Extended Universe is still slowly building up its shared universe. This year will see both Wonder Woman and Justice League debut, but so far Aquaman will be the sole 2018 entry in the franchise.

Dwayne Johnson is teasing that his debut as Black Adam might be closer than some fans were previously-expecting. Things seem to finally be moving ahead with the Johnson-headlined Black Adam solo film and its undisclosed release date but Johnson promises Adam's arrival will be sooner rather than later.

Claire Foy is now circling the role of Lisbeth Salander in director Fede Alvarez' upcoming sequel/reboot, The Girl in the Spider's Web. The star of Netflix's award-winning historical drama The Crown, would follow in the footsteps of Swedish actor Noomi Rapace and American actor Rooney Mara by playing the brilliant cyber-specialist/hacker with a dark past. Rogue One: A Star Wars Story Felicity Jones was reportedly the other finalist for the role.

Zack Snyder has revealed Warner Bros. has plans to develop a Wonder Woman sequel. Anticipation is sky high for director Patty Jenkins' DC Extended Universe installment, which many are hoping will rejuvenate the franchise after a trio of divisive films. Right now, all signs are pointing to Wonder Woman being the bona fide success story the DCEU needs right now. ■

2017-18 DUMA CONTEMPORARIES SERIES
BOUNDARY OBJECT:
WORKS BY FIDENCIO FIFIELD-PEREZ

SHOW: MAY 26-JULY 23, 2017
OPENING RECEPTION AND ARTIST TALK: FRIDAY, MAY 26 @ 5:30-8:30 PM
GALLERY C (900 E JACKSON ST)

Dubuque Museum of Art and Gallery C are pleased to present Boundary Object: Works by Fidencio Fifield-Perez as a part of the 2017-18 DuMA Contemporaries Series of off-site exhibitions at Gallery C.

Born in Oaxaca, Mexico, raised in North Carolina, and educated in Iowa City, Fidencio Fifield-Perez produces paintings, prints and large-scale installation works that explore the cultural, social and political dimensions of immigration, all told from a deeply personal perspective.

The artist's chosen materials and methods also refer to the crafts and customs taught to him as a toddler in Oaxaca—ones used to celebrate festivals and mourn the dead. For Fifield-Perez these techniques are a way to reconnect with a time and place no longer present.

Join for an Artist Talk with Fifield-Perez, a poetry reading by author Rhonda Miska, inspired catering by Chef Kevin Scharf of Brazen Open Kitchen, and special musical guests Eric Balayti and Nathan Jenkins at the opening reception. Free and open to the public.

This exhibit is made possible through a partnership with the Dubuque Museum of Art, funding from Humanities Iowa, and sponsorship from Novelty Iron Works. ■

A first for this year is world music night featuring traditional Irish music from Ballyheigue, Dubuque Fire Pipes & Drums, Marshallese music, The Facing Project, StellaRoma (a progressive world jazz combo from Minneapolis which features a lot of percussion and unique instruments) and headliner Parranderos Latin Combo (a salsa band from Des Moines).

In the gazebo at Washington Park, The Fiddlers, the Americana Band and ACE (a duo of singer/songwriters from Marion, IA) round out the acoustic sessions to the Art Fair patrons at 3 p.m.

Meanwhile, under the Town Clock the Dubuque Senior High Ensembles play jazz favorites followed by the Black Velvet Band "less popular than pop, softer than rock, happier than blues, not pure enough for folk, not flashy enough for bluegrass, and way too cheap for country," with local indie folk rock journeymen Cranes + Vultures performing at 4 p.m. Josh Hoyer and Soul Colossal bring an eclectic soul, funk, and R&B sound all the way from Lincoln, NE at 5 p.m., kicking off the night's great party. Lexi Parr and the Rubyblonde Band, a premier dirty-southern styled rock band, based out of Galena, IL does their thang at 6:30 p.m. The ridiculously lovable and talented indie-folk duo The Driftless Sisters take the stage at 8 p.m., and GGOOLDD (no typo) brings dancy, electronic pop out of Milwaukee, WI.

With Sunday's music focused solely in Washington Park, enjoy Mimi Ottavi's ukulele tunes from 11 a.m. before Medicinal Purposes featuring Scott Guthrie and Pearl Breitbach (a local folk/blues/country duo who have just released their fantastic debut album) play at noon.

Like last year, Jubeck New World Brewing will be creating a special brew for DubuqueFest and a new local brew Düber will make an appearance. Add in an IPA, a cider, and a dark beer selection from 7G Distributing and you've got a great selection for everyone. There will finally be a beer garden in Washington Park on Sunday! Plus great food all over the place.

Art Fair coordinator, Rose Noble, is infusing more indie art fair and a lot of handmade crafts. So look for more affordable options that anyone walking through the art fair can find something they can afford, enjoy and take home with them. It is, however, still a juried art fair, and Rose has invited 80 artists back to the festivals. While not expecting all 80 of those artists to make the show, it'll still be a higher number than they've had in the past.

The Fountain of Youth is a new non-profit that works with local at-risk youth, giving them hands-on job training and skills as well as exposure to the arts, so the booth they have will feature the photography project that they're doing. That's called Masterpieces on the Mississippi: Dubuque, Look at You Now. The kids have been documenting their lives in photography for the last few months, and they're going to develop these prints and even put together a calendar that'll be for sale along with the prints. Look for their booth.

Of course the kids' art tent "Creation Station" returns, this year being managed by Green Iowa Americorp, engaging kids in interactive art activities that will embody a balance between creativity and sustainability. "One of the projects is that kids can paint flower pots, and then they can plant seedlings that they can take home," notes Stowell.

The Dubuque Museum of Art sponsors this year's Chalk the Walk on Saturday morning via the Youth Art group from Waterloo, doing chalk murals. They will design the mural in Town Clock Plaza and anyone who shows up and wants to help will get a grid and an outline to fill in.

In addition to new features like a live Plein Art Painting Demo and Improv Comedy and Tai Chi demonstrations, DubuqueFest continues to offer old favorites and more recently added features like yoga in Washington Park, group knitting, kids' inflatable rides, wheel thrown pottery demonstrations, bike valet and safety check and more.

CHAMBERFEST DUBUQUE GALA CONCERT

THURSDAY, JUNE 15
7 PM @ CLARKE UNIVERSITY JANSEN HALL (1550 CLARKE DR)

Experience an intimate concert with rising stars of the international music scene while supporting local music! At the ChamberFest Dubuque Gala Concert, you will hear Dubuque native composer Michael Gilbertson and fellow highly-trained musicians perform solos and small ensembles in a variety of musical styles, all highlighting the virtuosity of this year's guest artists. Sponsored by US Bank, the concert on June 15 begins at 7 p.m. in Clarke University's Jansen Hall. After the performance, mix and mingle with the performers during a champagne and dessert reception.

Hear one of Dubuque's most in-demand musical events, while your ticket purchase supports local music. Proceeds from ChamberFest Dubuque support the nonprofit Northeast Iowa School of Music (NISOM) and its mission to provide quality, affordable music education and enrichment in the community.

Tickets are available now at NISOM and nisom.com. Call 563-690-0151 to charge tickets by phone. Fees may apply to phone, online, and credit card purchases. Adult tickets are $50. Student tickets are also available for $25. Seating is general admission.

Each year NISOM alumnus Michael Gilbertson hand-picks a unique combination of artists for the benefit concert. Gilbertson studied at the prestigious Juilliard and Yale Schools of Music and is now a successful composer. His works have been performed across the country, including a string quartet for the Verona Quartet that premiered at Carnegie Hall in February.

Joining Gilbertson at ChamberFest Dubuque this year are cellist Bridget Pasker, a fellow Dubuque native and Juilliard alumna; pianist Sean Chen, who took the crystal award in the prestigious Van Cliburn International Piano Competition in 2013; violinist Elizabeth Fayette, who has been praised by the New York Times for her "alluring, lustrous sound and seasoned virtuosity;" guitarist Jiji Kim, who recently won the highly-coveted first prize in the 2016 Concert Artists Guild International Competition; and percussionist Mari Yoshinaga, who has performed, lectured, coached, and taught in Asia, Europe and the United States. These distinguished musicians perform separately across the country and around the world, but they will only come together for NISOM's ChamberFest Dubuque.

While in Dubuque, the guest artists will lead a free student workshop on Wednesday, June 14 at Loras College thanks to grant support from the Iowa Arts Council, the National Endowment for the Arts, and the James B. and Melita A. McDonough Foundation.

Gilbertson gives back year after year because he knows the impact NISOM has in Dubuque. He says, "The guest artists for this year's ChamberFest program include some of the top classical artists of my generation. Without NISOM, where I first began composition lessons when I was 14, I would never have pursued the career that has given me the opportunity to work with artists of this caliber. It is always a wonderful experience to perform with them to support NISOM and music education in Dubuque." ■

Q CASINO'S BACK WATERS STAGE BRINGS LIVE MUSIC OUTDOORS

BY CLETE CAMPBELL

On Dubuque's Schmitt Island, just off the banks of the Mississippi River near the Iowa-Wisconsin border, a new family music and entertainment venue is prepping for opening night. Q Casino's new Back Waters Stage will host some of the biggest names in the national music scene as well as Tri-State favorites this summer.

Located in the back parking lot of Q Casino, this distinctively Dubuque and intimate venue is designed for both big entertainment, community gatherings and celebrations. American Trust is the presenting sponsor, and a few partner sponsors include Bud Light, Radio Dubuque and KWWL. They are teaming up with Q Casino to present a summer of entertainment like Dubuque has not experienced before.

Back Waters Stage could quickly put itself on the list of the Hawkeye State's favorite outdoor music venues. There arguably isn't an outdoor concert venue or experience anywhere in the Tri-State area that can match the unique Mississippi River vibe, scenery and atmosphere. They also will host a variety of local food vendors to complete the festival experience.

The semi-permanent outdoor venue brings shows outside of the casino and enables fans under 21 to enjoy their favorite artists. All concerts on the Back Waters Stage will be open to all ages. Q Casino hopes the outdoor concert series will bring our community members as well as tourists to Dubuque and Schmitt Island.

With the number of shows they have planned, Q Casino has got a unique experience for everyone. You'll be able to carry in your lawn chair and kick back in the general admission area or enjoy the up-close concert experience in the VIP Pit. The Back Waters Stage's lineup is far from a finished product. Having the stage in the parking lot for the summer allows them to add last-minute shows as they become available. They've already added two shows since they initially announced the summer lineup!

Montgomery Gentry, owners of five No. 1 hits, break in the Q's new outdoor venue on Friday, June 2 for the kickoff show of the Back Waters Stage Summer Concert Series. The platinum-selling duo, known for their high energy live shows, will get Q's outdoor summer rolling with a distinctively honky-tonk, blue-collar country vibe.

"We grew up on Charlie Daniels, Waylon Jennings, Willie Nelson, Lynyrd Skynyrd and Merle Haggard," Eddie Montgomery said, describing the duo's roots, influences and sound. "That's who we are; we cut our teeth in honky-tonks." Ty Bates will be up first with his distinctive draw and genuine fire for center stage.

Back Waters' lineup of nationally-known platinum acts will continue throughout the summer and take concert goers on a diverse musical tour. The Back Waters Stage Concert Series shifts gears to modern rock on Saturday, June 17 when Theory of a Deadman brings its revved-up brand of adrenaline rock with hits "Bad Girlfriend" and "Lowlife." Red Light Saints one of the Midwest's most exciting modern groups will hit the stage prior to Theory of a Deadman.

Saturday, July 1 showcases former Staind lead vocalist Aaron Lewis's country-tinged show that mixes both old-school country and the pulsating energy of Staind's hit catalog. You will be sure to hear a few of your country favorites from him including "That Ain't Country" and "Granddaddy's Gun." Stevie Monce will be up before Aaron Lewis with his classic rock n roll style with a distinct southern flair.

Gin Blossoms, which helped trademark jangle pop with a string of compulsively catchy hits including "Hey Jealousy," "Allison Road" and "Found Out About You," returns to Dubuque 20 years after first rocking the Key City at Five Flags Center. Join them for a melodic Independence Day Weekend show on Sunday, July 2. The LoveMonkeys will be Gin Blossoms' special guest performing first.

Skid Row cranks up the amps on Saturday, July 15. Skid Row won an American Music Award for Best Hard Rock Band. Let's rock with Skid Row to a few of their hits like "18 and Life" and, many I am sure you know, "I Remember You." Autograph will be starting off the evening hopefully with their ubiquitous hit "Turn Up the Radio."

After more than three decades together, 38 Special continues to bring their signature blast of Southern Rock to over 100 cities a year, and this year,

FREE ADMISSION

Dubuque is going to be one of them. Catch veteran classic rockers 38 Special on Friday, Aug. 18 in their high-energy style with hits "Caught up in You" and "Hold on Loosely."

"When those lights go down and we all walk up those steps to the stage and hear that crowd roar, it's a real rush to the head," lead singer Dan Barnes said in the band's promotional notes for their 2017 tour. "It feels like we're getting ready to strap ourselves in and it just takes off from there." You won't want to miss their opener of Craig Wayne Boyd who was the winner of The Voice Season 7.

Music defines Chase Bryant. At every level and in often unexpected ways, his truths are expressed in melody, lyrics, hooks and sounds. Chase Bryant will be front-and-center on Back Waters Stage on Thursday Aug. 24. This top-flight guitar player and head-turning songwriter will be kicking off Summer's Last Blast, one of the community festivals that will be held on Aug. 25 and 26. Bryant's top hits include "Take it on Back" and "Little Bit of You." Stay tuned for who the special guest will be performing ahead of Chase.

But the Back Waters concert party doesn't end after the headline act's final encore. Q Casino will move the party inside to the Q Showroom for the American Trust After Party featuring free entertainment from local bands or additional sets from the opening acts.

The Back Waters Stage's community-driven mission is behind Q's sponsorship of Summerfest on Friday, Aug. 11. The wildly-popular summer musical festival will move from its longtime home under Dubuque's Clock Tower on Main Street to the Back Waters Stage, where popular Tri-State artists 50 Pound Rooster and the Matt Stedman Band will perform.

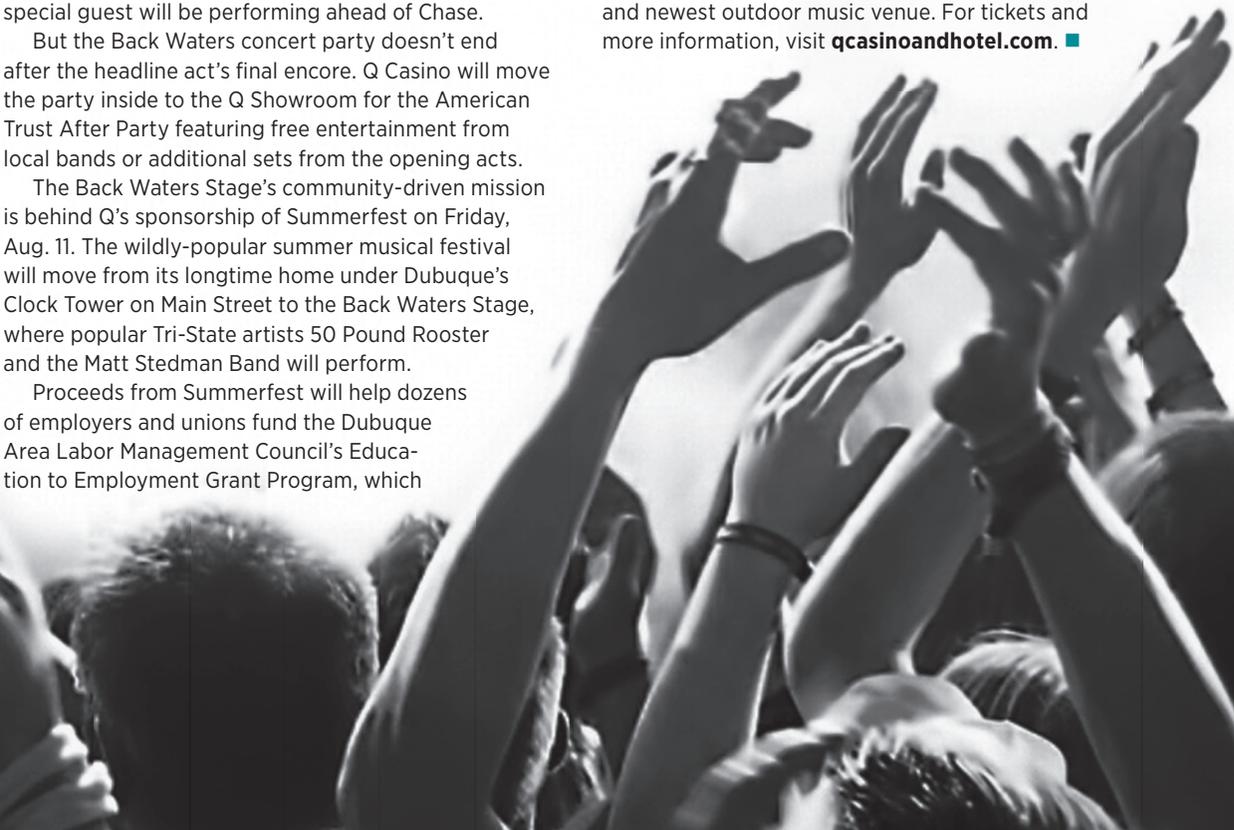

Proceeds from Summerfest will help dozens of employers and unions fund the Dubuque Area Labor Management Council's Education to Employment Grant Program, which aids students entering skilled occupations. Freewill donations to the Education-to-Employment grant fund will be accepted by volunteers at the gate.

Q is also hosting and sponsoring Dubuque's signature summer sendoff, Summer's Last Blast 18, on Aug. 25 and 26. The music marathon festival features popular cover band PopRocks on Friday and local rock mavens Johnny Trash, AC/DC tribute band Electric Shock and beloved Dubuque hard rockers Half Fast playing Saturday. Summer's Last Blast 18 will party in the name of area charities including FFA, Boy Scouts, Dubuque County Fairgrounds and Sertoma.

Q Casino is the community's casino; they love supporting these types of events for the local non-profit organizations. Another wallet-friendly move every Tri-State music fan will love: both Summerfest and Summer's Last Blast 18 are cover charge free.

As summer heats up, so will the community-minded entertainment at Dubuque's most complete and newest outdoor music venue. For tickets and more information, visit casinoandhotel.com. ■

The Dock Ellis Band brings country music back to the glory days. Like an archeological discovery of a lost honky tonk jukebox, these boys will satisfy audiences who miss that old-time twang. Steeped in the rich blues tradition of Chicago, J.B. Ritchie is known as "that wicked slide player" and has worked with Luther Allison. Frank Bandy on bass has been nominated for a W.C. Handy Award and drummer Marty Binder has appeared on the Tonight Show. Both men have toured with several top name blues performers. For those who like blues rock in the vein of ZZTop, Canned Heat and the Allman Brothers.

Middle Western, Driftless Sisters
10 PM @ THE LIFT (180 MAIN ST)

Middle Western (Dave Zollo and William Elliott Whitmore) is all about a good time. Not the honky tonk swagger of Zollo or the down to earth earnest vibe of Whitmore, MW gets a little loose. They can recall The Band at times, and with two of Chicago's best guitarists and Coop from the Body Electric, they rock like you've never seen either do before. Galena's Driftless Sisters continue their reign as supreme duo of country and bluegrass tinged indie folk.

MORGAN WALLEN

FRIDAY, MAY 19 @ 8 PM

Moving to Nashville on a dream and a prayer in 2015, Morgan Wallen didn't know what future he'd find in Music City. In less than a year, the passionate Appalachia singer and the son of a hard-rock loving preacher was signed to Big Loud Records. Morgan was now working with hitmaking producer Joey Moi (Florida Georgia Line) and hitting the road on his first radio promotion tour.

Wallen plays everything from the guitar, piano and violin. He has realized his destiny as one of country music's most promising young artists. He thanks this great part to his ear-turning, showstopping run NBC's "The Voice." His new hit single and video, "The Way I Talk," is in heavy rotation on CMT.

"I had no clue about how the music business worked," said Wallen, a stellar high school baseball player who refocused on music after a serious elbow injury derailed his promising career on the diamond. "Even living three hours away, I had no idea about Nashville. Looking back now, I'm glad it happened the way it did because I actually love music more than I ever did baseball."

APRIL WINE

SATURDAY, MAY 20 @ 8 PM

What started with two words that sounded good together in a Nova Scotia garage in 1969 has become a staple of the Canadian rock scene, an internationally renown act and remarkable music story now in its sixth decade.

Sixteen studio albums, millions of records sold, numerous classic hits including "You Could Have Been A Lady," "Roller" and "Just Between You and Me," and thousands of sold-out concerts. April Wine is still driven today by founding lead vocalist and guitarist Myles Goodwyn. They are proof of the old adage: Great music that only gets better with time.

DREW BALDRIDGE & SMITHFIELD

SUNDAY, MAY 21 @ 7 PM

Delivering toe-tapping music that will cure the most lead-footed cowboy or left-footed Joe. Drew Baldridge has fans nationwide getting down to his debut smash single "Dance With Ya."

The small town Illinois boy from tiny Patoka who grew up on everything from the King of Pop Michael Jackson to R&B icons Earth, Wind & Fire to Alabama writes and sings what he knows. The small town Illinois boy from Patoka grew up on everything from the King of Pop Michael Jackson, the R&B icons Earth, Wind and Fire to Alabama. This is the reason he writes and sings what he knows.

"It's really who I am. I love to dance," Baldridge said about his breakthrough debut single. "I was kind of scared at first about how people were going to take it because it is really different, but it has taught me not to shy away from my influences and just do what I love."

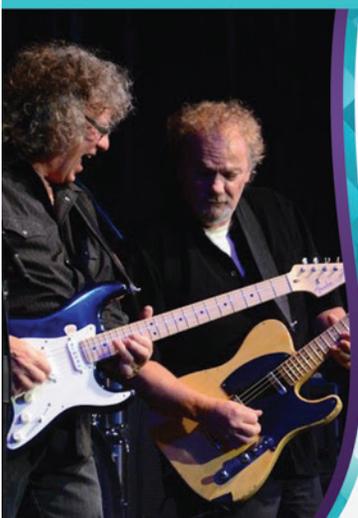

Baldridge is currently burning up the radio with Emily Weisband on the sensual "Rebound" from his debut album "Dirt On Us". The road warrior and his band have logged over 100,000 miles on the road over the past three years.

Drew Baldridge's fast growing legion of fans just may turn him into the next Thomas Rhett. Fans, new and old, are who Drew Baldridge plays for.

"Fans are the center of my story," he said.

BLUEBERRY JAM MUSIC FESTIVAL

MAY 28-29

SANDY HOOK TAVERN (3868 SANDY HOOK RD, HAZEL GREEN, WI)

The Sandy Hook Tavern celebrates Memorial Day weekend in the spirit of the holiday with the third annual Blueberry Jam Music Festival, May 28-29. A two-day celebration of music, the Blueberry Jam has a deeper purpose. Sandy Hook owner Ash Lawrence is hosting the event in honor of his friend Garrett Wade Stephens who passed away in December 2014 at just 32 years of age. "Blueberry" was what Stephens called his then unborn child. His wife Ashley was only five weeks pregnant at the time of his passing.

In honor of his friend, known within the extended Sandy Hook family for his talented artwork, especially in the medium of airbrush through his business Key City Kustom, Lawrence is hosting the Blueberry Jam as a fundraiser. Proceeds of this year's Blueberry Jam will benefit the Garrett Wade Stephens and Key City Creative Center LLC Scholarship and Four Mounds Youth Adventure Day Camp located in Dubuque, Iowa.

Like Lawrence, Stephens was a music lover so a music festival in his honor is more than appropriate. This personal tribute will undoubtedly be a great celebration and an opportunity for live music lovers to enjoy a stellar lineup over the two-day festival.

Using the newly renovated outdoor music stage, music fans from all over are welcome to enjoy the festivities, which will include a wide variety of music genres including bluegrass, folk, rock, outlaw country, blues, and more. Food, beverages, and the laidback atmosphere will be provided by the Sandy Hook Tavern. The Hook's famous "come as you are" vibe stands true, creating an enjoyable experience for all.

The music kicks off at 2 p.m. on Sunday, May 28 on the outdoor stage and continues throughout the day and into the evening. Local funk band Boogie Monster will play a final set inside to finish up Sunday night. Monday's program focuses on the blues with sets by Denny Garcia, Playground of Sound, and finishing up with the always entertaining Brews Brothers.

In addition to the music, Blueberry Jam '17 will add a few interesting festival features. On Sunday, May 28, festival goers can get their "blue" on by stopping by the Gymkana Blue Salon booth and receive a blue beard or hair extension for a small donation. A GKB mystery challenge will also be revealed for additional F.U.N. There will be a 50/50 raffle for cash prizes and custom woodworking decor crafted by Rich Stephens with Amalgamated Workshops.

A new feature this year will be the Blueberry Jam Mini Blueberry Pie Eating Contest. Conducted in two rounds, the first will be an elimination round with the five fastest pie eaters advancing to the second round, which will test who can eat the most pie in three minutes with the winner earning the $100 first place prize. Entry in the pie eating contest is $20 for your chance to win and hey, free pie!

For those with appetites other than pie, AJ's Meat Shack will be operating as a food vendor during the two-day music festival with burgers and other delicious sandwich options available.

A $20 cover charge provides admission for both days of music and rough camping is available. See the full music schedule below. ■

365INK LUNCHTIME JAM

FRIDAYS THROUGH SUMMER
NOON-1 PM @ TOWN CLOCK PLAZA

The 365ink Lunchtime Jam returns for another very laid-back summer season under the Town Clock in downtown Dubuque. For almost as long as there has been a 365 there has been a Lunchtime Jam. Sponsored by Prudential Financial, the Jam is a series of lunch hour concerts featuring the area's finest acoustic musicians and singer/songwriters. Many Jams will also feature great food by Carlos O' Kelly's, and there are, of course, a dozen great food options within a stone's throw of the plaza at lunch. The whole idea was to give downtown's large working population a reason to come out of the office cave and get a little fresh air and sunlight to finish off the week. After 16 years, it seems to have been a good idea.

Check out the list of upcoming Lunchtime Jam performers and carve some time out of your hectic work day to join us for great music. You can even get you latest copy of 365ink Magazine to read while you're chilling out. Jams will be cancelled in the case of rain or excessive heat. ■

TRUE MUSIC KICKOFF TO SUMMER

FRIDAY, MAY 26
5 PM-MIDNIGHT @ TOWN CLOCK PLAZA

Sponsored by Budweiser, Q Casino and the Buzz Entertainment Group, Kickoff to Summer brings more party rock than the Town Clock stage will see all summer.

Always on the Friday of Memorial Day weekend (kicking off the weekend that kicks off summer, get it?) this year's party has a distinctly '80s theme, kicking off with the pop-synth rock favorites of Unicorn Fist. Hopefully they'll bring their smoke and bubble spewing mascot!

The the '80s music turned decidedly to the rock side as Menace takes the stage. With an incredible catalog of '80s hair metal and hard rock '80s anthems, Buck and the boys will dip you in the magic waters of your favorite mullet-fueled tunes. Not so heavy that it'll make mom cringe, but hard enough to make you want to raise up the sign-of-the horns heavy metal salute.

And, of course the night's headliner needs no introduction. The Spazmatiks are a nationally touring homage to the '80s with a very nerdy decade. These talented musicians sell out everywhere they go and bring a ton of mega-fun '80s new wave hits with them. You simply cannot avoid being in a great mood then they're on stage. Kickoff to Summer benefits Sertoma, FFA and Camp Albrecht Acres.

WING•STOP

BY RICH BELMONT

Just what are chicken wings anyway? Of course, people have been eating wings for centuries. They were once thought of as chicken parts mostly used for chicken stock and were the least expensive parts of the chicken. Today, because of the rising popularity of Buffalo Style Wings they are now the most expensive parts of the chicken.

Chicken wings are usually segmented into three parts. The Drumette and the Flat are fried and the Flapper or Pointer are discarded. This is why an order of wings always looks like there are two different types of pieces in it.

Buffalo Style Wings are unbreaded Drumette and Flat segments deep fried and coated in a sauce. The original Buffalo BBQ sauce consisted mostly of cayenne pepper, hot sauce, vinegar and melted butter. Authentic Buffalo Wings are traditionally served with celery and carrot sticks with blue cheese for dipping.

The origin of the Buffalo Wing is disputed by wing connoisseurs. Teresa Bellissimo owner of the Anchor Bar and Italian Restaurant in Buffalo, New York takes credit for coming up with the first Buffalo Wing. She says in 1964 her son asked her to come up with a late night snack for some of his friends and she rummaged around in the kitchen and decided to use up some chicken wings that were going to be thrown out.

Now it just so happens I went to Niagara University in Niagara Falls. I frequently crossed over Grand Island into Buffalo for fun nights in the big city. I actually visited Anchor Bar on one of those excursions. Last week I called one of my former roommates who still lives in Buffalo. He said Anchor Bar is now a tourist destination and the wings are not the same as they were 50 years ago. He said he has eaten in Wing Stop and Wing Stop's wings are way better in taste and choice of flavors!

The people of Wing Stop are experts in the field of chicken wings. All they do are wings, French fries and side dishes. They are specialists in cooked-to-order, hand sauced and hand tossed wings. The Sauces and Dips are all made on the premises. Even the rolls are baked-in-house.

Wing Stop has been in business for 23 years. The founders opened their first small Buffalo Style Chicken Wing restaurant in Garland, Texas in 1994. They opened their first franchise operation in 1997 and by 2002 had already served over One Billion Wings!

The company went public in Dallas on June 11, 2015. Today there are over 1,000 locations in the United States. There are stores in Mexico, Russia, Singapore, Philippines, Indonesia and United Arab Emirates. (Fun Fact: The original décor followed a 1930s and 1940s pre-jet aviation theme. The Dubuque franchise is one of the last locations to have pictures of propeller driven aircraft).

Wing Stop Dubuque opened on September 27, 2015. When you visit the store for the first time you might find it odd there are not a lot of people in the place. This is normal. About 70% of Wing Stop orders are for take-out. Since every single wing and French fry order is cooked when ordered there is a 20 minute wait. There are no heat lamps or microwaves in this kitchen. This is why most regular customers telephone or better yet send their orders in through the website, WingStop.com. It is easy to do especially when you use the mobile app.

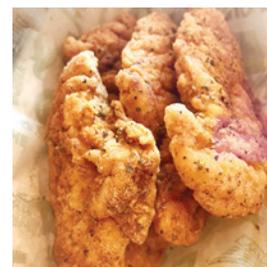

John Hutzler is the General Manager of Dubuque's Wing Stop. He was born in Ohio and grew up in Scottsdale, AZ and Coeur d'Alene, ID. (Fun Fact: The city of Coeur d'Alene (kor-dee-lane) is the name of the original inhabitants of the area: the Coeur d'Alene Native American tribe. The literal translation is "The Discovered People" or "Those Who Are Found Here"). John earned a BS in Engineering from the University of Michigan and became an electrical engineer. After working in that field for a year he decided to go back to school. He received both a Bachelor's degree and a Master's Degree in Psychology from Arizona State University. While in school he worked in several restaurants including Jack in the Box, Pizza Hut, Pizza Hot Spot and Pizza Pipeline.

John moved to Dubuque to start a career in business counseling but soon discovered it was the restaurant business he really wanted to be in. He took a part-time job at Pizza Hut and then Buffalo Wild Wings. He changed careers again to become General Manager at the now defunct Crust in Dubuque before being appointed GM at Wing Stop.

Of course chicken is the star of the show at Wing Stop. It is served three ways:

- Classic Wings – unbreaded drumettes and flats fried and coated with sauce. I like to order mine extra crispy.
- Boneless Wings – sure the bones have been removed but the real difference between these and the Classics is the proprietary breading on these wings
- Chicken Tenders – coated with a different proprietary breading.

French Fries are also a specialty. Fresh potatoes are hand-cut in-house and fried only when ordered. There are several ways to enjoy your fries:

1. Standard French Fry Seasonings
2. Parmesan Cheese
3. Cajun Seasonings
4. Lemon Pepper
5. Jalapeño Cheddar Cheese

THREE FLAVORS OF WINGS: CLASSIC GARLIC PARMESAN, CLASSIC TERIYAKI, AND BONELESS ORIGINAL HOT

The wonderful assortment of flavors is what makes Wing Stop exceptional. There are eleven delicious sauces plus one rotating seasonal flavor to choose from. Here they are listed in order from hottest to mildest:

- Atomic – made with Habanero peppers and a little Ghost pepper thrown in to make it really hot!
- Mango Habanero – the heat of the Habanero is tempered with the sweet taste of Mango purée.
- Cajun – made with the usual Cajun spices: salt, black pepper, cayenne pepper, garlic powder, paprika, dried oregano and dried thyme.
- Original Hot – the founder’s original Buffalo Sauce.
- Louisiana Rub – Cajun spices with extra garlic.
- Mild – similar to Original Hot with less heat and butter for a sweeter taste.
- Hickory Smoked BBQ – based on typical BBQ sauce with hickory smoke flavor added.
- Lemon Pepper – citrus and black pepper in a butter sauce.
- Garlic Parmesan – garlic butter sauce with lots of parmesan sprinkled on.
- Hawaiian – sweet and mild peach and pineapple. A sauce recommended for kids.
- Teriyaki – sweet and salty soy sauce based.
- Brazilian Citrus Pepper – the current rotating flavor available for a limited time. This particular one is made from Piri Piri peppers and citrus.

All these sauces are magnificent flavor profiles. You are encouraged to ask for samples so you are ensured of getting the right ones for you. Of course you can also request the sauce to be served on the side if you just want to experience more of the chicken taste.

You may have noticed the degree of heat or spiciness in a flavor depends on the amount and type of peppers used in the preparation. The Atomic Sauce is made from Habanero (a-va-NEH-row) and a little Ghost Pepper also known as the Bhut Jolokia (butt-joe-LOW-key-a).

The heat of peppers is rated in Scoville Heat Units (SHU). Horticulturists keep coming up with hotter peppers. For example, in 2007 Guinness World Records certified the Ghost Pepper as the world’s hottest and 400 times hotter than Tabasco Sauce. Today it is rated as the seventh hottest pepper. Just for fun here are the 2017 SHU ratings for the Top 10 Hottest Peppers:

1. Carolina Reaper: 2,200,000 (2 million 2 Hundred Thousand!)
2. Trinidad Moruga Scorpion: 2,009,231
3. 7 Pot Douglah: 1,853,936
4. 7 Pot Primo: 1,469,000
5. Trinidad Scorpion Butch T: 1,463,700
6. Naga Viper: 1,349,000
7. Bhut Jolokia (Ghost): 1,041,427
8. 7 Pot Barrackpore: 1,000,000
9. 7 Pot Red (Giant): 1,000,000
10. Red Savina Habanero: 500,000

By comparison, the Brazilian Citrus Pepper flavor uses the Piri Piri Pepper. This pepper is also called the African Bird’s Eye and is only rated at 175,000 SHU. (Fun Fact: Piri Piri (pir-ree pir-ree) is a Swahili word for “pepper pepper”).

If you are not into hot stuff you might think the ubiquitous Jalapeño is a really hot pepper. It’s really not at all—only 2,500 to 8,000 SHU.

Ordering at Wing Stop is not at all complicated. Classic Wings and Boneless Wings are the same price. You order wings in Combos, Family Packs or By the Piece. Here is how ordering works:

1. Provide a name to identify your order
2. Choose Classic or Boneless Wings or Tenders
3. Decide on a quantity
4. Specify Combos, Packs or By the Piece
5. Choose your flavors
6. Choose your sides: French Fries, Veggie Sticks (celery & carrots), Coleslaw, Potato Salad, Baked Beans
7. Choose your dipping sauces: Ranch, Blue Cheese, Honey Mustard, Jalapeño Cheese Sauce
8. Add rolls to you order if you want them.

Wing Stop Chicken Wings and Tenders make for a perfect lunch or dinner. They are great for late night snacks and just right for big game munchies. ■

A common sense approach to a positive attitude

4 QUICK STRATEGIES TO IMPROVE YOUR ATTITUDE

BY MATT BOOTH

One of the most important steps you can take toward achieving your greatest potential in life is to learn to check your attitude. It has a huge impact on your work performance, relationships and everyone around you. You know when your car is low on gas, if you're hungry or if your feet hurt, but you typically don't have a handle on your attitude. People generally are not aware of their attitude and the attitudes of those around them. This is a big problem because your attitude often determines outcome. Your attitude governs the way you perceive the world and the way the world perceives you.

Many of us have behavior patterns today that were programmed into our brains at a very tender age. The information that was recorded by our brains could have been completely inaccurate or cruel. The sad reality of life is that we will continue to hear negative information, but we don't have to program it into our brains.

The loudest and most influential voice you hear is your own inner voice. It can work for or against you, depending on the messages you allow. It can be optimistic or pessimistic. It can wear you down or cheer you on. You control the sender and the receiver, but only if you consciously take responsibility for and control over your inner conversation.

Bad attitudes are often the product of past experiences and events. Common causes include low self-esteem, stress, fear, resentment, anger and an inability to handle change. It takes serious work to examine the roots of a harmful attitude, but the rewards of ridding ourselves of this heavy baggage can last a lifetime.

Here are 4 quick strategies to improve your attitude:

1. Discovering Your Motives. Discover what motivates you and what gets you to take action. Basic motives include love, self-preservation, anger, financial gain and fear.
2. Tell Me Something Good. There is a lot of power in a positive greeting. Most people enjoy working and living with others who try to live life for what it is—a beautiful gift.
3. Live with Humor. Humor is a powerful motivator. The more humor and laughter in your life, the less stress you'll have, which means more positive energy to help you put your attitude into action.
4. Exercising Will Help Keep You Motivated. One of the best ways to move to a more positive frame of mind is to exercise. A regular exercise routine can provide relatively quick positive feedback in a sense of doing something positive for yourself.

Most people are not aware of their attitude or the attitudes of those around them. Start being aware and checking your attitude on a regular basis. It is no secret that life seems to reward us most when we approach the world with a positive attitude. ■

"You must be intentional about your attitude if you want to lead a mostly positive life." —Matt Booth

5 HABITS YOU NEED TO KNOW TO IMPROVE YOUR METABOLISM

BY HY-VEE NUTRITIONISTS MEGAN HORSTMAN (ASBURY) AND AMY CORDINGLEY (LOCUST)

Metabolism is a word we hear often. But do we actually know what it does and how to take care of our own? The human body is truly amazing. Our body can take the food we eat and the beverages we drink and give us energy. Our bodies then use that energy to perform necessary functions such as breathing, blood circulation, food digestion and of course, physically moving our bodies.

Several factors can affect your metabolism such as your age, weight and even gender. However, metabolism is not the main culprit of weight gain or weight loss. The cause of weight gain or weight loss is still the foods and amount of calories we eat and how much physical activity we get. But a healthy metabolism is still important for overall health and achieving a healthy weight. Here are 5 habits you need to know about to start and keep your metabolism in great shape.

Snacking. Snacking can keep your engine running efficiently all day, if it's done right. Think of your metabolism as a parking meter. Once your time is up, you have to keep "feeding" the meter. Eating smaller portions approximately every 3 hours can help keep your metabolism run its best. Perfect snack ideas consist of a source of protein and fiber and have around 200 or fewer calories.

Exercise. The older we get, the more important exercise becomes. As we age, we naturally lose muscle. Exercise is an amazing habit that can not only help you build muscle, but maintain what you have to prevent loss. Strength training and lifting weights are great options to add to your exercise routine. Your muscles will burn more calories than any other part of your body. So, the more muscle you have, the more calories your metabolism will burn, even when you're resting.

Avoid skipping meals and over-limiting calories. Remember the meter? Your metabolism needs to have calories (energy) throughout the day to keep it running. If you are not giving your body enough calories, your body will adapt to the restricted caloric intake and use fewer calories to perform the same tasks. That will make it more of a challenge to lose weight. Your local Hy-Vee dietitian is your perfect resource to find this balance of how many calories you may need.

Eating enough protein to build muscle. Once you have the exercise habit down, it's just as important to re-fuel and repair the muscles you've been building. Protein is the main nutrient that can achieve this. Again, the more muscle you have, the more calories your metabolism can burn. The best sources of protein come from meat and fish, dairy, nuts and seeds and beans. If you have trouble getting protein from food, try your Hy-Vee dietitian Pick of the Month, Performance Inspired Whey Protein powder, which contains 25 grams per scoop.

Don't fall for fads. If a weight-loss promise sounds too good to be true, it is! There is not a magic food that will increase or decrease your metabolism. Make sure you are getting a balanced diet from a variety of foods as well as giving your body the calories (energy) it deserves to keep your meter running the best it can! Try this recipe featured from our Balance magazine for a protein-rich, delicious meal. ■

SHIVER YOUR WHAT?

BY BOB GELMS

You know how sometimes you get a gift you had no idea was coming? It's a gift you didn't know you wanted. The surprise gift turns out to be wonderful, exciting, and it gives you an enormous amount of pleasure, you know? Well that's what happened to the publishing world and a giant number of readers in 2009.

Michael Crichton had a literary gift far too often nonexistent in a lot of writers. He was, first and foremost, a teller of stories. He could tell stories better than almost anyone. It's almost like you didn't read his books, he was in the room telling you the story. He had a limitless imagination. Crichton was the only creative artist to have a #1 TV show, ER (he created it), a #1 movie, Jurassic Park, and a #1 book, Disclosure, all at the same time.

Michael Crichton passed away in 2008. One of his assistants was organizing the papers in Mr. Crichton's office. When he opened the computer that Crichton used to compose his books he found the surprise gift. There was a completely finished novel that he never talked about and also a partially finished book saved on the computer. The finished book was Pirate Latitudes. It was published in 2009 and sped up the charts. Steven Spielberg secured the film rights and intends to make a movie based on the book.

I have read almost everything Michael Crichton has written but never this one. There it was in the bargain bin for a $1.00. That was my surprise gift. I took it home and didn't put it down for two days. Even forgot to eat lunch on the second day, LOL. I absolutely loved it.

This is something of an historical novel. The main plot actually happened and the main character, Captain Charles Hunter, is more or less based on the famous pirate Henry Morgan. Captain Hunter is hired by the Governor of Jamaica to plunder a Spanish galleon laden with gold and silver stolen from the inhabitants of South and Central America.

Hunter was a privateer not a pirate. (They convinced themselves there was a difference.) Privateers, like some pirates, were incredibly democratic in how they conducted business. The whole crew shared in the plunder according to his station on the ship so if it was a great haul, everyone got rich. The Captain ruled by election. If the crew wanted another Captain they were given the right to vote on whomever they wanted in the job.

Hunter provisioned his ship in the pirate city of Port Royal, Jamaica. That's where he got the very colorful crew as well. They were to make way to the Spanish island fortress of Matanceros. It was a Spanish stronghold in the Caribbean, very well defended with huge guns lording over the bay and hundreds of well-trained soldiers. The city was built at the end of the bay with its back to a very large hill. The back of the hill, the other side of the island, was impregnable. It was a sheer vertical cliff.

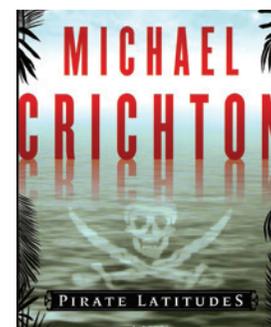

The galleon was anchored in the bay. The problem was how to get the gold from a place that was unsailable. This is where the story turns into something like thieves robbing a bank in the guise of a pirate story.

It's a caper and you won't find anything like Captain Jack Sparrow here. This isn't your kids' Pirates of the Caribbean. These pirates are violent killers, full of lust, probably sociopaths, cunning and very, very dangerous.

How Captain Hunter solves the problem of separating the gold from the Spanish ship is ingenious. It comes out in the story that his parents brought him to American as part of the Massachusetts Bay Colony. They were pretty well off so they sent him to a new school in Boston, Harvard. There he was taught critical thinking and problem solving using logic learned from Greek writers. He puts all of this to good use.

They set sail. The adventure begins and it's splendid. They bump into many obstacles, not the least of which is being captured by a Spanish war ship commanded by Hunter's nemesis who is also commander of the fort at Matanceros. That's when everything becomes very personal for both men.

As the Brits say, this is a ripping yarn. I'm sad that Michael Crichton is not with us because Captain Hunter could sure use a sequel. Pirate Latitudes does feel a bit rushed at the end and I think that Mr. Crichton probably would have done another polishing draft but this is a mighty entertaining saga and more than worth the price of admission. ■

Do it yourself advice from a new mom who knows how...

Deer driving you crazy?! Me too! Growing up in the country, we almost never experienced deer troubles. Now that we continue to encroach on their natural homes, more and more people struggle to be successful with their gardens due to damage caused by these beautiful creatures.

TIPS ON HOW TO PREVENT DEER DAMAGE

Physical barriers. Fences can reduce the number of deer which enter an area, though they're not 100% effective. For a small garden patch, use a four foot high fence or enclose the area with snow fence, as deer avoid small, penned-in sites. For a larger lawn or garden, a fence made of wire, not wood, angled away from the yard creates both a psychological and physical barrier. The fence should be six feet high and have a 30 degree angle to be effective. Deer will jump a vertical fence eight feet high, particularly if it is made of wood. Electric fencing has been used with some success. However, electric fences are typically not suitable for urban uses, especially when children are present.

Repellents. Two basic types of deer repellents are available. Contact repellents are applied to the plants, causing them to taste bad. Area repellents are placed in the problem area and repel due to their foul odor.

A local doctor out of Cedar Rapids is responsible for creating one of the popular area repellents, Deer Off perimeter stakes, which was recently acquired by Havahart Products. Liquid fence has been a popular contact repellent that many locals prefer.

There are also many folklore type solutions that people often swear by including soap and egg solutions.

Soap. Tie pieces of deodorant soap on the branches of trees. A large bar is cut into about six pieces and each piece is placed in a mesh bag and tied to the branches. Non-deodorant soap does not seem to work as well.

Egg solution. Two eggs and a cup or two of cold water mixed in a high speed blender, added to a gallon of water and sprayed on the foliage has been effective in some cases. This egg mixture does not wash off the foliage easily but re-application two or three times a season may be needed. (For a larger quantity, blend a dozen eggs into 5 gallons of water.) This mix should be used a distance from the residence as it has an unpleasant odor. It is also thought to repel rabbits.

Alarms. Another trending concept for deer deterrents is use of noise alarms, however, they are more likely to be found irritating by homeowners and neighbors rather than by the deer.

Deer resistant plants. I would also suggest choosing plants that deer tend to avoid due to toxicity, fragrance and texture though hungry deer will eat almost anything. Young, tender plants are generally more likely to be damaged than older, tougher plants. Don't mix plants deer prefer among those they dislike. They'll trample the plants they dislike simply to get to those they prefer. ■

Gwen Werner's Good Advice

DEAR GWEN,

My parents want to take a great big family vacation. Mom, Dad, me, my wife, my sister, my brother-in-law, four dogs, and three babies all in a cabin in the Northwest. My mom and dad surprised us with the plane tickets on Mother's Day when we were all together, and I made the mistake of not immediately lying about a prior commitment. My wife threw me under the bus anyway, because her fake politeness comes off as actual enthusiasm. I've got to get out of this. I can barely handle Thanksgiving and Christmas with these people. My sister just got really into essential oils and crystals and angels and stuff, and that's just the tip of the familial nightmare iceberg. I can't talk about angels and reiki for a full week in the wilderness. Help?

—Yours, Family Prisoner

DEAREST, DARLINGEST, FAMILY PRISONER,

The good news is you have options. Start coughing. Now. Get the coughs all good and rehearsed in your throat. Literally pick up the phone right this minute, call your mother, and start coughing. I don't know how thorough your mom is, but if she's like my mom, maybe make a doctor's appointment. When you get there, explain the situation. Doctors have gone through extreme amounts of education and, due to things like residency, are skilled in the art of family abandonment. I promise a dude with a doctorate will be like, "Whoa, angels and four dogs? Helllllll naw." He'll write you a doctor's note, at the very least. Have him write up a diagnosis like, Highly Contagious Lizard Disease on the note. If your mom really wants you there, she has to be willing to contract Highly Contagious Lizard Disease. That's her problem.

If the mysterious illness thing doesn't pan out, don't worry, there are still alternative routes. Here's a thing pilots don't want you to know: planes have great big doors that go outside. I'm not telling you to go bonkers and try to tear it open wildly, but that's exactly what I'm telling you to do. The TSA doesn't allow hydraulic jacks, but if you can manage to swallow one, that'll work. If you can't smuggle a hydraulic jack in your belly or JNCO jeans, it'll take about 1,100 pounds of pressure per square foot of door to get the sucker open. But like a mother rescuing a crushed child from underneath a car, you'll find the strength somehow. I believe in you. Think of the angels and crystals and stones. Think about your drunk sister lecturing everyone on chakras. If you manage to get the door open, you can choose to fall to your death. Or go on vacation with your family. It's up to you.

—xoxo Gwen

DEAR GWEN,

My daughter has a major sweet tooth. She's only 10, but I'm worried about all the refined sugar she's consuming. I'm not able to regulate what she eats at school, and I know they're serving her non-organic produce and factory farm beef. I feel like the public school system's carelessness is the root cause of her food problems. Not to mention, kids bring snacks for their birthdays! I'm just at a loss as to how to help her manage her processed food intake.

—Sincerely, Granola Mama

DEAR GRANOLA MAMA,

When I was a child, I refused to drink milk. I know parents nowadays are like, "Humans aren't supposed to drink milk past the age of three," but bear with me. Since I wouldn't drink milk, my mother told my babysitters to let me eat as much ice cream as I wanted. Because she was concerned about how little calcium I was consuming.

Three days ago, I made two dozen cookies. If you were to ask me how many of those cookies I consumed in a 24 hour period, I'd be forced to say two dozen, but in my defense they were kinda small. I love bleu cheese dressing on all foods. When I am sad, I will eat as many muffins as will fit in my body. I love licking Cheeto fingers.

I cannot do a push up, but I can sniff out overly body-conscious helicopter moms from a mile away. Sniff, sniff.
—Gwen

ARIES
(MAR 21-APR 19)
This is an excellent time to share your feelings with a literal bottomless pit in a largely uninhabited part of the world. Though it might seem a little scary to you, you may surprise yourself with how intimate your declarations of love and over-eating are as they echo into the ether of nothingness and infinite time.

TAURUS
(APR 20-MAY 20)
The current planetary aspects are heightening the natural compression of your anxiety as it sits between the majority of your ribs and spinal column. With your family relationships at the front of your mind, don't forget to take stock of how good it feels to not be able to feel the layer of dead skin cells resting atop your body like a blanket of the person you used to be.

GEMINI
(MAY 21-JUNE 20)
It will come to your attention that you were born with a certain grace and beauty but nobody told you. Instead of cultivating your love for beauty, you've been washing your dishes by hand and picking at your face. You may feel like a little pick-me-up, like trying on designer clothes or burning yourself with several different flavors of latte at once.

CANCER
(JUNE 21-JULY 22)
You have some very urgent desires that will most certainly conflict with your plans of watching YouTube videos of people trying to eat an entire florescent light bulb tube in one sitting. With your solitude will come a great interest in the more mystic qualities of the world and also the inability to stop talking about them when you are in contact with another human or human-like animal.

LEO
(JULY 23-AUG 22)
Your judgments about people rely too much on opinion and not enough on fact, and the only way you might be able to fix it is by listening to your heart and then agreeing with everything someone else says anyways, as long as they're not a sociopath or, worse, on Fox News.

VIRGO
(AUG 23-SEP 22)
Listen to your ideas, except for the one about exploring the grounds of the abandoned waste treatment facility that was supposedly overrun with ghosts of native royalty and, later, wiped from the memory of the local inhabitants through mind-altering fluoride added to the city's water supply by a higher rung of the governmental ladder.

LIBRA
(SEP 23-OCT 22)
While you aren't necessarily moving backwards with your thoughts of how things used to be, you may want to get in touch with your roots in order to fully recall the embarrassment of the Dukes of Hazzard movie. You will find great knowledge in trying to understand the mistakes of the past and discouraging people from casting Jessica Simpson in speaking roles.

SCORPIO
(OCT 23-NOV 21)
People can read you like a book lately due to the current planetary positions, such as the placement of Jupiter over your left shoulder. If you're a bit touchier than usual, it's because Jupiter is a gaseous planet whose magnetic field is twenty times more powerful than Earth's. This would be a great time to be in love with someone other than yourself.

SAGITTARIUS
(NOV 22-DEC 21)
Your excellent analytical skills may not be up to par with how you normally are, when you aren't developing a form of narcolepsy that puts you immediately into an all-too-real recurring dream that advances in real time, leaving you with what is essentially two lives at once. Instead of trying to understand people's intentions, try instead to interpret their actions and be better at karate than them.

CAPRICORN
(DEC 22-JAN 19)
A declaration of love, spiritual confession, indigestion, a messiah complex, the ability to drink hair dye in large quantities, and an apology will bring all sorts of open communication your way. The intimate revelations that come with these manifestos might be just what you need to finally break free of the mind control that is surely a bi-product of breathing in cellular telephone radiation waves.

AQUARIUS
(JAN 20-FEB 18)
In order to find happiness, you must first look at the bottom of a full cookie jar and then at the bottom of one of those industrial-sized tubs of cheese poofs and then somewhere in the middle of a tub of ice cream from a gas station. If at first you don't recognize true happiness, continue looking further in the rest of that tub of ice cream.

PISCES
(FEB 19-MAR 20)
If you feel good about yourself, other people will follow your lead and become attracted to your beautiful hair and the glottal sounds you make when trying to cast spells on large crowds. Listen without judgment as people pour out their hearts and you could be impressed by how soon nobody's problems except your matter.
