A couple of weeks ago I had the opportunity to meet Steve Peters, who just happened to be the very first General Manager of Five Flags Theater and Arena in the late 1970s. As it seems is the case with everyone in the venue management business, he knew current Five Flags General Manager, H.R. Cook, for many years.

"I've just always known HR. I knew his dad first, who ran the Veterans Auditorium in Des Moines. But we've been friends for years. We each had venues we ran in Topeka, Kansas."

Steve Peters now owns a company called Venueworks that manages theaters, arenas and convention centers much like SMG does for Five Flags in Dubuque. So it was kind of like having the competition in the building, except that friendships are older than professional competition.

Venueworks runs the Paramount Theater in Cedar Rapids and the Adler Theater in Davenport, for example. They also promote and produce shows. The show at Five Flags that night, which Steve was in town to see, was Michael Londra's Celtic Christmas, which he produces with Michael as a partner.

We stole a few minutes before showtime to chat about the old days.

"I graduated with my MFA in Spring 1976 and came here for the theater manager job. The theater had just reopened. They did Get the Lead Out as their first production and in the same month, they passed the referendum to build the arena. It was something like 3.7 million dollars back then. Design developed from there. I applied to be the overall manager, and since I was fresh out of school, I worked cheap and I was already here...I got the job."

Back then, urban renewal had leveled all of the buildings in the area for better or worse (the answer is worse). The Five Flags Center lot was empty, the lots where Holiday Inn and Prudential were also empty. According to Peters, the area from Five Flags down to the Julien was kind of dicey.

"We did a summer thing where we had a multimedia program called The Heritage of Dubuque. The group that funded the restoration of the theater created that. We had an impersonator of Mark Twain (Jim Post perhaps?) and we did that show like three times a day during the summer. We were bringing tourists in. We started working with Bob Kehl who didn't have a casino at the time but had the riverboat cruises, and we put out a brochure about lower Main Street, trying to promote it as a tourist place to come. But there wasn't much here to come to in those days."

Since the notion of an arena was new to Dubuque, the rules were pretty much off for what the facility was going to be.

"You could really do anything."

There wasn't anybody who already had their territories marked. The Grand wasn't open, you had the Barn Community Theater, but there were no other theaters, there were no casinos. It was all ours; it was fun. There wasn't anything we couldn't do...and we did everything! We did shows like AC/DC, and we had Rush a number of times. It was a very different kind of touring back then. It was kind of rough and tumble rock and roll but we had a lot of fun."

"I was here when we created the Fighting Saints as a non-profit originally. Jack Barzee who had been coaching in Waterloo came over. He went on to be a scout for the NHL, and we still talk once in a while."

"Bob Hope was here and Helen Hayes recited Shakespeare in the theater for the heck of it before we had lunch at the Ryan House. A huge memory for me was welcoming George Burns. That was a big deal. I called my wife and told her to come down, 'there's somebody I want to introduce you to.' She thought it was a college friend and came down in coveralls and here it was George Burns. She walked him down to the Julien Hotel to get some lunch."

"The University of Dubuque was a great supporter and Loras College bought the basketball floor so they could play their games down here. It was a happening place."

Steve left Dubuque in 1982 to become the Associate Director at the Iowa State Center in Ames and then Director.

"Those were great years. I had a young family, we were just getting started out of college and Dubuque was just marvelous to us. There couldn't have been a better place."

Now, as we enter 2018, Five Flags has more shows booked than in has in decades and by a wide margin. H.R. Cook has the venue experiencing a renaissance with many exciting things on the horizon. With such a bright future coming for the storied Theater, it was a great time to revisit the early days. Steve was very impressed as well! ■

LIVE AT HERITAGE CENTER FAMILY SERIES

TREASURE ISLAND

PRODUCED BY MISSOULA CHILDREN'S THEATRE

AUDITION: MONDAY, JANUARY 15 @ 4:15-6:15 PM

SHOW: SATURDAY, JANUARY 20 @ 10 AM AND 2 PM

UNIVERSITY OF DUBUQUE HERITAGE CENTER

JOHN AND ALICE BUTLER HALL (2255 BENNETT ST)

Follow young Jim Hawkins and his friends as they sail a dangerous sea of adventure with Long John Silver and his pirate band at the helm when Missoula Children's Theatre and over 50 local students present an original musical adaptation of Robert Louis Stevenson's epic novel, Treasure Island. Auditions take place Jan. 15 at 4:15-6:15 p.m. with the performances on Jan. 20 at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m., both at Heritage Center.

Jim, a mischievous lad, lives with his mother and six sisters in a seaside village on the coast of Maine. The year is 1782 and the American War for Independence is waning. Longing for adventure, Jim comes under the hypnotic spell of the legendary pirate, Long John Silver. With a treasure map in hand and Silver as his seeming mentor, Jim sails uncharted seas with a flock of gulls as guides. Always up for adventure, Jim's ruffian friends say farewell to their village parents and serve as cabin boys for Silver and his band of hilarious (although unsavory) pirate types. Once on the island, nights are sleepless as true colors are revealed in our hero's quest. Then—at last—the treasure is found and we're homeward bound.

Local youth (kindergarten through 12th grade) auditioning should arrive on Monday, Jan. 15 between 3:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. at University of Dubuque's Heritage Center, John and Alice Butler Hall and plan to stay for the full two hours. Some cast members will be asked to stay for a rehearsal immediately following the audition. MCT tour actor and directors will conduct rehearsals throughout the entire week from 4:15 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. daily.

Although there is no fee to audition, those cast in the production will be subject to a $50 registration/participation fee (includes two tickets to a performance). Children of UD alumni are subject to a reduced $25 registration/participation fee.

The Carnegie-Stout Public Library and Dubuque County Library District will host hands-on Treasure Island themed activities prior to the auditions and performances. Please check with the libraries on activity scheduling and locations. Library activity participants will receive a voucher for a free child's admission to Treasure Island with the purchase of a full-price adult ticket.

Tickets are $15 for adults, $13 for alumni/military, $9 for student/child, and $4 lap seat for children 3 and under (lap seat ticket available with purchase of an adult ticket) and can be purchased Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Heritage Center Farber Box Office; by phone at 563-585-SHOW; or online at DBQ.edu/heritagecenter. The box office will be closed through Jan. 1. During this time, Treasure Island full-price adult tickets will be discounted by $5 and online convenience fees waived. Normal box office hours resume Jan. 2. ■

MOVIE BUZZ

As you may have heard, Mindframe Theaters behind Kennedy Mall in Dubuque will be closing the first of January. Twenty-five-year record low box office revenues nationwide combined with the industry-forced costs of digital transition has proven to be too much for Mindframe to maintain consistent profitability despite an increase in their local market share. The parent company for Kennedy Mall has decided that it is in their best interests to pursue a relationship with another tenant who has greater resources to withstand slowing movie market trends. Their intent is to maintain a movie theater in the location. We are very sorry to see our Mindframe friends, and great friends to the Dubuque community, especially the arts and non-profit community, close their doors. We know we'll see them again doing something amazing for Dubuque.

The latest rumors about Solo: A Star Wars Story suggest Disney is expecting the spinoff to bomb when it opens in theaters. As many know by now, original directors Phil Lord and Chris Miller were fired back in June due to creative differences with three weeks left in principal photography. In came Ron Howard to see the project across the finish line, reshooting roughly 80 percent of the film once Lucasfilm was impressed with his approach. One inside source says they were worried about it before all The Last Jedi controversy, but now they're essentially writing Solo off. The lead actor, Alden Ehrenreich, can't act, and they had a dialogue coach on hand for all of his scenes. On top of that, the script is unworkable. It's going to be a car crash. While we can believe that maybe Alden can't act, we're having hard time believing that Lawrence Kasdan wrote a bad script as it received heavy praise from many members of the Lucasfilm family. We're not buying it. ■

Ole and Lena are back with Ole Plays Nursemaid—Dial 911! on Sunday, Jan. 21 at 2 p.m. at the Grand Opera House.

With Lena's cousin, Mildred, having unexpected bunionectomy, Lena has volunteered to head to the city and take care of her—in her newly remodeled Parade of Homes home. "What else is family for?" says Lena. Besides, Lena is looking forward to this "working" vacation, especially since it means that she is Ole free for two weeks!

Once Ole finally realizes that he will be "bach-ing" it while Lena was away, he is almost giddy at the thought of all that uninterrupted hunting, fishing, and, of course, Muskrat Lodge time with his fellow Muskrats! But even Lena's best-laid plans can go awry, and Ole finds himself having to play nursemaid to cousin Mildred!

Can Ole survive two weeks with Mildred? Can Mildred make Ole conform to the high city standards she expects? Will Lena recover and ever come to the rescue? See for yourself what happens in Ole Plays Nursemaid—Dial 911!

The orchestra joins with local rock bands to present an amazing symphonic rock experience that features chart topping hits from the 70's through today—a unique collaboration that has never failed to bring the house down!

"This year's music has great strength and power behind it," said Joie Booth, show co-founder, coordinator, and vocalist. "Music that makes you drive your car a little bit over the speed limit or forces you to run a little farther. Music that lights you on fire and inspires you to reach the next level!"

"We are always excited to bring in new singers, expanding our reach into the wide range of talented rockers in this region, and bringing in their devoted fans as well," said William Intriligator, Music Director and Conductor of the Dubuque Symphony Orchestra. "Emily Webb from Few Blind Mice and Katie Koerperich from Boogie Monster join us this year and we also welcome back Joie Booth, Adam Beck and Lexi Parr."

"I'm also really excited about the mix of songs—we have a wide range of

RETRO REWIND

SATURDAY, JANUARY 6
9 AM @ FIVE FLAGS CENTER (405 MAIN ST)

From Thanksgiving on, it seems the holidays are a mad rush and flurry of activity through New Year's celebrations and then...what now? Well, before the bleakness of January sets in, Retro Rewind comes racing into Five Flags with a full day of "Kustom Kulture" and entertainment. Now in its fifth year, Retro Rewind returns Saturday, Jan. 6 with an arena full of vintage hot rods and motorcycles, live music and more from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., followed by an evening concert in the Five Flags Theater starting at 7 p.m.

A creation of Vintage Torque Fest promoter John Wells, Retro Rewind is sort of an early pre-party for that sprawling spring weekend event and in a sense, a single day slice of the same. Being limited by the available indoor space, Retro Rewind features a hand-picked selection of vintage hot rods and custom cars and equally choice choppers, bobbers, and vintage motorcycles. Being only a day long, Retro Rewind crams in as much as possible, with an arena full of vintage customs, classic guitars, live music, a pinup contest, an art show, vintage vendors, and a film festival in the adjacent Five Flags Theater. Way more than just a car show, Retro Rewind is a "Kustom Kulture" lifestyle event.

That broader Kustom Kulture developed from the tradition of customization and modification of cars into speed machines or unique works of art that began in the postwar hot rod culture of the 1950s and '60s that celebrates not only that creative approach to auto mechanics but a DIY spirit that encompasses art, style, fashion, music and more. Alongside one-of-a-kind cars and motorcycles, Retro Rewind will feature a variety of booths featuring artwork by Kustom Kulture artists, including masters of free-hand pinstriping, retro and hot rod clothing and other accessories to the lifestyle, a swap meet with everything from vintage vinyl records to antique auto parts and accessories, and select vintage guitars.

Even with all there is to see (and browse, for those with the instinct towards bargain shopping) the hot rods and bikes are the stars of the show and Dubuque's Five Flags Arena will be filled with some of the best of the best.

Among this year's roster of unique customs, Wells identifies one that is likely to be the star of the show: The Voodoo Sahara, built by Chicago area designer and builder, Voodoo Larry.

"It's a very extreme custom," admits Wells. "So when you see it, you're gonna be like, 'What is this?'" Some people will look at the Voodoo Sahara and think that it's a little too extreme but the people who really dig it really love it. It's good to have that at our show and that's probably going to be the premiere car. And it is because it's a (magazine) cover car, it's a magazine feature car and Voodoo Larry has been on TV. He's got his own following, just himself."

Wells suggests Voodoo Larry's work on the Voodoo Sahara echoes the work of George Barris, consider to be "the custom god of the '50s" and maybe best known for his work for TV and movies. (He designed the original Batmobile and the Munster's cars, among others). Barris was also partly responsible for the custom van craze of the '70s.

Of the Voodoo Sahara, Wells said, "You're not going to see it anywhere. It's definitely a unique vehicle and everything that (Larry) does is pretty out there. He'll do stuff for customers that are very traditional, old school, but his stuff gets more and more wild as he gets older. That's good! And it's very much in the tradition of old '50s, early '60s customs."

The Voodoo Sahara is not the only unique car visitors can see at Retro Rewind. Every year, Wells works to invite builders to bring new and different cars to the winter show, which is limited to just 40 cars.

"We don't repeat cars," notes Wells. "It's always new. So you're not going to see the stuff that you saw last year or the year before that or the year before that. A lot of people might think that they look the same because 'wasn't that Cadillac here before?' No, it's a different one. That's one of the things that I think people fail to understand."

And while Vintage Torque Fest—the sprawling outdoor show held in the spring hosts hundreds of cars ranging from beaters in progress to a dozen or so finished showroom cars typically featured inside the Dubuque County Fairgrounds Ballroom at that event—Retro Rewind narrows the focus to only those prime examples of the craft and brings in even more of those sparkling examples.

"You're getting to see cars that are internationally known, you're not seeing local stuff," notes Wells. "I think last year we had three cars from Dubuque. Everything else came from all around the region."

For those not familiar with the aesthetic celebrated at both Retro Rewind and Vintage Torque Fest, it should be noted that both shows are not typical of many of the hot rod shows with which some car enthusiasts might be familiar. While many shows are open to muscle cars and modern performance autos, both Torque Fest and Retro Rewind are limited to pre-1965 vintage-style hot rods, pre-1975 motorcycles, and one-of-a-kind customs. Both shows celebrate the original hot rod culture that sprang up after World War II, when returning soldiers began using the technical skills they learned in the military to customize stock vehicles for fun and for racing. When the Ford Mustang was introduced in 1965, it began the era of the muscle car, essentially taking the hot rod out of the garage and into the factory. This show celebrates the original do-it-yourself aesthetic of that pre-'65 era and those continuing in that tradition today.

"You're not going to see Corvettes, you're not going to see Camaros," said Five Flags general manager, HR Cook. "These are the guys working on the mufflers underneath the car, not the guy that owns the muffler shop."

Likewise, motorcycles exhibited at Retro Rewind will focus on vintage pre-1975 custom motorcycles, bobbers and choppers. Like the hot rod show, the focus is on the classic era of stripped down racing bikes up through the choppers and custom mods of the early '70s. Popularity and participation of motorcycles has increased at Retro Rewind in recent years and Wells expects about 40 vintage and custom bikes to be on display this year.

In addition to those motorcycles in the arena, McGrath Dubuque Harley-Davidson, a sponsor for the event, will host their own vintage motorcycle show, which will be set up in the promenade area of Five Flags, so Retro Rewind will have more vintage motorcycles than ever!

While Five Flags Arena will be filled with vintage hot rods and motorcycles, Five Flags Theater will be the location of the Fuel Injected Film Fest, a daylong screening of films and documentaries highlighting various aspects of hot rod and Kustom Kulture lifestyle and history. An opportunity for those with interest but maybe less experience to learn more, the Fuel Injected Film Fest offers an overview that shines a light on a variety of aspects of the broader culture. Admission is free with the purchase of a Retro Rewind day pass.

The Fuel Injected Film Fest will include the films Hollywood Knights, The Wild Angels, a collection of vintage drag racing home movies from the '60s and early '70s, and a documentary from the 2011 Hunnert Car Pileup hot rod show. It should be noted that Hollywood Knights is R-rated for the discretion of any younger or sensitive viewers.

Yet another popular feature of Retro Rewind is the pinup contest. This year's contest will once again be managed by Peek-A-Boo Pinups. While the 15 available spots in the pinup contest were full as of press time, any women who enjoy dressing in traditional pinup attire are encouraged to wear the look to the show.

Throughout the day, Peek-a-boo Pinups will be doing pinup-style hair and makeup at their vendor booth in the Five Flags arena. (Contact Peek-a-boo Pinups via links on the Retro Rewind Facebook page to schedule an appointment. They're filling up fast!) There will also be a barber doing classic rockabilly-style cuts throughout the day. Vendors will be selling vintage and retro clothing and accessories.

Of course the soundtrack for Retro Rewind must match the style and energy of the "cars and guitars" celebration itself. The celebration actually gets started the night before with a Friday Night (Jan. 5) "pre-party" performance by heavy stoner rock duo, Telekinetic Yeti, with additional performances by Bluegrass Alumnatics, and Erin Hedley at The Smokestack (62 E. 7th St).

HEADLINER ADAM LEE & DEAD HORSE SOUND COMPANY

Retro Rewind will feature live music throughout the day, with a special concert hosted by Five Flags Theater at 7 p.m. that evening, following the arena show. Featured music honors that same DIY spirit with bands performing original music inspired by the rock-n-roll, rockabilly, and country roots of that classic hot rod era.

Saturday afternoon's program features performances by rockabilly trio 3 On The Tree and the Chicago rockabilly of the Royal Son of a Guns. After the Retro Rewind show closes in the Five Flags Arena at 7 p.m. the focus shifts to Five Flags Theater, which will be transformed into a concert stage for a special concert headlined by Adam Lee & Dead Horse Sound Company. Vintage Torque Fest regulars might remember Adam Lee's performance from four or five years ago.

"After Torque Fest, (Lee) was hired to be Johnny Cash in the Million Dollar Quartet that's been playing in Chicago for all those years," explains Wells. "He stopped doing that about a year ago and so he's now back out on his own and we're really excited to have him back. He's not a Johnny Cash tribute at all—he does his own thing—but you can't get the role of Johnny Cash in the Million Dollar Quartet if you don't sound a little like Johnny Cash. He's got that real deep voice and it's very old school country so we're very happy to have him be there."

Wells was also excited about a supporting act for Lee's Retro Rewind concert that as of press time, he could not yet announce but he assured us was very close to signing.

Tickets for the evening concert are just $5. Likewise, admission for Retro Rewind is just $10, which includes entry into the daylong hot rod and motorcycle show (and all the other cool stuff) in Five Flags Arena AND the Fuel Injected Film Fest in Five Flags Theater. Or you can do the whole day and evening concert for just $15—a great value if you consider the arena show opens at 9 a.m. and the evening concert will go until midnight. Tickets will be available at the Five Flags Box Office or at the gate the day of the event.

It's all the best stuff from Torque Fest weekend, crammed inside for a single, fun, family-friendly day. "I think it's very much a family-friendly event," states Wells. "What is always surprising to me is that people feel like, 'I only have a mild interest in cars,' but I have repeatedly had the wives of these gearhead guys come to me and tell me that they can't wait for our shows because they enjoy them, basically, more than their husbands do because it's totally unique and it's not just a car show, it's this whole lifestyle. Even if you're not in it, you still want to see it and get a taste of it. I think a lot of people, if they're given the opportunity, will enjoy it whether they're into cars or not."

Wells also notes that "everybody's welcome" at these events and that hot rod builders are happy to show off their work. "I think that this is definitely a crowd that is not going to be too upset if you go up and say, 'Hey, can I get a picture with your car?'" explains Wells. "I bet you they're going to say, 'Hey, do you want to get in?' That's what blows a lot of people away."

Perhaps the best part is that the net proceeds from the gate go to help kids with congenital heart defects. Wells and his wife Kim have set up a nonprofit foundation, Helping Hannah's Heart, to raise funds for families who are dealing with the financial burden that comes from having a child with congenital heart defects. Proceeds from gate receipts at both Retro Rewind and Vintage Torque Fest go toward the foundation.

Proceeds from the art auction go toward a medical trust to help with expenses for the Wells' own daughter Hannah who is growing up with her own challenging heart issues. Wells splits the proceeds with the participating artists. While the money might not even cover their paint and other materials, it might cover some of their gas money to attend the show.

Each year, the foundation picks out a family that needs help with medical expenses of a child born with a congenital heart defect, presenting the family with a check at Torque Fest. "These are real lives of people we know," notes Wells. "This is the way we can help out by financially giving back to some of these people that need it. That's what caused me and my wife to come up with this foundation. That's where our heart lies—trying to help out these people who have gone through the same thing because we know exactly where they're coming from. That's what we're trying to do is bring some support to those people that need it."

"It's really great to have a partnership like this," echoes Five Flags GM Cook, "that we can cultivate this show, which is unlike any other show in the winter. This isn't East Dubuque and this isn't Kmart parking lot stuff."

All-day admission to Retro Rewind is just $10 and gets you into the Five Flags Arena hot rod and motorcycle show AND the Fuel Injected Film Fest in Five Flags Theater. Tickets are good for re-entry throughout the day. The Retro Rewind show will open at 9 a.m. and will run until 7 p.m. Tickets for the evening concert at Five Flags Theater Adam Lee & Dead Horse Sound Company are just $5. An all-day/all-night pass for both the arena show and the theater show is available for just $15. For more information, visit RetroRewindDubuque.com or follow Retro Rewind on Facebook. ■

Born in the South to Yankee parents, he spent the first few years of his life living on a Tobacco farm in North Carolina. He was steeped in everything from Robert Johnson, Lightnin' Hopkins, and John Lee Hooker to Townes Van Zandt, Bob Dylan and Jimi Hendrix. From this comes a unique musical interpretation that lies somewhere within the Delta of Rock, Blues and Funk.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 6

Eric Pettit Lion, Cranes/Vultures

10 PM @ THE LIFT (180 MAIN ST)

Eric Pettit Lion has morphed into a mainstay in the Iowa music scene, performing year round and consistently releasing full length albums. The original family duo of Pettit and Tim Buhmeyer are still at the helm. Alongside them now are multi-instrumentalist and cousin, Ed Mansheim, and local talent, Micah Oleson on bass. On occasionally, percussions join them.

The concept of Cranes/Vultures derives from the skies over the band's bluff-laden hometown of Dubuque, IA, where America's greatest waterway bids birds of all sorts. The dichotomy of Cranes/Vultures also reflects the versatile emotional style and personality of the music, ranging from melodic, personal lyrics that push inward to punchy, outward licks that will leave you dancing.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 12

Buffalo Fuzz, Porno Wolves

10 PM @ THE LIFT (180 MAIN ST)

The band saw a lineup change in 2017 after the release of Renegades, adding two members of The Lone Crows, Tim Barbeau and Andy Battcher (World in Sound Records-Germany). The band specializes in heavy blues, fuzzed out solos, and tons of slide and sultry vocals.

Dubuque. After all, it has been serving good food since 1890. Back then it was called Jungles and Bade. Through the ensuing years it was bought and sold several times and had many names including Never Sleep, Arcade, Queen and Al's Lunch Room. From 1942 to 1972 it was called Karigan's and then it was known as Sfikas from 1972 to 2004.

In that year it was renamed Sunshine Family Restaurant when its current owner, Zoro Saliu (pronounced Sah-lew) took it over. This was a landmark event because Zoro was already an expert at running a family style restaurant. He had been operating the Sunrise Restaurant near General Mitchell Airport, Milwaukee, WI for many years.

Zoro's concept is deceptively simple. Quality food served quickly and inexpensively. It takes a well trained and dedicated staff to accomplish this. Everything is home made in house. There are no cans, bags or boxes in this kitchen. The beef is roasted right here. So are the smoked, bone-in hams, turkeys and chickens. There are no shortcuts and care is taken to maintain consistency. I asked Zoro, his wife Kandi, and son Sanit how they are able to serve over 150 delicious menu items so quickly. They all agree it takes experience, preparation, practice and pride. These are all necessary requirements when a restaurant offers everything on the menu any time from 6 a.m. to 3 p.m. (until 2 p.m. at the JFK location) seven days a week.

Choose breakfast from over 55 items. Eggs are always served just the way you like. You can have them accompanied by ham, bacon or sausage and with or without hash browns or country potatoes. The pancakes are larger than the plates and the French toast is battered and toasted just enough to be crunchy.

The stars of the breakfast menu are the six skillet. These consist of huge piles of hash browns, meat and vegetables topped with two eggs any style.

One of my favorites is the Meat Lover's Skillet with an unbelievably large quantity of diced ham, bacon and sausage over the hash browns topped with shredded cheese and eggs. I also love to order 2 eggs, sausage links, potatoes and toast and sometimes I must have the surprisingly fluffy four egg and ham omelet. Every so often I cannot resist the Butt Steak with 3 eggs, potatoes and toast which is a hearty meal and only a couple of dollars more.

Next comes lunch which is served quickly. Seriously, if you are on a tight schedule you can be in and out of this restaurant in less than 30 minutes. Be sure to leave some time for making decisions, though, because you will have to pick one of over 150 items. All the sandwiches include a cup of soup, lettuce, tomato and pickle. Say the magic word "Deluxe" and you also get French fries. There are all kinds of sandwiches from Burgers, to Pita Melts to Steak, Chicken, Roast Beef, Fish, Tuna Salad and Chicken Salad sandwiches. I recommend the BLT or Combination Club sandwich. It's so big it will take you a few minutes to figure out how to eat it. The Open Face Sandwiches are all excellent. My favorite is the Hot Roast Beef. It's made with freshly roasted and thin sliced beef covered with homemade gravy and served with mashed potatoes.

If you are thinking there are an overwhelming number of choices you needn't worry. All of the servers are professional and knowledgeable. I was recently guided through the lunch menu by Brenda Halfhill. At dinner Sara Soto was very helpful and patiently explained numerous entrees. I was impressed by both these waitresses' knowledge of food preparation, off-menu specials, and prices.

All Dinner Specialties are served with soup or salad, choice of potato, vegetable, roll and dessert. Some popular items are Chicken Fried Steak and Chopped Steak with Grilled Onions. Also in demand are my favorites, Fried Chicken, which is hand dipped in an in house secret batter, and Spaghetti and Meatballs with homemade meat sauce.

Wait, there's more! Every day there is a different off-menu special too. Monday is all you can eat spaghetti and meat sauce. Tuesday is Smothered Chop Steak night. Wednesday is Beer Battered Chicken Strips and so on. On Friday and Saturday, the special is top sirloin. Friday is also the day for all you can eat Milwaukee Style Friday Fish Fry.

Senior citizens over age 60 are especially welcome at Sunshine Restaurant. There is a whole list of Senior Lunch and Dinner Specials that are ridiculously low priced.

Now with all this wonderful food at such reasonable prices you might be thinking this place must be crowded. And you would be right! There is usually a waiting list on weekends and you might have to wait a few minutes for a table. However, the Saliu family has just fixed this problem. You will be happy to know that as of Tuesday, Oct. 11, 2011 there is a Sunshine Family Restaurant West on John F. Kennedy Road! The new location has a similar menu with comparable prices and the same helpful staff. So now you have two locations to experience Zoro's hospitality where his motto is "Good Food, Good Service—Good Prices!" ■

I'M ALL LIVIN

BY MATT BOOTH

I'm stealing this line from Frosty the Snowman, "I'm all livin," because our boys love it. We love the part when he gets the magic hat and comes to life. In seeking inspiration and wisdom this year, a person needs to look no further than that most famous corn cobb piped dude. Frosty is a jolly happy soul who has been given life on Earth that he intends to live to the fullest, at least until he melts.

Is Frosty coming to life more amazing than your life? I hope the answer is no. The difference between you and Frosty is that you don't recognize how lucky you are to be alive and Frosty has no doubts about his luck. One minute he was just a motionless, frozen snowman in the yard with a silly button nose—then all of a sudden, with the help of a magic hat, he is "all livin." Instantly he could laugh and play, just the same as you and me. Not only does he laugh and play, the frozen guy begins to dance around.

Yet, after the many moments you've spent on this Earth, can you say you're "all livin?" I know you have bad days and bad times, everyone does. You just can't let bad days or bad times stop you from livin. If you're waiting for something to happen, if you're waiting for something to change, or if you're waiting for a magic silk hat, all you may have to show for your life is your birth certificate proving you did live and a death certificate affirming that you melted away.

As cliché as this sounds, life IS fragile, IS precious, and IS short. If you're waiting for the perfect time to start making changes, know that you'll melt away long before it ever happens. Perfect timing doesn't exist. Right now is all you have. Start being the person you are supposed to be, start doing what you want to do and start living the life you want to live.

Despite his impending doom when temperatures rise in March, Frosty is "all livin." As I watch Frosty for the 16th time this week, I understand my impending doom. My moments on this Earth are few and I want to live them to the fullest, just like Frosty. I don't want to waste any more chances to be "all livin." I don't want to take it for granted any more. How about you? Are you "all livin?" What do you want to do before you melt away? ■

ENERGY BITES

BY HY-VEE NUTRITIONISTS MEGAN HORSTMAN (ASBURY) AND AMY CORDINGLEY (LOCUST)

Snack Break! 5 things you should know about Hy-Vee's dietitian-made Energy Bites, plus a few more healthy snack ideas to get you through the week.

You may have seen them on display in your local Hy-Vee. They're the cookie dough-shaped balls that look too good to be healthy. So, what are they, and should you be eating them? Here's a few things to help you decide.

1. Each Energy Bite is handmade by a Hy-Vee registered dietitian and pre-packaged for on-the-go snacks.
2. They might taste like peanut butter cookie dough, but they're loaded with nutrition from whole grain oats, chia, flax, and coconut. Plus a few mini chocolate chips to satisfy a sweet tooth.
3. Each one provides at least 3 grams of protein and 2 grams of fiber—two nutrients that help you feel full.
4. Compared to a chocolate chip cookie, they have fewer calories and two-thirds less sugar.
5. At around 130 calories a pop, they provide quick yet sustainable energy for pre- and post-workouts.

Healthy snacks between meals can prevent you from over-eating. They can also help you stabilize your blood sugar and stave off a snarly mood that might come from hunger. But the trick to building the perfect healthy snack is to combine carbohydrates with protein and a little bit of fat. This combination is ideal for feeling full and satisfied, so you're less likely to dip into the office candy bowl. Try spending one to two minutes every night packing healthy snacks for the next day. Here's a few simple ideas:

Cucumber Roll Ups—Thinly slice a cucumber into horizontal strips. Spread a thin layer of light cream cheese or light Laughing Cow cheese spread on the cucumber slice and roll. Repeat to use the remaining cucumber strips.

Prosciutto-Wrapped Melon—Pick up thinly sliced prosciutto in the meat department or at the charcuterie counter. Wrap the prosciutto around a slice of cantaloupe for a sweet and savory snack.

Peanut Butter Banana & Berry Bites—Trim the top of a strawberry and spread a small amount of peanut butter on the top. Place a slice of banana on top of the peanut butter and skewer with a toothpick. Three or four of these berry bites is the perfect mid-morning or afternoon snack.

SQUIRRELS OFTEN A LOVE HATE RELATIONSHIP

As I let my dog outside this morning, I was surprised to see eight squirrels frolicking in my backyard. As they made the mad dash towards the nearest tree, I had to wonder why my yard seemed so attractive to them. Personally, I like them. But then again I am the kind of person who sees a mouse scurry across the floor and think, "Oh, how cute!" However, every day I am working on the hardware store floor, someone asks me for tips on how to "get rid of them" so it seems you either love 'em or hate 'em. Here are some pointers to attract or prevent squirrels from invading your yard.

ATTRACTING SQUIRRELS

Feed the birds! Why would a squirrel gather food on its own when we humans are so willing to do it for them? Some foods squirrels especially enjoy are nuts and sunflower seeds. However, depending on the scarcity of food, a squirrel may find just about any food, including pizza, appetizing!

Squirrels love corn. Add a corn cob feeder to your yard and you are virtually guaranteed to become a favorite hangout!

Don't like the upkeep of a feeder? Let Mother Nature do your job for you by planting natural food sources including fruit, especially berries.

REPELLING SQUIRRELS

It seems obvious that the ways to prevent squirrels is simply by doing the opposite. Keeping tabs on property maintenance and general cleanliness can be the key to preventing these critters from loving your home. While in nature they can often find their own food, many have become dependent on us humans to provide an easy source of food.

Move bird feeders 20 feet from the house.

Treat the food supply with something the squirrels don't like. Cole's "Flaming Squirrel" seed sauce is a simple additive birds don't notice it but the squirrels can't take the heat it packs. Available at AceHardware.com.

Locate your feeders away from trees so squirrels can't drop down from above. A large inverted cone mounted on top of the feeder will also deflect squirrels that are trying to jump onto the top while squirrel baffles below prevent them from getting to your bird feeders.

You can also try running the pole through the center of a Slinky toy. Secure one end to the top of the pole.

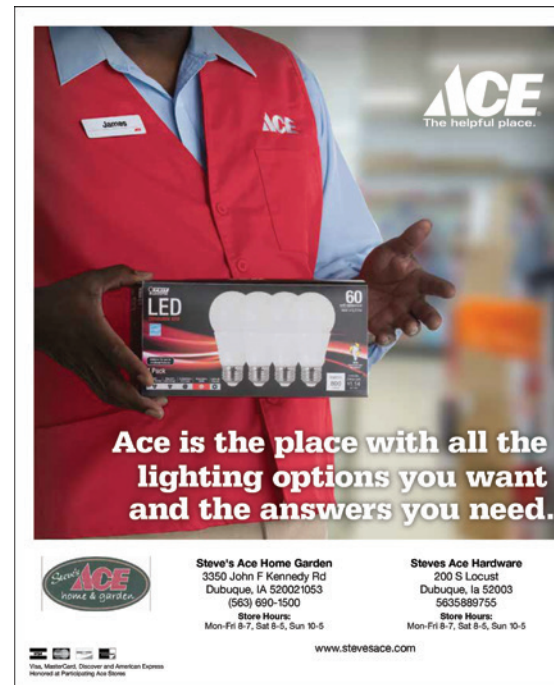

When squirrels try to climb, their own weight will stretch the coil and keep them on the ground.

Close or cover garbage cans. To discourage squirrels from digging in containers, use hardware cloth, a heavy metal screening with a half inch square grid. Cut it to fit around the stem of the plant, and extend it to the edges of the pot or garden, just below the soil. Put some small rocks near the edge to hold it in place.

Keep grills clean and covered. Squirrels have been known to eat the drippings and sometimes build a nest if they can get inside.

Try using a squirrel-proof feeder. The Perky Pet Squirrel Be Gone III is a good option at Ace. Choose safflower seeds vs. sunflower seeds and you will easily prevent squirrels. Live traps are very effective but don't expect to control a whole population with trapping. There are always more where they came from.

BOB'S BEST OF 2017

BY BOB GELMS

For most of my tenure here at 365ink, I've done a year-end, "best of" piece. I reviewed 26 books in 2017. Here are my favorite four.

#4: THE FALL OF MOSCOW STATION BY MARK HENSHAW

Henshaw is the new breed of espionage writer. The stories all could, and some probably do, happen in real life. This ain't James Bond. Bad guys do bad things and live to do them again. Good guys get killed for all the wrong reasons. Everybody spies on everybody else. Even our allies spy on us and we on them. You need a Venn diagram to keep the players straight. With all the stories in the news about the Russians hacking the DNC computers, setting up fake news sites, and publishing fake news stories for the purpose of electing Donald Trump POTUS, parts of The Fall of Moscow Station seem to have predicted this activity considering it was written over four years ago.

#3: IN PRAISE OF BEES BY KRISTIN GLEESON

Kristin Gleeson is a American-born writer who lives in the Irish speaking part of Cork, Ireland and is greatly influenced by myths and stories from the past. She is a piece of a complicated jigsaw puzzle that pictures the unique place Irish novelists have played in world literature.

Not only is In Praise of Bees a spectacular novel, Ms. Gleeson has made liberal use of the Irish language. She uses many Irish words in it but not too many Irish sentences. You can intuit the meanings of the words by their position in the sentence. Failing that, there is a handy glossary in the back of the book. For example, one of the main characters is the Abbess, Mathair Gobnait. If you guessed that as a nun she is probably called Mother Gobnait, you would be correct in assuming that Mathair is the Irish word for Mother. Irish can be confusing and difficult. Nevertheless, have some fun guessing, but use the glossary liberally.

Miss Gleeson has teleported the reader to the 6th century in Ireland. Her writing is luminous. The story is more engaging than I expected it to be. The ending, in terms of sewing up the plot, was perfect but it did seem to end rather quickly. I enjoyed In Praise of Bees very, very much. It comes with my highest recommendation.

#2: DARK MATTER BY BLAKE CROUCH

Like most people, the first thing that strikes me about a book is the title. Dark Matter by Blake Crouch didn't strike me; it hit me with a sledge hammer and then turned my fun dial all the way up.

We follow Mr. Ordinary, Jason Deesen. He is a devoted father and husband, a quantum physicist teaching at a small junior college in Chicago. Once he had a skyrocketing research career. But his girlfriend got pregnant so he opted for a science career that would keep him at home, dealing with all the responsibilities of raising a family. One evening he goes to the local pub for a pint or two. Upon leaving he is accosted by a masked man who asks him, "Are you happy with your life?" The masked man then knocks him unconscious. When Jason wakes up, he finds himself strapped to a gurney with people all around him wearing radiation suits. A strange man leans over him and says, "Welcome back, my friend."

Dark Matter by Blake Crouch tries to answer the question, "Does dark matter matter?" The book is being turned into a movie. I cannot imagine how that will be done. I wish I could see your face when you finally find out who the masked man is who knocked Jason unconscious and kidnapped him way back in the beginning of the novel. It scrambled my brains.

#1: THE CURIOUS INCIDENT OF THE DOG IN THE NIGHT-TIME BY MARK HADDON

My daughter Virginia gave me The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time by Mark Haddon. As Curious opens, Christopher, a very high functioning autistic, is 15 and has decided to write a book. He resolved to investigate and solve a mystery, just like his favorite consulting detective, Sherlock Holmes. Christopher's neighbor's dog was murdered, stabbed with a garden fork. Unfortunately, Christopher was accused and found guilty of the crime. It doesn't matter that there is no evidence, no witnesses, no confession. It all comes down on Christopher's head because he is a little different than all the other kids in the neighborhood.

I want to ask Mr. Haddon if he would consider writing about Christopher in his 20s. I would be interested in following along. The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-Time is Mark Haddon's first novel. It has almost 4,000 reviews on Amazon and it has won 17 literary prizes. Books like this don't come along very often. If you have already read it, give the book to a friend. If you haven't read it, get thee to a bookstore.

So, there you have my favorites from 2017. Happy reading and Happy New Year! ■

Gwen Werner's Good Advice

DEAR GWEN,

New Years is upon us and I have yet to nail down my resolution. Usually, I come up with something good, like last year I gave up processed sugar, but this year I don't have a single idea. Help!
—Sincerely, Resolution Destitution

DEAR RESOLUTION DESTITUTION,

New Years resolutions are so good for us. The yearly reset is so important. There's an 80 percent chance you won't follow through, so think BIG. I'll give you a list of potential resolutions. Maybe one will fit the bill.

Last year, I resolved to not violently murder my neighbor for mowing the grass before noon on Saturdays! It worked! I never violently murdered him! Eighty percent failure rate be damned! Resolve to put less chocolate on your vegetables. Maybe you could resolve to organize an event, political or otherwise. Something good, like naked day! A day where you just get to be naked regardless of your responsibilities. You could resolve to run a little faster on the treadmill, maybe find a better way to balance your French fries to do so.

You could resolve to take voice lessons so you can cry in key. You could resolve to read fewer magazines with "Butt" in the title. You could resolve to stop swearing, but that might be a double whammy resolution because you'd have to also stop reading the president's Twitter. You could resolve to eat less than a carton of ice cream in one sitting. You could resolve to stop smoking cigarettes unless you're anxious, bored, driving, just finishing a meal, sitting, standing, or going for a walk.

There are so many options for you! You just have to look them square in the face and not be afraid to fail.
—xoxo Gwen

DEAR GWEN,

At all of our holiday parties, my husband told the same joke over and over again. The more he had to drink and the less reaction he got, the more he told the joke. The joke isn't even funny.

Here's the joke: "What does an annoying pepper do? ...It gets jalapeno face."

He already said the joke to me in the time I took to write this letter. If the joke continues, I think I might explode. I'm so annoyed I could spit. How do I get him to stop?
—Yours, Ha Ha Hatred

DEAREST DARLINGEST HA HA HATRED,

I don't know what you know about nuclear physics, but fission occurs when a neutron strikes the nucleus an isotope, splitting the nucleus into little pieces. This creates energy. When one is split, like shrapnel, neurons strike other isotopes causing a chain reaction of splitting and therefore a chain reaction of energy, energy, energy. Get yourself one of these nuclear badboys and set yourself free. Get the man, yourself, your neighbors and friends caught in a nuclear explosion. Free everyone from joke repeaters, the worst of the drunk family members. Maybe you'll cause future generations to have 11 toes, and the world will know your power. Just an idea.
—xoxo Gwen

SPOT THE DIFFERENCE ANSWERS

ARIES
(MAR 21–APR 19)
Your life will benefit greatly from meditation and carbs and several viewings of the Twisted Sister documentary. Sit quietly and try to remember when gas was under a buck a gallon. Stare at the sun until one of you explodes.

TAURUS
(APR 20–MAY 20)
This is a wonderful time to express yourself vocally, preferably in a language you've made up based on lyrics from the first Twisted Sister album. The stars are in a perfect position to align with your moral compass, so don't lie to people unless they're dumb enough to believe it or the truth sounds really bad or you need to get away with something.

GEMINI
(MAY 21–JUNE 20)
Activity around you is picking up and should be thoroughly ignored as to not interfere with the work of the vaporous government agencies that exist solely in our thoughts. Don't feel like you need to get expensive lotions and balms and Twisted Sister bootlegs to fit in with kids these days.

CANCER
(JUNE 21–JULY 22)
Don't get too emotionally attached to your not-so-vital organs. Organization is going to be your best friend as you grow older, so have descriptions of your favorite Twisted Sister guitarist Jay Jay French's guitar tones written on index cards and arranged from Most Favorite to Least Favorite. Drink less water just in case it's poison.

LEO
(JULY 23–AUG 22)
Finding out the truth is an important part of your immediate future, even if it means finding out that you're a huge chooch. This can't happen until all the facts and bookmarked YouTube videos of Twisted Sister makeup tutorials are straight. Remember the promises you make and then fall asleep in an empty pan or two of lasagna.

VIRGO
(AUG 23–SEP 22)
Imagine yourself as part of a beautiful chorus that can only perform sounds made during foreign surgery practices from the 1800s. Stay integrated into the events of today, like the unfortunate passing of Twisted Sister drumming AJ Pero. Make sure your voice is heard, even in the library or temple and even if it's just a bunch of shrieking.

LIBRA
(SEP 23–OCT 22)
Use some time for meditation if you want to someday successfully make your kidneys switch sides by simply willing it to happen. You're in the process of abandoning the burden of always "not hitting people with your car" and it feels great. Spend some real time taking acid and working on your surrealist parody of Twisted Sister's "We're Not Gonna Take It" entitled "Weird Banana Snake Pit."

SCORPIO
(OCT 23–NOV 21)
If you can't guess what flavor a popsicle is by letting it melt against the back of your neck, don't worry about. Take a shower, drink a glass of water, relax to the soothing sounds of Twisted Sister's classic Under the Blade album, and fixate on one of the many, many, many, many, many, many failures in your life.

SAGITTARIUS
(NOV 22–DEC 21)
It would appear as if "old demons" have wound up at the top of your list of Giant Metaphysical Issues that Must Be Solved Immediately. Do you want to be happy? Are you satisfied with the way your life is turning out? Could you listen to a little more Twisted Sister? Do you have a sister who has been literally or physically twisted and could benefit from your attention perhaps more than a band with a bizarrely appropriate name for the situation? These are questions worth answering, but maybe tomorrow.

CAPRICORN
(DEC 22–JAN 19)
In the year 3077, all human life will have evolved into a minor vibration that exists in the thin membrane between thought and physicality. The national anthem will be "I Wanna Rock" by Twisted Sister, but only because its central theme of the reckless energy of youth replacing the dull uniformity of life will be misinterpreted as an ode to geographical rocks, rocks that resemble the entire planet that has blown itself up and defeated itself several times over. Also, music can only be listened to through your butt.

AQUARIUS
(JAN 20–FEB 18)
Twisted Sister rips.

PISCES
(FEB 19–MAR 20)
In an attempt to replace all your goodbyes with "Have a Twisted Christmas!" you've alienated the non-believers. Of Christmas? Maybe. Of Twisted Sister? Certainly? Of humanity's ability to see the good in everything and the bad in everything and operate on a day-to-day basis with the understanding that the world is too large a place to be any one thing? Did you spike the egggnogg asdhjb d???
