Notes from the Publisher... Fostering ideas, conversations and arguments.

Happy official fall, friends!

Seems like it was just yesterday that it was 90 degrees out, and now it's about freezing at night just a few days later. But overall, I'm all about weather in the '60s over weather in the '90s. Sorry, skinny people. Bring on fall, but let it last a loooooong time before winter sets in. I just read that it's an El Niño year, so we're supposed to have a warmer, drier winter than normal. This is not a bad thing.

I used the turn in the weather as an excuse to whip up my first batch of bean and ham soup for the year. You have to do it with ham hocks, too, and not just cut-up ham. It's just not the same. So off to Cremer's Grocery I went for some hocks, and we had the magical mixture for dinner on this cool Sunday evening; it was everything I remembered it being. I think my wife would eat soup for every meal all winter long given the option, so I'll have to pace myself.

As far as my health, if you've been reading, I'm recovering well from my cancer surgery a few weeks back. Just a weird tightness in my side. But I guess that's what happens when they break your rib and cut all the muscles and nerves between two of your ribs. Just gotta give it time. And I've been a good boy. Lots of naps, no heavy lifting, and no trying to force myself back to normal too soon.

It's also a great excuse to not go out and do things I'm fairly ambivalent about. I have more than plenty of socializing coming up soon as Marine Corps Toys for Tots season sets in. I'm going to give it another couple of weeks before I summon the toy crew to sort all of the new toys that came in since our summer sorting session, and then it's game on!

One fun thing I did was to officiate the wedding of my dear friend and Unicorn Fist bandmate, Liz, to her now-husband Tim, in Dyersville on Sunday afternoon. Worried it was going to be cold or wet, it turned out to be a very lovely fall day. Warm in the sun, and fall colors peeking out around Commercial Club Park. I don't marry people very often. Maybe a half dozen in 10 years, but my track record is good! So congratulations to Tim and Liz Buchholtz. This one was an easy call. They're perfect for each other.

More change is on the way for 365ink very soon as well. Our long-time office partner, Julien's Journal Magazine, has been sold by our friend Gina Siegert, and the new owner is not planning on working from the same office. So rather than changing to paying double everything on our own, like rent, internet, heat, etc., we decided that it's a good time for us to downsize a bit ourselves. Even as 365ink is more successful than ever, there's no reason to burn a lot of money for a bunch of space we don't need.

After checking on some options, I think we're going to give it a go in the great co-op space of the Schmid Innovation Center at the Caradco Building in the Millwork District. Since COVID, we've learned the benefits of being able to work from home or remotely from anywhere in the world. But we don't want to NOT have a space to come together to work some of the time and to remain a team. And, hey, there's a kitchenette and someone else takes out the trash. How great is that? And not only do we save from having to start paying double on our office expenses, we will actually start paying less than half of what we're paying now. So that means more fancy lunches for us, I guess!

And now, with a huge sigh, I realize that we have to start unloading a decade worth of stuff that we saved up at the current office. And it's pretty much all going to go. We just don't need it. And I'm not supposed to lift heavy stuff, so this will be interesting. Look out for a lot of furniture to go on sale real soon. Anyone want some sweet chemistry lab tables that once adorned the University of Dubuque? I've got three! (Editor Tim note: I am NOT moving those again.)

And I've written tirades about our Xerox printer before. It works great, I just hate Xerox. A couple years ago, they told us they were no longer updating the print software for our Macs. Then, this year, they just up and said they were no longer maintaining the printer. So while it works great and can technically do everything—big prints, collate, duplex, fold, and even staple—it only has a couple of years left of use for us... and it's BIG. I don't want to move it again. So we're not taking it with us. But we have a lot of ink and supplies for it. So if some organization out there would like a very useful high-volume printer to last them a couple of years, I would donate it. Just get a hold of me. I'll even donate an older Mac laptop that has all of the software needed to still run all of the printer's functions.

Now to see how much of this office I can get packed up, sold off, given away, recycled, stored, or trashed in the next two weeks. Wish me luck! ■

MACKIN-MAILANDER LECTURE SERIES

David Thoreson

THE NEW AGE OF EXPLORATION
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 18 @ 7 PM
CLARKE UNIVERSITY JANSEN
MUSIC HALL (1550 CLARKE DR)

Join Clarke University in uncovering "The New Age of Exploration" with David Thoreson on Wednesday, Oct. 18. The photographer, author, sailor and explorer will share some of the greatest insights from his world travels as part of the Mackin-Mailander Lecture Series. The event begins at 7 p.m. in Jansen Music Hall.

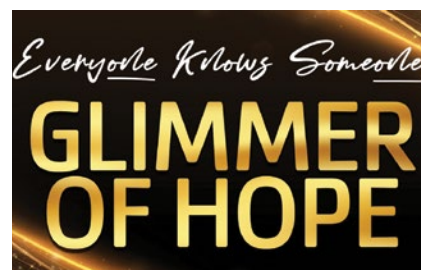

David has worked as a professional photographer, author, sailor and explorer documenting the outdoor environment locally in the Iowa Great Lakes region, and globally, sailing 75,000-miles across the world's oceans and polar regions. Exploring the Arctic Ocean led David to the issue of climate change, altering his life and work forever. Thoreson hopes to inspire others to explore their own connections to nature, especially water quality issues. David is the author of the photo book Over the Horizon, a TEDx presenter, National Fellow of the Explorers Club and lectures at universities and institutions across the globe.

"I heard David speak at a climate conference a few years ago, and I was amazed by his passion for the issue of climate change," said Michael Knock, Associate Professor of History and Chair of the Mackin-Mailander Committee at Clarke. "He has seen the impact of this issue firsthand in his voyages through the Arctic, and the fact that he is a native Iowan makes what he's accomplished all the more impressive."

The Clarke University Mackin-Mailander Lecture Series was established in 1997 after Clarke received gifts from two alumnae, Mary Mackin '34 and Verna Slattery-Mailander '20, to establish an endowed lecture series. The annual series consists of three lectures, including a prominent outside speaker, a faculty lecture, and an alumni lecture.

The lecture is free to attend. For more information, visit clarke.edu. ■

SUNDOWN MOUNTAIN MOVIE NIGHT

Legend Has It

Sundown Parks is excited to partner with Phoenix Theater to bring you Teton Gravity Research's latest action-packed ski and snowboard film: Legend Has It. Join for a special screening on Friday, Nov. 3 at 6 p.m. at Phoenix Theatres.

Ski lore is riddled with stories, sometimes of unknown origin, describing plausible but extraordinary past events. Often shared on chairlifts, the skintrack, or over a beer, these legendary tales, whether it be mythical storm cycles, heroic feats, or whispers of fantastical terrain, all contribute and shape the present experience. For 28 years, Teton Gravity Research has been traveling the globe with the best athletes to the most incredible locations often based on this fabled history to uncover the experience... and sometimes creating legends of their own along the way.

All proceeds will benefit improvements to the Sundown Parks' Terrain Parks. The film is suitable for all ages.

Tickets are available through Nov. 2 for $15 at sundownmtn.com or purchase at the door for $20. For more information, call Sundown at 563-556-6676 or visit sundownmtn.com. ■

Dubuque Winter Farmers Market

SATURDAYS: NOVEMBER 4–APRIL 27
@ 9 AM–NOON
KENNEDY MALL WEST CONCOURSE
(555 JFK RD)

Welcome back to the Dubuque Winter Farmers Market. Just because it gets a little cold outside and gardens go to sleep for the season, it does not mean that the fresh, delicious, and creative locally-sourced grown and baked goodies are not readily accessible. Join every Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon, November to April, at Kennedy Mall in the West Concourse next to Planet Fitness.

Dubuque Winter Farmers Market picks up right where the summer market left off with bushels and bushels of healthy, locally-grown goodness. You'll discover veggies, eggs, honey, beef, maple syrup, pork, baked goods, chicken, flowers, candy, and much more.

And because it opens from 9 a.m. to noon, you don't have to get up at the crack of dawn to get your pick of the goodies. Come and see the bounty that continues year round in our community with a Saturday morning shopping outing pop-in at market!

You can use your SNAP/EBT card if you're trying to eat healthy on a budget. Stop by the information table at the front entrance to learn more.

Bring your own reusable shopping bags and drop off clean egg cartons, glass jars, and plastic clam shells.

The all-volunteer driven market focuses on supporting our regional food system, eating from our food shed year-round, and providing annual funding to farmers through a grant program. Sign up for the weekly newsletter and find more information at WinterMarketDBQ.com. ■

At its core, improv is the art of making things up on the spot—characters, song lyrics, situations, whole scenes. You never know what's going to happen. For that matter, the comedians performing for you have no idea what's going to happen. And because of that, no two shows are at all the same. It'll leave you hurting from laughing so much, and you can truly say you saw a show that no one else will ever see... unless they were at the same show.

LIVE AT HERITAGE CENTER PERFORMING ARTS SERIES

The Music of Billy Joel & Elton John with Michael Cavanaugh—Homecoming at UD!

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21 @ 8 PM
HERITAGE CENTER JOHN AND ALICE BUTLER HALL

Michael Cavanaugh, star of Billy Joel's Broadway musical Movin' Out, performs the greatest hits of two rock piano legends on Saturday, Oct. 21 at 8 p.m. in John and Alice Butler Hall at Heritage Center. The performance, titled The Music of Billy Joel and Elton John with Michael Cavanaugh – Homecoming at UD!, is part of the 11th annual Live at Heritage Center Performing Arts Series.

Grammy- and Tony-nominated vocalist and pianist Michael Cavanaugh is a charismatic performer and musician famous for his piano/lead vocals in the Broadway musical Movin' Out. Handpicked by Billy Joel to star in Movin' Out, Cavanaugh evokes a style rivaling the Piano Man. He appeared in the show for three years with over 1,200 performances and received multiple accolades.

With the close of Movin' Out at the end of 2005, Cavanaugh began touring in his own right by creating a show that reinterprets the modern pop/rock songbook. His's interpretation of the modern rock/pop songbook led to Billboard calling him "The New Voice of the American Rock and Roll Songbook," and he was recognized by Reuters as "Entertainer of the Year" for the private events market. Broadway World referred to Cavanaugh as "The New Piano Man."

A free pre-show reception for Bagatelle: Recent European Drawings by Alan Garfield will be held from 6:30 to 8 p.m. in the Bisignano Art Gallery before the show. The exhibit is open through Oct. 27.

"Beethoven created some of his most beautiful pieces as short, piano sketches. We call those bagatelles. My black and white drawings are small pieces of paper that I stuff in my carry-on when I bring students to explore England or France or Spain or Italy or Greece. I sketch these when I have a moment, usually late at night with a fresh cup of Earl Grey tea, my favorite. I hope, like the musical bagatelles, these are light, mellow, unpretentious compositions of what I took the students to see that day," said Garfield, director of the art gallery.

Tickets start at $31. ■

Henry Rollins

GOOD TO SEE YOU

MONDAY, OCTOBER 23 @ 7:30 PM
FIVE FLAGS THEATER

On the Good To See You tour, Henry Rollins will faithfully recount the events of his life in the brief pre-COVID period since the last tour and when things got even stranger over the last several months. It's been an interesting time to say the least, and he's sharing some great stories at the Five Flags Theater on Monday, Oct. 23 at 7:30 p.m.

In describing Henry Rollins, the tendency is to try to squeeze as many labels as possible into a single sentence. "Rollins is many things," says The Washington Post, "diatribist, confessor, provocateur, humorist, even motivational speaker... his is an enthusiastic and engaging chatter." Entertainment Weekly's list includes "Punk Rock icon. Spoken word poet. Actor. Author. DJ. Is there anything this guy can't do?" TV Guide has more concisely called him a "Renaissance Man," but if Henry Rollins could be reduced to a single word, that word would undoubtedly be "workaholic."

When he's not traveling, Rollins prefers to keep a relentless schedule, with gigs as an actor, author, DJ, voice-over artist, and TV show host to name a few of the roles that keep his schedule full. Rollins has toured the world as a spoken word artist, as frontman for both Rollins Band and Black Flag, and as a solitary traveler with insatiable curiosity, favoring road-less-traveled locales in places such as Nepal, Sri Lanka, Siberia, North Korea, South Sudan, and Iran.

22ND ANNUAL

Twenty Dirty Hands Pottery Tour

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 13 @ 10 AM-6 PM

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 14 @ 10 AM-6 PM

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 15 @ 10 AM-4 PM

VARIOUS LOCATIONS IN THE TRI-STATES

The 22nd edition of Twenty Dirty Hands, the Tri-State region's only self-guided pottery tour, features 24 artists across 7 stops at studios in Dubuque, Asbury, and Maquoketa, IA; Elizabeth and Galena, IL; and Hazel Green, WI. All tour stops will be open on Friday, Oct. 13 and Saturday, Oct. 14 at 10 a.m.-6 p.m. and Sunday, Oct. 15 at 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

The tour provides art lovers, especially those interested in clay work and ceramic processes, a chance to visit multiple art studios in the area and buy work directly from local artists.

Twenty Dirty Hands grew out of a community of Tri-state makers bound together by an appreciation for small town life along the Mississippi River and a love for working in clay. Beyond their shared passion for ceramic processes, the Twenty Dirty Hands collective has also grown out of sharing meals, knowledge, and resources. The work of each individual artist is distinct and constantly evolving. Each tour location prides itself on displaying each artists' newest and best work for sale.

Mississippi Mud Studios in Maquoketa, IA has recently completed a construction of a new gas kiln. Two new exhibitors have also joined the fold, Scott Steder, a professor at the University of Wisconsin at Platteville, and Joan Gasper Hart from Bellevue, IA. Joan and her husband, Brian, have just opened a gallery and pottery studio across from Lock and Dam No. 12.

Tour goers are responsible for getting from one stop to another, going at whatever pace fits their schedule. The annual tour is free. A map of the studios, information about the artists, and more are available at TwentyDirtyHands.com. ■

VEILED BEAUTY, 2017 BY HENRY MATTHIESSEN III

Community Day and Regional Art Exhibitions

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 28 @ 10 AM-6 PM

DUBUQUE MUSEUM OF ART (701 LOCUST ST)

Celebrate the bounty of fall, the power of community, and the opening of new exhibitions at the Dubuque Museum of Art on Saturday, Oct. 28 at 10 a.m.-6 p.m. The day includes family architecture workshops, artist and author conversations, and a block party. Admission is free with donation of a non-perishable food item to the Dubuque Food Pantry.

Community Day begins with a children's architecture workshop with Az Rashidi and Paul Schulhof, the architects designing the new museum campus. Participants will share their ideas for the new museum with Az and Paul and build their own models that describe their vision.

At 1 p.m., join Long Time Passing artists Roberta Condon and Lorraine Ortner-Blake inside the Falb Family Gallery for a conversation with Beth Hoffman, author of Bet the Farm. The three women will discuss the changing rural landscape, the struggles and joys of life on the farm, and how their experiences inspire their art.

At 3 p.m., artist Katie Schutte will discuss Distorted Recollections in the Kris Mozena McNamer Gallery.

The afternoon culminates with a block party from 4 to 6 p.m. on 7th Street that includes food trucks, a community workshop with Schulhof and Rashidi, live music by Joie Booth Wails, and autumnal décor from local farmers.

Long Time Passing: A Visual Chronicle of Farm Life in the Midwest, Past and Present

On display Oct. 21-Feb. 4, Long Time Passing is both a celebration of regional talent and an elegy for rural communities. In this joint exhibition, works by Roberta Condon and Lorraine Ortner-Blake evoke the stories, memories, shapes, and colors of Midwestern farm life. The title is drawn from the song "Where Have All the Flowers Gone" by Pete Seeger, which similarly evokes a sense of inexorable change and lamentation for what has been lost.

The Wisconsin-based artists use different visual languages in their respective 26 works to communicate the subtle and readily apparent shifts in farm life. Ortner-Blake's paintings are rooted in her mother's and her own reminiscences of life on their family farm. DuMA is the final stop of Long Time Passing, which has toured throughout the Midwest over the past three years.

Distorted Recollections: Paper, Paint and Fiber Works by Katie Schutte

On display Oct. 28-Feb. 11, Katie Schutte is a Wisconsin-based artist who uses a wide variety of techniques to explore the vagaries of memory. For the 15 works on view in the gallery, Schutte sprayed paint over and through antique, vintage, and artist-made crocheted doilies, then stitched and crocheted found fibers onto the substrate. In the process, the hand-made doilies—themselves a vestige of an earlier time—are reconfigured and remade. Outside the Museum, Schutte installed two additional works: Barn Doily on the exterior of the building and Recursive on DuMA's grounds.

Rural Life: Dubuque Camera Club Annual Exhibition

On display Oct. 21-Feb. 4, 65 photographs, from over 120 submitted by Camera Club members, were selected for an exhibition that showcases a range of perspectives on rural life around the region. Some photos highlight the compositional rigor of fields of crops, others the melancholy tinge of harvest, still others portraits of the Midwesterners that call this area home. The Dubuque Camera Club is a local group open to photo enthusiasts of all skill levels.

LIVE AT HERITAGE CENTER
 PERFORMING ARTS SERIES

The Good Doctor

NOVEMBER 2-4 @ 7:30 PM
NOVEMBER 5 @ 2 PM

UNIVERSITY OF DUBUQUE
HERITAGE CENTER BABKA THEATRE
 (2255 BENNETT ST)

The Good Doctor is a series of stand-alone scenes based on the short stories of the great Russian playwright and storyteller Anton Chekhov. See the University of Dubuque's Department of Fine and Performing Arts' performance on Nov. 2-4 at 7:30 p.m. and Nov. 5 at 2 p.m. at University of Dubuque Heritage Center Babka Theatre.

Dramatized by the American playwright Neil Simon, each scene is a look at a moment in life that could be very mundane—an accidental sneeze at the theater, pulling a tooth, falling in love, or finding the perfect birthday gift for your son—and turns it into a ridiculous, tender, or bizarre comment on the human condition. This sometimes touching, often hilarious show is a celebration of the folly and tenderness of being human. Come to the show for the laughs, and maybe find your own inspiration in the mundane along the way.

The production will be directed by Michelle Blanchard, adjunct professor of theatre.

"I am thrilled to be working with the University of Dubuque community to present this play. There is a wonderful group of students from a variety of backgrounds involved in the show, and each of them brings something different to the performance. After only a few rehearsals, I am so excited to get to work with this group on this hilarious piece," Blanchard said.

Due to adult content, this show is not recommended for children under 13. Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for children and students. Tickets can be purchased at the Heritage Center Farber Box Office; by phone at 563-585-SHOW; or online at DBQ.edu/heritagecenter. ■

Galena Shakespeare Festival: Macbeth

OCTOBER 13-15, 20-22, AND 27-28 @ 8 PM
THE IRISH COTTAGE FAIRY RING
(9853 U.S. 20, GALENA, IL)

Galena Shakespeare Festival thrusts you into a nightmarish world of passion, perversion, and dark romance in its immersive outdoor production of Shakespeare's horror masterpiece Macbeth.

Presented in the natural amphitheater of The Irish Cottage's historic Fairy Ring on Oct. 13-15, 20-22, and 27-28 at 8 p.m.

You are invited into the mythic circle of stone and fire to experience a sadistic ritual from the ancient past, honoring the great legendary butcher king Macbeth and his savage, sensual sorceress queen. No longer content to be the old king's beast of the battlefield, Macbeth embarks on a murderous quest for greatness... spurred on by his animalistic love for his wife. Ritual sacrifice, black magic, and a battle to the death are only the beginning.

Galena Shakespeare Festival's cruel, kinky, occult Macbeth will leave you breathless and begging for more.

The outdoor cash bar will be open from 7:30 p.m. until 5 minutes before start time and again during intermission. Also, before or after the performance, enjoy drinks and dinner indoors at Frank O'Dowd's Irish Pub.

Be warned: This experience includes vivid depictions of violence, assault, and deeply morally ambiguous behavior.

Tickets are $25 and can be purchased at GalenaShakes.com or in cash at the door. For more information, call 954-593-8796 or visit GalenaShakes.com. ■

JDIFF Halloween "Boo" Parade

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21 @ 7 PM
LOCUST STREET, 7TH TO 16TH STREET

The JDIFF Halloween Parade is set for 7 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 21 with a new route. This year, the parade will run straight down Locust Street, from 7th Street to 16th Street.

"This route allows us to avoid turns—logistically it's a better setup and easier for spectators as well," said Susan Gorrell, executive director of Julien Dubuque International Film Festival (JDIFF). "We are so excited to bring back the Halloween parade for a second year."

JDIFF organizers reincarnated the Halloween parade in 2022 after Dubuque had no community Halloween parade for several years.

As a nod to the film festival, cash prizes are offered for floats, bands and walking groups with film-themed submissions. Judges will be on-site mid-way through the route.

"Film is such a great theme for Halloween festivities—there are so many genres and ways to be creative," Gorrell said. "Last year we saw great entries based on movies like Ghostbusters and Coco. We can't wait to see what everyone comes up with."

The parade is free to attend. Register your float, organization, band, or walking group by Oct. 16. For registration and more information, visit julienfilmfest.com/2023-boo-parade.

The Julien Dubuque International Film Festival is set for April 24-28, 2024, in downtown Dubuque. The festival, which is in its 13th year, has been named one of the Top 50 Film Festivals Worth the Entry Fee by MovieMaker Magazine for over five years and is consistently ranked one of the Top 100 Best Reviewed Festivals on FilmFreeway. ## Dark Chambers Haunted Attraction

OCTOBER 13-14, 19-21, 26-29, AND 31

LIGHT FRIGHT @ 6-7 PM

FULL SCARE @ 7-11 PM

1341 FRONTAGE RD, KIELER, WI

Dark Chambers, the Tri-States' most exciting haunted attraction experience is already open for business and scaring the pants of kids of all ages just across the river in Kiel, WI. With all the thrill and chills you love, dark turns and terrifying sights that will get your heart pounding, it's time to get your friends and anyone else you think will help you make it out and come test your mortality inside the Chambers. Future dates for the haunted attraction include October 13-14, 19-21, 26-29, and 31. A $5 Light Fright opportunity for younger kids and the thin-skinned runs 6-7 p.m. each night. A $15 Full Scare event follows at 7-11 p.m.

Even as the only real haunt game in town, these guys and ghouls never rest on their past successes. They have been doing this for so many years now simply because they love doing it and it shows.

"The crew is so ambitious that every season they want to tear half of it apart and rebuild it again," says head haunter, Trent Johnson. "And I'm like, the reason I bought this was so that we could have some inside stuff we don't have to take down and put back up all the time, but they just always want to do something new, which, of course, leads to a haunt that's always fresh and better, so I can't argue with that. The kids and groups of young ladies are easy to scare. But if I can scare Dad, that's a special kind of success, because if the kids see dad is scared, they're even more scared."

Dress for the weather, and on super busy nights there may be a wait. That's where the $25 Fast Pass sure comes in handy. There are few Halloween traditions as near and dear to peoples' hearts as a good haunted house, so let's show Trent and the crew how much we appreciate their hard work, year in and year out, and really pack this place for the next couple of weeks. You're going to love it! Well, most of you will!

Light Fright is $5, Full Scare is $15, and Fast Passes are $25. For more information, find "Dark Chambers Haunted Attraction" on Facebook. ■

Vesperman Farms Fall Season

NOW THROUGH OCTOBER 29

VESPERMAN FARMS

(8149 STAGE RD, LANCASTER, WI)

Vesperman Farms' landmark 20th anniversary year is in full swing, located just outside of Lancaster, WI. The fall season runs from now through Oct. 29. Week-day hours are noon-7 p.m., Saturday 10 a.m.-7 p.m., and Sunday 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

There are always new amenities on the farm, adding to a selection of choices that will make your head spin. If you and your kids can't find things that you like to do here, then you clearly don't know how to have a good time! There are hay wagon rides out to the famous pumpkin patch, where you can pick your own pumpkin. Or you can stop by the retail area for pre-picked pumpkins and gourds. The pumpkin cannon and trebuchet that get fired every hour are always fun to see. Kids can ride the popular ziplines, run up and down Tire Mountain, compete in duck races, enjoy new giant slides, ride the wagon train, and pose

The biggest new thing on the farm is the biggest investment they've ever made. Last year they moved a historic century-old round barn to the grounds, and this year, it's a great place to sit and eat with a new food stand there next to it featuring pretzels, nachos, pulled pork, mac and cheese, soda, and more.

Live farm animals are always a huge reason to visit Vesperman, and no, we didn't forget the corn maze. One of the biggest in the Midwest, it's always a marvel to see and then to attempt as a visitor. There's also a little corn maze for the smaller tykes. This year's 20th anniversary design is pretty fantastic.

The already-famous homemade ice cream is featured in the dining barn, plus apple cider donuts, caramel apples, and kettle corn are seasonal must-haves. And thanks to the giant catering kitchen, you can also get burgers, dogs, and fries, hot and fresh. It's all made there to-order, including really good chicken strips from scratch.

The whole farm is open and running at full steam every afternoon, but most amenities are also available everyday.

"We're hoping to see somewhere around 23,000 visitors here in the next six weeks," says proprietor, Kyle Vesperman. "It's a fun gig," Kyle says. "You're dealing with families. You're dealing with people who are here to have a good time!"

Admission is $14.49 per person and ages 4 and younger are free. Day passes purchased online are just $12.49, and season passes are available online for $29.99. Parking is free. You can also call 608-723-2542 for group rates and special times by appointment. Find more at VespermanFarms.com or follow them on Facebook. ■

Pulido's Tacos

Story by Danny Fairchild

As I've said before, I don't like describing cuisine as "authentic." I think "traditional" is the better word to use. Yes, foods have their own history, and that should be honored, but foods have a present and future, too. Foods change even in the geographical region they originate. And that's a good thing. Who wants to cook in the missionary position all their life? Calling an older version "authentic" and not a newer version denies cuisine's ability to change and grow. And that's a bad thing.

That said, it's just semantics. When people say their food is "authentic," I think most people hear "traditional." And as far as I'm concerned, if Pulido's Tacos, a new taco truck prowling around Galena, IL, keeps making food this good, they can describe their food any way they want.

The Pulido family describes their food as "Authentic & Fresh," and I have absolutely no guff with that. Especially since Pulido's Tacos offers both traditional street tacos AND American-style tacos. What? Are you going to call American-style tacos "inauthentic"? Shut up, you sound like a hipster jerk. It's not even a hot take, you just sound like an ass. You don't get to be the taco gatekeeper here. The Pulido Family claims to have "carefully preserved the traditions of Mexico" with their cuisine. If you think they can't possibly do that while offering a version of a taco with sour cream on it, then that tells me one thing: You haven't tried their food yet.

Do it. This cute little taco truck is a gem. A treasure. A welcome alternative to waiting for a table in a claustrophobic restaurant in downtown Galena (as much as I love them).

I caught up with Pulido's Tacos out by the Galena Walmart. So, I didn't even have to drive clear across town to get to them from Dubuque. They're often stationed there, but their Facebook page is the best place to find out where they're going to be on a given day.

I did a bit of a test with my food. I ordered one of each kind of available street taco and a torta. I also got some chips and queso. I taste tested everything while it was fresh, right from the comfort of my car. Then I made the half-hour drive home and tried them again to see how they would travel. What follows are my results.

First of all, I'm going to sing the praises of the torta. We white people need to stop sleeping on tortas. Tortas are Mexican sandwiches, and they're wonderful. Sure, we can have the conversation as to whether or not a taco is always a sandwich. That's always fun, and I can argue either side. But nobody can argue that a Mexican torta is NOT a sandwich. It's served on a bolillo roll for one thing, which is about as far from a flatbread like a tortilla as you can get. Bolillo bread is most comparable to a baguette. And who doesn't love a sandwich made from a baguette? Sad people, probably. Bolillo has the structure to hold up to wetter ingredients while adding a yeasty toothiness. And it feels so good and hearty in your hand. While a tortilla wraps the filling, a torta contains the filling. And you can fill it with pretty much anything you would put on a taco. The same meats Pulido's makes for their tacos are also the same meats they make for their tortas. If you don't believe that tacos are sandwiches, then think of a torta as a taco sandwich. I got myself the torta al pastor. Pastor is spit-grilled strips of pork, carved off kind of like gyro meat. Delish. So damn good. Pulido's left a back hinge of the bolillo roll connected so I could pick it up without getting too messy. I still wouldn't drive down the street while trying to eat it, but when people talk about "crushing a sandwich," tortas are among the most crushable. Just get your face up in there, and take a huge damn bite. It's wonderful. Oh! And by the time I got home, set everything on the counter, got distracted by something shiny, got some work done around the house, and finally made my way back to the torta, it was still solid. Not a mooshy mess like one would justly assume. No surprise there. That's just what tortas do. So wake up, my fellow honkies. We've ignored tortas in favor of tacos for FAR too long.

That's not to say that tacos don't deserve all the attention heaped on them. They deserve it all. I'm not saying you should turn your back on ANY taco. I'm just saying give tortas a chance, you fools.

On my adventure to scope out Pulido's, the chorizo was already all gone. I'm somewhat of a chorizo connoisseur, but I can't speak to Pulido's chorizo because again... all gone. But I think it's sufficient to say that Pulido's chorizo is so good it sells out within a few hours. So, get there earlier than I did. But I DID get to sample the steak, pastor, and chicken street tacos. If you DO miss out on the chorizo, you won't be disappointed with any of the other options.

They came served double-tortilla and open-faced in a styrofoam clamshell, lime wedges ready to be put to use. Plus, it comes with those cute little plastic ramekins of both green and red salsa so you have a choice or can mix and match. Such fun to play dress-up with your food, isn't it?

And it's all so good! The chicken was moist and beautifully shredded to allow for easy bites. The pastor was probably my favorite and am glad I had it on my torta too because I can't get enough of it. The steak taco was right on. Easy, flavorful bites. And they all have such a brightness of flavor even before you mess with limes and salsa. Throw those into the mix and you have three street tacos worthy of the word "authentic" or "traditional" or whatever well-meant adjective you can conjure. So good! And, true to their roots, the tacos also traveled pretty well. The tortillas remained in tact and structural enough to get all that yum to your mouth incident-free even after getting them home.

And don't forget the chips and salsa. Oh! And queso. 'K, so, the queso is exactly what you want from a queso at your favorite Mexican restaurant. But 'cept this is at a taco truck where you have no right to expect such a thing. Expect it, yo.

So yeah. There's a taco truck sweeping the Galena area that deserves to be recognized and sought after throughout the Tri-States. More importantly, there's a taco truck in the area that you likely haven't tried yet. That can't stand. Get yourself to Pulido's. They're good people with great food. ■

Dietitian-Approved Pantry Staples—Fall Edition!

By Hy-Vee Nutritionist Megan Dalsing

It is back-to-school time, and many of us have fallen back into busy schedules. As we are crunched for time, it is more important than ever to have pantry staples on hand for quick and easy meals, snacks, and ways to stay hydrated! Packing your pantry full of supplies for quick family meals and nutrient-dense snacks can be key to staying on track with your meal plan this fall and bringing your family back to the dinner table for National Family Meals Month. Hy-Vee registered dietitians can help you pull those family meals, snacks and hydration solutions together with our top five fall pantry staples.

Top 5 Dietitian-Approved Pantry Staples

1. Siete Family Foods: Siete Family Foods has a wide variety of pantry-staple products, including chip options that can be great for a snack with dip, as part of a taco or burrito bowl, or crunched on top of your favorite soup or chili. Another benefit is that all of their products are gluten-free and dairy-free—making them a perfect option for those with dietary restrictions!
2. Canned Pumpkin: Pumpkin contains fiber, iron, and vitamins K and E. Pumpkin also provides vitamin A, which is important for eye health. Using canned pumpkin is a great way to add these nutrients to chili, soup, spreads, and even baked goods.
3. Wild Rice: Wild rice is another source of dietary fiber, which is important for healthy digestion and blood sugar management. But it is also packed with important nutrients including potassium, vitamin B6, magnesium, iron, and even protein. You can find wild rice in both dry and pre-cooked forms. Substitute it for white or brown rice or add to soups, casseroles, or stuffed peppers for a more nutrient-dense option!

4. Canned Chicken: Pre-cooked chicken is a great time and money saver and can be added to salads, soups, your secret family chili recipe, nachos, and more! Chicken is a quality lean protein option that is a source of vitamin B6. Look for chicken that is canned or packaged in water. If you are focusing on managing your blood pressure, you can also look for reduced-sodium options.
5. Liquid I.V. Hydration Multiplier Sugar-Free: Hydration is an equally important component to your balanced diet, and having Liquid I.V. Hydration Multiplier Sugar-Free can help encourage more water consumption. Liquid I.V.'s Sugar-Free product has no sugar but is also free of artificial sweeteners, as it is sweetened with a proprietary amino acid allulose blend. It contains five essential vitamins and minerals that support your immune system and hydration status. Enjoy three fun flavors that can be packed for on-the-go hydration or can be easily sipped on at home, just add Liquid I.V. to 16oz. of water!

Last but not least, keep an inventory of what you have in your pantry and keep it updated to avoid stocking up on duplicates you won't be able to get to before the expiration. This will make it much easier to throw together a quick and nutritious meal and save money by avoiding food waste! Check out the Chicken Sheet Tray Nachos recipe below for a fun way to use some of your pantry staples. To shorten the preparation time even more, you can substitute canned chicken for the chicken thighs. ■

3 Simple Rules for a Prosperous Life

The Guide to Not Living in Your Mom's Basement

By Matt Booth

Hello young folks, life is chock-full of decisions! From debating whether to wear mismatched socks and shorts in the winter to agonizing over texting your ex (a hard pass), choices are everywhere! However, making the right choices is vital for achieving success and avoiding the pitfalls of life, such as poverty. Based on research by the Brookings Institution, three pivotal rules offer a solid foundation for a prosperous life.

Your 3 Golden Tickets Out of Struggleville

1. Snag That High School Diploma. No diploma equals fewer dollars. You don't need to be Einstein to figure that out!
2. Bag a Full-Time Gig. Having a job means you can afford those fries... and maybe even super-size it!
3. Wait to Put a Ring on It (and Make Babies). Love is grand but so is not having to split a Happy Meal three ways.

The nerds over at the Brookings Institution crunched some numbers, and guess what? If you stick to these three rules, you've got a measly 2% chance of hitting poverty and a whopping 75% shot at being middle-class or better. Not bad, eh?

You see, every choice you make is like a coin toss that doesn't land on its edge (that only happens in superhero movies). And while not every bad decision results in a spandex-clad nemesis, the more lives your choice touches, the trickier the fix if you goof up.

Hey, you're not too young to get this! Understanding these choices now could mean the difference between driving a Lambo or a lawnmower when you're 30. And let's give a high-five to anyone who's preaching these good decision-making vibes to the teens!

Sure, we're all different—some people enjoy pineapple on pizza, and others are sane. But no matter your tastes, these three life rules are a good jumping-off point to avoid living off instant noodles for the foreseeable future. ■

Movie Buzz

Per a report in The Wall Street Journal, Netflix is looking at raising prices yet again after the SAG-AFTRA actors' strike ends. Currently, Netflix's ad-free standard plan costs $15.49. This follows the company cracking down on password sharing last month. No word yet on how big of a jump is in store.

N

Now that the writers' strike is over, Marvel Studios is reportedly gearing up to begin taking pitches for its first X-Men movie this fall. The movie has no date yet, but Disney is apparently eager to get the mutants back in theaters. The X-Men were last featured in Dark Phoenix, in 2019.

The long-troubled reboot of Blade, starring Mahershala Ali as the titular Daywalker and vampire hunter, has hit another snag. While the movie was announced in 2019, they've never been able to lock down a script, and after four separate writers have taken cracks at it, Marvel has called for a page-one rewrite. That February 2025 release doesn't look too likely anymore.

This year's OceanGate submersible tragedy is being turned into a feature film by independent studio MindRiot. The movie will reportedly cover periods before, during, and after the five-day saga that claimed five lives in an attempt to explore the ruins of the Titanic this past June. Too soon?

Blumhouse Productions brought back Halloween with a wildly successful trilogy, and they've started another new trilogy with Exorcist: Believer. Blumhouse executive Ryan Turek says they've already set their sights on their next project: Reviving Friday the 13th. Says Turek, "You don't need too many ingredients for a Friday the 13th film. You need summer camp, you need campers, and you need Jason Voorhees in a mask." Jason hasn't been seen on screen since 2009.

Musk Redux

By John McAndrew

Errol Musk to his son Elon as he left South Africa for college in Canada: “You’ll never be successful.”

“You can feel whatever you want about Elon’s behavior, but there is no one in our time who has done more to push the bounds of science and innovation than he has.” Bill Gates.

That Elon Musk, man. Whew.

Walter Isaacson—author of bestselling biographies of Steve Jobs, Benjamin Franklin, and many other books, and the former managing editor of Time and CEO of CNN—knows a newsmaker when he sees one. He shadowed Elon Musk for two years. He had access to his family and many employees and friends during a tumultuous period in Musk’s life. Walter must be exhausted; Musk works day and night, slamming Red Bulls and Ambien, and sometimes sleeps under his desk or on his factory floor.

Isaacson writes in a compulsively readable just-the-facts style. Occasionally he launches a popper, and you may take a short break to chortle over what he said and how he said it. It’s a gentle reminder that someone gifted, who doesn’t need to show off, is writing.

This is a good thing because his subject is both controversial—people loathe this man—and complex. If you spend any time on social media, you will find diehard fans who will not tolerate any criticism of Tesla, SpaceX, or Musk himself and people who would spit on the ground he walks on. Both devotees and detractors will find support for their views here.

Elon Musk is not an easy man to like or be with, whether as wife, employee, family member, or friend. He had a very rough childhood—not uncommon for a socially awkward child, with or without Asperger’s. He was once beaten to a pulp by classmates, and his father took their side instead of comforting his son. (Musk’s father is not so complicated. He is not a nice man.) Musk misses social cues, can be wildly insensitive and immature, and, like his parents, he courts risk and drama. The most inhospitable environment for him is when everything is going well.

He thrives on crisis and pressure and uses that to push his employees to do the impossible—sometimes breaking them in the process. He drives all of his businesses to the edge of bankruptcy or failure. PayPal was plagued by tons of unaddressed fraud; SpaceX had three failed launches and may have gone under if the fourth had not gone well. Tesla was near bankruptcy, and its board gave Musk an ultimatum: Meet these nearly impossible benchmarks and become rich beyond imagining or fail to meet them and get paid exactly $0. And now Twitter/X, for which he impulsively overpaid, is bleeding advertisers and users.

Additionally, the Boring Company has ground to a halt, Solar City’s prospects are cloudy at best, and Tesla’s much-ballyhooed full self driving feature remains a dream. Or a fraud.

People forget that Tesla’s Model 3 sold more than every other luxury car combined, gas or electric. And that SpaceX not only returned the US to space but sent more cargo and astronauts to space than any other country.

Musk continues to drive innovation in each of these industries. On the same day in 2014 that NASA awarded SpaceX a contract, NASA gave a competing contract—worth 40% more—to Boeing. By the time SpaceX had successfully launched in 2020, Boeing was still ground bound. Now, SpaceX is launching new Starlink satellites almost monthly, providing internet to hard-to-reach areas of the world and embroiling Musk and his company in geopolitical crises like Putin’s war against Ukraine.

Meanwhile, Tesla is not only selling tons of electric cars but is revolutionizing the way cars are manufactured. Tesla sees cars as not just hardware but software too. Tesla owners watch software updates make their cars better than when they first bought them. Stainless steel Cybertrucks have been spotted on the streets in recent months. There are rumors of a $25,000 commuter vehicle the works. And the Tesla charging network is becoming the de facto American Charging Standard, with GM, Ford, Nissan, and others planning to adopt it for their new EVs—creating a new revenue stream for Tesla.

The old saw about not wanting to know how laws and sausages are made holds with any Musk business: It’s going to be ugly, but it may change everything about that industry. Musk said it would take at least five years to turn around Twitter/X. He wants to end its bot infestation and make it the place where online identities are verified and banking is done. If past performance predicts future developments, expect Twitter to get at least very close to bankruptcy before its rebirth. Right now, bots and misinformation have the run of the place, and competitors are proliferating.

Musk adores his family—wives, friends, mother, and kids (10 and counting). He embraces his experiences of losing, seeing them as evidence of pushing limits—and boundaries. His errors in judgment are sometimes small and human, sometimes grandly disastrous.

Love or loathe him, he’s changing our a world that fears and resists change. Isaacson’s book is just a start at getting a handle on this intense, chaotic world mover. ■

MOVE OVER, STEVE!

DIY ADVICE

FROM A MOM WHO KNOWS HOW

BY SARA CARPENTER

STEVE'S HOME + ACE GARDEN

Fire Won't Wait. Plan Your Escape.

October is Fire Prevention Month! The goal of Fire Prevention Month (and the week of Oct. 8-14) is to raise fire safety awareness and help ensure your home and family are protected. Home fires are the most common type of emergency which can cause injuries, death, and extensive property damage within minutes of breaking out. Home fires occur every day across the country, but we can take steps to prepare and mitigate the impact, in the event of a fire.

Fire Prevention Week and Month is the perfect time to raise awareness, educate, and talk with your family about whole home fire safety—including testing alarms, changing the batteries, using a fire extinguisher, and reviewing the escape route plan.

Did You Know?

- 3 of every 5 home fire deaths resulted from fires with no working smoke alarms
- Less than 50% of homeowners have an escape plan*
- Carbon monoxide (CO) is the #1 cause of accidental poisoning in the US
- 60% of consumers do not test their smoke and CO alarms monthly*
- Only 47% of people report having CO alarms in their home
- Unattended cooking is the #1 cause of home fires

Steve's Ace urges you to practice whole home safety, so you and your family are prepared not only during Fire Prevention Week and Month but throughout the entire year. It is important to have properly functioning smoke and carbon monoxide detectors installed throughout your home as it is the first line of defense for fire prevention. These devices are intended to work around the clock to provide your family an early alert in the event of an emergency, helping to provide you time to safely escape.

Smoke and CO alarms should be placed on every level of the home, including the basement, as well as inside and outside each bedroom to keep your home and family safe. Fire extinguishers should also be placed on every level of the home, especially in the kitchen and garage.

Top Tips for Fire Safety

- Install smoke alarms and CO alarms on every level of your home, inside bedrooms, and outside sleeping areas.
- Test smoke alarms every month.
- Replace batteries every 6-12 months.
- Create, discuss, and practice a fire escape plan (establish a family meeting spot)
- In the event of a house fire, it is crucial to close doors when evacuating to prevent smoke and flames from traveling further.
- If a fire occurs in your home, GET OUT, STAY OUT, and CALL FOR HELP.

All October, families should embrace opportunities to learn about better ways to prevent fires, including methods such as inspecting your heat sources, maintaining your electrical cords, and updating your smoke alarms. Don't forget to clean those dryer vents; replace old space heaters with new ones that turn off automatically when overheated or tipped; have your furnace, fireplace, and chimney professionally inspected and cleaned each year; and limit overuse of extension cords beyond their intended functionality which can cause wear and lead to frayed, exposed wires that can potentially start a fire.

Not sure what fire safety products to use for your home? Stop by Steve's Ace and speak with one of our associates for recommendations on some of the top brands to protect your family and your home.

Angela's
Awesome Advice

DEAR ANGELA,

I've got a confession to make, I hate autumn activities. Corn mazes are dumb and boring. Sure, they look cute in the aerial photos, but being in one? It's just a bunch of wandering around! I dread choosing an outfit for the pumpkin patch, no matter the temperature I'll get it wrong. If I wear a sweater, I'm sweating, but if I wear short sleeves, I'm too cold! You can't even pick the apples at most orchards any more, and apple cider donuts are super overrated. Please help me with some excuses on what to say to get out of these miserable experiences.

—Fed up with Fall

DEAR FED UP,

I get it, there's no way you can bemoan these beloved activities. No mere mortal can stop the tide of pumpkin spice, and there is no denying the joy that some folks have meandering aimlessly through the drab brown passageways with lots of dead ends and no real reward at the end. I can see why you feel the need to hide your hatred. I think the best course of action is to go really big in your excuses. Perhaps you witnessed a murder in a corn maze? Your grandmother died from a sudden severe apple allergy, and now you are terrified of apple trees? Even the sight of pumpkins make you gag so you can't be anywhere near them? Otherwise you'll need to plaster on a fake smile and start sweating as you drink that pumpkin spice latte in 70 degree weather.

DEAR ANGELA,

My BFF and I recently got into a fight. We went out for a fun evening, and the local band played a mediocre version of "Ruby Tuesday," which got us chatting about the Rolling Stone's new album which lead to a whole conversation about the first Lady Gaga album. She swore that it was called The Fame Monster, but that was actually her sophomore effort. I corrected her and explained that actually her first album was The Fame, however several of the songs are featured on both the first and second albums. Once I shared this, she blew up at me, spouting a bunch of complaints about how I'm always correcting her and bringing the party down! It's been about two months, and she still isn't returning my calls or texts. I just think that knowing the correct information is important. Please tell me I'm right and she is wrong.

—Correct on Carter

DEAR CORRECT,

I think you know that I absolutely cannot tell you that you are right! Sometimes friendship is more important than facts. But in this case, that's not even the real problem. Your problem is that in spite of having SOME facts, you failed to recall that Stephani Germanotta—Lady Gaga's birth name—wrote and released the album Red and Blue three whole years before The Fame was released. You need to apologize. Call your friend, admit that you were both wrong and I was right.

DEAR ANGELA,

I work in a job that requires me to travel a lot, and sometimes I'm gone over the weekend. It really irritates me when my wife goes out and has a good time with her friends. She will even send me photos of her having fun dancing or grabbing a bite to eat. Last weekend, she went out to eat at my favorite restaurant! Can you give me a script for what to say to explain how what she is doing isn't fair?
—Jealous on James Street

DEAR JEALOUS,

Honestly, no one should ever have any fun, especially without you! Next time I go out for drinks, I'll be sure to check and see if you're available. If not, I'll just stay home. Just tell her to stay cooped up at home when you aren't around because you can't bear the thought of her having a life without you. I'm sure it will go over well!
